RUSSIAN EXILES KISS HAND OF 'CZAR' IN PARIS

3,000 Pay Homage to Grand Duke Cyril.

The Russian Situation

MOSCOW.—Prof. Leonid Ramain, on trial with seven others as conspirators against Russia, tells court that two French officers had pledged to send an army from Poland and the Baltic states, aided by an English fleet, to overthrow the soviet union in the summer of 1930. Page 11.

PARIS, Nov. 30.—A sad faced aristocrat, with a nose that never could have belonged to anybody but a Romanoff, is on his way back to his modest bungalow in Brittany after spending an afternoon at a dress rehearsal of being emperor of "all the Russians." And scattered throughout France several thousand taxi drivers, porters, and gigolos, who formerly were officers in the imperial Russian army, tonight are more pickled than caviar in anticipation of the day when they will be able to take up arms for "God and the czar."

There are plenty of them, these chauffeurs with titles that run half across a page, and gigolos with medals won under fire, who believe that the day of deliverance is close at hand. As the sinister rumbles in Moscow grow more convincing daily they are polishing the mud of Crimea and Siberia off their worn boots, and saving tips to get their swords out of hock.

Kiss Hand of the Duke.

That is the reason the Russian exiles in Paris today staged the biggest monarchist demonstration since the fall of the Romanoffs and put on their Sunday best to kiss the hand of Grand Duke Cyril whom they call "your majesty" and "the czar."

The reunion fell out of a clear sky. Somehow the word spread around that Cyril, his wife, Grand Duchess Victoria, accompanied by the latter's sister, Dowager Queen Marie of Rumania, were taking the afternoon off from exile on the bleak coast of Brittany, which they leave only once or twice a year. The day started with a secret military review of young Russian organizations by the chubby 13 year old "czarevitch," otherwise Grand Duke Vladimir, and was climaxed by a reception at Salle Diena, almost next door to the home of the American ambassador.

3,000 Exiles Salute.

There the imperial family, gloomy Cyril, Gabriel Alexander, and husky little Vladimir, bearing the same unmistakable Romanoff features, and the stately Victoria Feoderovna, who resembles her sister, Marie, lined up in front of a row of Russian imperial flags and graciously received the homage of their "subjects."

Nearly 3,000 Russians came to salute their sovereigns, the men bowing over jeweled fingers with easy Tartar grace and the women making queer little curtseys.

Most of the guests were dressed in formal tea gowns and cutaway coats, but one saw silk hats lifted respectfully and shabby gray suits and monocles bending over hands that obviously had been washing dishes a couple of hours before.

Talk of "The Great Day."

The bright salons of the meeting hall were densely packed with chattering throngs milling around tables or waiting their turn to salute the imperial family. Only guttural Slavic accents were heard, but one did not need any knowledge of Russian to realise that there was only one subject for conversation—"the great day," when it would come, and how it would feel to be back in Russia looking over the sights of rifles at the hated Red leaders.

Many of the guests wore picturesque uniforms of Russian generals and colonels, and the place was ablaze with medals and decorations of all sorts.

Cyril and his brothers looked worried and uneasy, but Victoria had a gracious smile for everybody and chatted easily with the ladies of "her

71ST CONGRESS OPENS TODAY IN FINAL SESSION

Gavels of Houses to Fall at Noon.

BY ARTHUR CRAWFORD.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 30.—[Special.]—Gavels will fall at noon tomorrow in the senate and house as the Seventy-first congress swings into its final session.

The opening ceremonies will be of a routine character in both branches. Members elected to fill vacancies will be sworn in and committees will be named to wait on President Hoover to inform him that congress is in session. Vice President Curtis will be in the chair in the senate and Speaker Longworth in the house.

The real business of the session will commence on Tuesday when President Hoover's annual message is transmitted. The President will not go to the capitol, but will send his message to be read in the two houses by reading clerks.

Motor Bus Bill Up.

As soon as the President's message is out of the way, the senate will be ready to turn its attention to legislation. The motor bus bill, which was passed by the house last session, is the unfinished business in the senate and its sponsors will commence immediate effort to get it out of the way. Also scheduled for early action in the senate are numerous recess appointments made by President Hoover since congress adjourned last July.

The house plans to settle down to business on Wednesday after President Hoover's budget message is presented. As soon as the budget is officially before congress the house appropriations committee will report the first of the annual appropriation bills. This bill will provide funds for the treasury and postoffice departments. The appropriations committee has had advance information on budget requests for several of the departments for the last two weeks and not only has completed the treasury and postoffice bill, but is about ready to report the interior department bill, and will be ready with the department of agriculture bill within ten days. It is planned to have the house pass all of these three bills and also a deficiency bill in the three weeks before congress recesses for the Christmas holidays.

Appropriation Bills First.

Appropriations will have the right of way over all other legislation in the house. The last of the annual supply bills will be out of the house by early in February. The senate may dispose of the deficiency bill before the holidays and will act on the regular departmental bills as rapidly as they come over from the house. Both Republican and Democratic leaders are pledged to try to get the entire appropriation program out of the way long enough before March 4 so that they will not be caught in a filibuster designed to force President Hoover to call a special session of the 72d congress in the spring.

The specter of the 72d congress, in which the Republicans and Democrats will be almost equally divided, with the radical Republicans holding the balance of power, will be hanging over the sessions of the 71st congress.

The Republicans, realizing that they will be helpless to control the course of legislation in the next congress, wish to avoid a special session. The Democrats also prefer to have no special session. Only the radicals look forward to an early session of the 72d congress with pleasure.

Democrats Gain Three.

There will be a slight change in party lineups in the present session as a result of elections to fill vacancies. Democrats succeed Republican senators from Ohio, Kentucky, and Kansas. This will reduce the Republican total in the senate from 68 to 65 and increase the Democratic total from 39 to 42. There will continue to be one Farmer-Labor member.

The new Democratic senators will be Robert J. Bulkley of Ohio, who takes the place of Roscoe C. McCulloch [Rep.], who was appointed to fill the Burton vacancy and then defeated for reelection; Ben Williamson of Kentucky, who takes the place of John M. Robsion [Rep.], who was appointed to fill the Sackett vacancy and defeated for reelection; and George McGill of Kansas, who takes the place of Henry Allen, who was appointed to fill the Curtis vacancy and defeated for reelection.

Other new senators will be Dwight W. Morrow of New Jersey, who will replace David Baird; James J. Davis of Pennsylvania, who will replace Joseph R. Grundy; and Robert Carey of Wyoming, who will replace Patrick Sullivan. All of these are Republicans and succeed Republicans.

NEW COLD WAVE TO SWEEP INTO CHICAGO TODAY

A new cold wave was last night sweeping into Chicago from the far northwest, with indications that it would drive the mercury down to 10 degrees above zero by 8 a. m. today and much lower in less favored sections.

J. R. Lloyd, the Chicago weather man, said that temperatures of 10 below zero were expected in parts of Minnesota today and that there would be snow in the upper great lakes region.

The snow probably will miss Chicago, however, with cloudy and much colder weather, which is expected to continue through tomorrow.

A loud whistle on the freighter Brazil drifting helplessly before a northeast wind eight miles off shore in Lake Michigan led to its rescue late yesterday afternoon when the distress calls were heard ashore.

Capt. John O. Anderson of the coast guard put out from the Navy pier with a crew, but found the boat too light to tow the 9,000 ton Brazil and returned to shore and obtained the aid of two tug boats.

Girl Attacked at Rum Party Dies; Five Held

Five men were held by the Gary police last night following the death of Miss Arlene Draves, 18 year old high school graduate of 729 Connecticut street, Gary. All five face charges of murder.

The police arrested the five men at dawn in their homes, where they fled after learning Miss Draves was dead. Three of them had taken her to a physician for revival from a supposed stupor, and he had pronounced her beyond help. One of the five later confessed to the police he had made a criminal assault on Miss Draves during a drinking party. The others admitted trying to attack her during an automobile ride after the first assault.

The police said the girl was probably dead at the time of the automobile ride. Under Indiana law, death following a criminal attack or an attempted attack is first degree murder. An inquest will be held today.

Five Couples at Party.

The party was held Saturday evening in the home of David Thompson, city fireman, at 4022 Monroe street, Gary. Miss Draves was escorted by Virgil Kirkland, 20 years old, 4028 Fillmore street, former football player at the Horace Mann High school in Gary. Others at the party, all of Gary, were Paul Barton, 21 years old, 538 Vermont street, and his wife; Harry A. Shirk, 24 years old, 801 West 6th avenue, son of Fire Captain Joseph Shirk, and his wife; Leon Stanford, 21 years old, 613 Maryland street, and a young woman, unknown to the police.

Thompson, Kirkland, Barton, Shirk, and Stanford are the men held.

Drinks were served at 9 o'clock at the party and flowed in rapid succession, the police were told. Within two hours all the members of the party were intoxicated. Arlene lapsed into unconsciousness.

Attacks Girl on Porch.

Kirkland carried the girl to the back porch for air, he said. He slapped her several times in an effort to revive her. As she lay helpless in his arms he attacked her, he confessed. Then he took her back into the house, still unconscious.

One of the party suggested that the men go for food and take Miss Draves with them for the air. During the ride Kirkland drove the car and his four companions made their attempts to assault the girl.

The men returned to the Thompson home with sandwiches and the party ate while Miss Draves lay on the sofa. Then Kirkland, Stanford and Barton drove her to the home of Dr. R. O. Wharton, 703 Johnson street. Dr. Wharton announced the girl was dead.

The three men dashed out of the physician's home. Dr. Wharton fired two pistol shots after them as they fled. Then he notified the police.

Deputy Coroner Chester Owen examined the body. He found Miss Draves had suffered a head injury and declared the cause of death to be cerebral hemorrhage and shock. He expressed the theory that the girl had been flung to the porch floor during Kirkland's attack, striking her head.

At 3 o'clock Mrs. A. N. Clemens phoned the police and said she had been told her sister, Arlene Draves, had been killed in a fall. She said Kirkland appeared at her home with her sister's coat and told the story. Kirkland was arrested and named his companions.

Miss Draves was graduated from the Emerson High school in Gary last June. She lived with Mrs. Clemens. Her mother is dead and her father, Charles Draves, lives at 266 King street, Gary. Arlene was the youngest of eight children. Another sister, Elsie, teaches school in Gary, and a fourth, Caroline, is employed at the University of Chicago. Three brothers, Carl, Edward and Kenneth, live in Gary. The fourth, Elmer, resides in Chicago.

SALVAGE STEAMERS TOW BURNING SHIP TO PANAMA CANAL PORT

San Francisco, Cal., Nov. 30.—(AP)—The Radio Corporation of America reported tonight the North German Lloyd steamer Ludwigshafen, afire 25 miles south of Cape Mala, Panama, was in tow of the salvage steamers Sciota and Manizales headed for Balboa.

The fire which had broken out in a hold of the Ludwigshafen was reported under control by this time, and members of the crew, who had taken to boats, returned to their vessel.

The distress of the Ludwigshafen interrupted north bound movement through the Panama canal, as vessels which normally would have gone through stood by for possible assistance to the German boat.

'Mother' Jones, Labor Leader, Dies at Age 100

Washington, D. C., Dec. 1.—[Monday.]—(AP)—Mary "Mother" Jones, militant crusader for the rights of the laboring man, died last night at the home in nearby Maryland where she was 100 years old.

Her death occurred at 11:55 p. m. Sunday night. Dr. H. H. Howlett, who was summoned to her bedside soon after, announced early this morning that she had succumbed.

The celebrated labor leader, who had championed the cause of the working man for 60 years, succumbed to the ravages of old age only after her death had been expected a number of times during the last year.

Confined to Bed a Year.

Mother Jones at one time yesterday was believed dead when her heart almost ceased to beat, but the pulse returned.

In her battle against death she had displayed the same indomitable spirit she showed in her labor activities when she refused to be stopped even by militia or governors.

"Mother" Jones, as she was known to union labor men and women all over the country, had been confined to her bed for more than a year, and during the last few months had been unable to take solid food. She lived at the farm home of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Burgess, near Silver Springs.

Mrs. Burgess, just before midnight, saw her friend moving slightly on her bed. Then she lay still. It was the end.

CENTURY OF LABOR.

Mary [Mother] Jones, once an idolized leader of the United Mine Workers of America, was born in Cork, Ireland, in 1830, according to the autobiography she published in 1925. Her father, Robert Harris, a laborer, who, like his daughter, was an agitator for better conditions among working people, migrated to Toronto, Can., when Mary was 7 years of age.

Mother Jones began her career by teaching in a Michigan convent. She taught later in Memphis, Tenn. There she was married to an iron molder, "a stanch member of the iron molders' union." In 1867 the Memphis yellow fever epidemic killed her husband and their four children in one week. She nursed among the stricken until the plague was spent. Then she went to Chicago where she became a dressmaker.

After the great fire of 1871 had wiped out her business, Mother Jones settled down to what was to be her life work—the betterment of working conditions. Her outstanding activity in the east was at the time of the six weeks' hard coal strike in September-October, 1900.

Intense in Expression.

Sometimes she would talk so fiercely on the differences between capital and labor as privately to meet the disapproval of the more conservative leaders. All capitalists who expressed opposition to union labor were characterized by her as "high class burglars." It was one of her favorite expressions.

Child labor in the south enlisted her first efforts as a crusader. As a young woman, she had worked in the cotton mills, an experience of which she later said:

"I wondered that armies did not stand forth to free these slaves. Poor men and women and little children worked from morning to night for bread, nothing but bread, no hope of anything better, only the opportunity to prolong the miserable lives. No wonder that very early in life I determined to wage war for the factory people."

Soon after leaving Chicago Mrs. Jones began to organize women's auxiliaries to labor unions and later affiliated with the United Mine Workers, serving for years as one of its organizers. In subsequent years, however, it was said, she had been a "free

BLAST SHATTERS $400,000 CANAL CRAFT; 2 DYING

U. S. Starts Inquiry; Hunt Racket Clew.

A heavy charge of dynamite or nitroglycerin yesterday morning wrecked the crew's quarters of the $400,000 barge of the Material Service company, plying between Chicago and Lockport, as it was opposite Summit in the canal, headed for its Chicago dock at 34th street and Racine avenue.

The captain of the barge and six others were injured by the blast, two probably fatally. Both federal and state authorities began an investigation of the outrage last night.

The "Secret Six" committee of the Association of Commerce was asked to hunt for clews which might point to racketeers as the perpetrators. Because the vessel is operating in navigable waters under a federal charter the bombing is a crime under federal as well as state statutes, it is said.

Two Reported Near Death.

Charles A. Emburg, cook, 3119 Sheffield avenue, and his assistant, Gunnard Pearson, 2112 Sedgwick street, were reported in a dying condition in the Berwyn hospital last night. Three other members of the crew and a woman are in a critical condition in the hospital. They are: Wheelsman Magnus Sunderland, 810½ North Clark street; Mate Henry Osby of Lockport; Watchman John Nelson of Ludington, and Mrs. Emburg, wife of the cook, who was making the trip for pleasure.

Emburg and Pearson are suffering from internal injuries and burns. The other four in the hospital are also burned, but so far as examination has revealed their injuries are of an outward nature and they have a chance of recovery.

Narrow Escape for Captain.

Capt. C. O. Brown of Port Huron, Mich., veteran lake sailor, who commanded the barge, was lacerated about the face and body and suffered a cut along his right arm. He owes his life to the fact that he left his cabin to go on deck a minute before the explosion occurred. The cabin was reduced to kindling wood.

The damage was estimated at $10,000 by Maj. Rufus W. Putnam, formery United States army engineer in the Chicago district and now secretary-treasurer of the Material Service company.

"There is no question that the explosive was planted by some one seeking revenge, but I don't know by whom," said Maj. Putnam. "The barge carries sand and gravel. We are in competition with no one and I cannot imagine any trade motives behind it. We have at various times discharged members of the crew. It might have been one of those men."

Boat Under Federal Charter.

The state's attorney was notified of the case, but not the Chicago police, as they are without jurisdiction. Attorneys expressed the opinion the federal government would for the first time be drawn into an investigation of racketeer terrorism here—if such it was—because the barge operates under charter of the department of commerce.

The barge, which bears on its prow the name Material Service, had left Lockport at 4 a. m. It was in midstream, opposite Summit, traveling at seven miles an hour toward its dock in Chicago. In the pilot house, set, were Capt. Brown, Mate Osby, Wheelsman Sunderland and Watchman Nelson. The latter had come up to relieve Sunderland while he went below for a cup of coffee.

In the cook's galley Emburg was frying ham and eggs and his assistant, Pearson, was peeling potatoes. Altogether there were 14 persons aboard. In the engine room, taking care of the oil burning Diesel, were Chief Engineer Odin Johnson, Second Engineer Samuel Hansen, Oiler Joe Webber, and Deckhand George Norsin. Three men were asleep in their quarters.

Blast Shakes the Barge.

Nelson, the watchman, was just preparing to relieve Sunderland at the wheel when the blast occurred below decks. Apparently the explosive had been planted immediately back of the cook's galley. The pilot house was lifted from its fastenings. The glassed upper structure was blown to bits and the wood to splinters.

Capt. Brown was thrown flat on his face. Mate Osby was hurled 25 feet forward, narrowly missing an open hatchway. Wheelsman Sunderland was tossed 15 feet against a stanchion. Nelson was almost catapulted overboard. He hit the deck 20 feet from the pilot house and was rolling toward

Prosperity Can Be Brought Back by Spending

The national income keeps growing, with only a year of check here and there. In a quarter of a century never has growth been arrested for more than a year. All of us taken together earned ninety billion dollars in 1929. If history is a guide, it will be well over ninety again before long. But this year it's only about eighty.

Let's look at the ten billion that got away. It's lots of money. On the other hand, the ten billion is only $200 apiece for the fifty million workers of this country. Of course, it isn't spread that way. Some lost all. Others are ahead of the game. And there are many who aren't shy a nickel. The ten billion that's missing will be back circulating again when those who can again spend their income normally. Every one with an income approximately as large as a year ago can help his unfortunate brother in no better way than by starting in today to buy his full normal quota of goods.

the starboard side when stopped by a coil of rope.

Emburg and Pearson were buried under the wreckage of the cook's galley. They were unconscious and bleeding from many cuts when their comrades dug them out.

Woman Hurled Against Wall.

Mrs. Emburg was still in the little stateroom off the galley. She was thrown against the wall. The three sleeping members of the crew were hurled from their bunks, but were not injured. Their names were not obtained.

The best account of what happened was given by Second Engineer Hansen, who talked with members of the crew before they were taken to the Berwyn hospital.

"The explosion rocked the barge from stem to stern," Hansen said. "It was as if we had collided with an ocean liner going full steam ahead. The walls of the mess hall, the cook's galley, and the living quarters adjoining them just seemed to cave in.

"Emburg's stove was blown all over the place. The captain's cabin was wrecked and his desk shattered and blown about the companionways. I never saw such a sight. There wasn't any outbreak of fire, no smoke—just an ear-splitting roar and a blinding flash, and it was all over."

Captain Takes Barge to Dock.

The Diesel engine and the steering apparatus were disabled and the crew put in at Summit for an hour to repair them. Then Capt. Brown, refusing to leave the barge despite his injuries, assumed command in the pilot house and took the barge to its dock.

The first indication of federal action was given last night when Capt. Peter Larson, government steamboat inspector, announced that he would question all members of the crew and officials of the company. Another investigation was started by Alexander Jamie, representing the Association of Commerce's Secret Six, and said to have been undertaken at the request of Maj. Putnam.

The barge, described as the finest ever built in the Chicago district, was put into service in May of 1929. It is 246 feet long, with a 40 foot beam, and rises ten feet above the water line when loaded. It is 2,400 tons burden.

PLAN TO REVEAL THE RACKETEER AS HE REALLY IS

New York, Nov. 30.—[Special.]—A movement to reveal the racketeer "in his true light as a chalk faced, unimaginative parasite" instead of letting writers of lurid fiction hold him up as a glamorous type, is suggested to District Attorney Thomas C. T. Crain in a report of the law and justice section of the New York Board of Trade made public today. The report is to be submitted to the directors and to the members of the board at their respective December meetings.

Another suggestion in the report is that New York authorities coöperate with the authorities of Chicago toward elimination of the gangster and racketeer, and that the aid of police in other large cities be enlisted. The New York Board of Trade commends Mr. Crain for his organization of the committee of public safety and promises him its full support in the movement against the element that exacts tribute from honest merchants by threat of violence.

Police Seize 150 Dresses in Raid on Home; 2 Held

Two police squads under Sergts. Dan Healy and Ernest Sloey last night raided the home of "Patsy" Steffanelli, at 1237 South 51st avenue, Cicero, and arrested "Patsy," 24 years old, and his father, Vito, 51 years old. Search of the house failed to disclose any firearms, but hidden behind the furnace in the basement the police found 150 dresses, alleged to have been taken in a recent robbery of a north side store.

RAID 3 CAPONE HIDEAWAYS, BUT MISS GANG CHIEF

Raids in Berwyn Show Guards on Duty.

Three finely furnished homes in Berwyn were searched early yesterday morning for Al Capone, chief of the public enemies. Al was not there, but the searchers learned that the gang chieftain stopped occasionally at each of the places.

Well tailored clothing belonging to the bootleg king, for whom a vagrancy warrant has been unserved for several months, convinced the searchers they were on Capone's trail. Municipal Judge John H. Lyle, who issued the vagrancy warrant for Capone, was in the group seeking to serve it and he was accompanied by Chief Investigator Pat Roche, Assistant State's Attorney Charles F. Rathbun and James E. McShane, and Special United States Intelligence Officer Clarence Converse.

Find Letter for Cline.

The man hunters went first to 1538 South Austin boulevard, where the tenant's name was supposed to be Carlson. They found it vacated, but occupied at least the day previously. A letter was found there addressed to Frank Cline, whose alias is Rio, and who served in Philadelphia penitentiary with Capone. The costly furnishings and ornaments drew comment from searchers who said, however, they obtained no evidence that could be used against Capone. The presence of Converse in the party indicated that the government is getting ready to prepare a prosecution of Capone for income tax evasion or false returns, as Converse has been specializing on that work for some time.

The Capone hideaway was on the third floor. Immediately beneath that luxurious retreat lives Willie Heeney, a Capone gangster, who was questioned about the murder of Assistant State's Attorney William McSwiggin five years ago and who was a suspect in the investigation of the Valentine day massacre two years ago. Next door, at 1536, Roche said he found Claude Maddox, who is under bond after being identified as the attempted assassin of a Bellwood policeman who was on his way to testify against "Three Fingered Jack" White, one of Maddox' public enemy companions.

Capone Is Well Guarded.

Roche said it was apparent the gang chief was well guarded and the frequent changing of his places of abode was for his own protection from rival public enemies as well as to elude the police. Several gun holsters were found on the premises but no guns.

At 2119 South Wesley avenue the searchers found Mrs. Ernestine Caru, who gave them little information, but Roche said he was certain Capone had been living there recently. At 2925 South Maple street, Mrs. Joseph Cook and two children were occupying a bungalow. Roche said Mrs. Cook admitted Capone had been there up to a week ago. Roche remarked that it was significant that the men of the two houses were absent at 3 o'clock in the morning.

Had they found Capone he would have been held only on the vagrancy warrant, Roche declared. The assistant state's attorneys might have questioned him about several murder cases, he said, but the government would not have sought to take custody of the gang boss.

Barry Ousted by Union.

John Barry, recently arrested on a Lyle vagrancy warrant and later put in jail on bonds totaling $225,000, was deposed from his office as secretary-treasurer of the Newspaper Wagon Drivers' union at a meeting held yesterday under the auspices of the state's attorney's office. By a vote of 275 to 155 the union men voted him out of office.

Assistant State's Attorneys Charles J. Mueller and Charles E. Lounsbury and a detail of police under Sergt. Roy Steffen officiated at the voting, which was supervised by George Kidd, representing the international union, and L. G. Goudie, president of the Teamsters' Joint council No. 25. After the voting the union members unanimously adopted a resolution thanking State's Attorney Swanson for aiding them in their endeavor to rid the union of racketeering.

$55,725 IN REWARDS.

Rewards totaling $55,725 are offered for information leading to the arrest and conviction of the slayer of Alfred Lingle. Of the $25,000 reward offered by The Tribune $10,000 will be paid to any person who will give confidential information identifying the slayer of Lingle. LYLE PICTURES HOODLUM POWER IN ELECTIONS

Says Gang Puts Men in Law Making Halls.

Al Capone not only is everything the press has styled him—"a crime wave all by himself and a political organization," Judge John H. Lyle yesterday informed the congregation at Temple Sholom, 3480 Sheridan road, but his political power is such that in the last election he manipulated important state offices to suit his purposes.

"If you doubt the political sway of this man," asserted the judge, who is sters, "let me inform you that at the last election he elected a state senator to protect his interests at Springfield—a man of his own race who has been in my chambers time after time on behalf of gangsters in police custody. Also he sent to the legislature another man, a young attorney, also of his own race, who has defended his gang members on several occasions.

"Boss of an Alderman."

"Capone also has in the city council an alderman completely under his dictation, who will 'front' for him and his boys in case anything affecting them comes before the council. Furthermore, he elected a congressman. The money element in crime is linked up to official posts to a greater extent than the public realizes. Do you suppose that with these men in a position to be of the greatest use to Capone, he does not wield vast political influence?

"With 5,000 policemen, 198 judges and more than 1,000 court attachés in Chicago, it would appear that these bands of skulking midnight murderers could be driven from the city, and I do believe that recently we have made progress in that direction.

Sees Gang Cash Getting Scarce.

"While a few weeks ago some of these fellows would walk into my court and slap down $50,000 or $25,000 in crisp new thousand dollar bills, their money doesn't seem to come so easily any more.

"In 1933 we are to have a great world's fair and I can't see how we will be able to invite the world to visit that great spectacle unless in the next six months we do more than we have ever done so far to rid Chicago of the gangster element. It behooves every official to go out of his way a bit at this time to help along this movement to run these fellows out of town."

Manager in Loop Store Ends Life by Poison

Earl G. Coleman, department manager for a loop store, killed himself yesterday by swallowing poison in the bathroom of his home at 131 East avenue, Park Ridge. He was 38 years old. The body was found by his father, Archibald Coleman, who told police his son had been in poor health. He is survived by his widow and two children.

TRAIN CRUSHES AUTO; GIRL AND 3 MEN KILLED

Another Accident Fatal to G. A. R. Custodian.

Three men and a girl were killed and another man was critically injured last night when their automobile was crushed by a fast inbound Grand Trunk passenger train at 79th street and Central Park avenue. The dead are:

John Warmoth, 21 years old, 6603 Kimbark avenue.

Eugene Pearson, 24 years old, also of 6603 Kimbark avenue.

Everett Miner, 45 years old, an auditor, with whom Warmoth and Pearson lived.

Mary Emma Miner, 17 years old, daughter of Everett.

The injured man is Fred Wheeler, 22 years old, 130 North Lotus avenue. Warmoth and Pearson were killed in the crash. Miner and his daughter died early this morning at the Holy Cross hospital.

Drummer Boy of '61 Dies.

James Buggie, 80 years old, civil war veteran, for the last 31 years custodian of battle relics of the Grand Army memorial in the Chicago public library, died yesterday in the Roseland Community hospital of injuries suffered on Friday in an automobile accident. Mr. Buggie lived at 10809 Drew street.

The accident occurred at 107th and Drew streets, where Mr. Buggie was struck by an automobile driven by Herman Haan, 23 years old, 340 West 106th place. Haan was not held but was ordered to appear at the inquest.

Buggie's war history was typical of that of the boys who ran away from home to join the army. When 11 years old he enlisted as a drummer boy. His service was brief, however, for his mother compelled his return. After her death, young Buggie reënlisted, becoming a member of the Yates phalanx. He saw active service and was wounded at Atlanta.

Mr. Buggie was active in G. A. R. affairs for many years, and was a past commander of the George H. Thomas post. He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Catherine Monroe Buggie; a daughter, Olive, and a son, James.

Girl Killed in Crash.

Miss Dorothy Schumann, 22 years old, 322 Wesley avenue, Oak Park, was killed and five other persons were injured in a collision between two automobiles at 16th street and 61st court, Cicero, last night.

The injured, all taken to the Berwyn hospital, are Mrs. Jean Simpson, 19 years old, 124 North Parkside avenue, sister of Miss Schumann; Mrs. Simpson's husband, Richard; Carl Larson, 221 Taylor avenue, Oak Park; John Serun, 3301 Chicago avenue, and Lee Lococo, 5147 West 25th street, Cicero. Lococo may die.

The Simpsons, Miss Schumann and Larson were in one car and Lococo and Serun in the other.

The six deaths and one other increased the 1930 Cook county motor toll to 1,013. The other victim:

Daniel Sullivan, 24 years old, 6323 South Ashland avenue. Died in the Englewood hospital of injuries suffered on Nov. 26, when his automobile crashed into a lamp post in front of 5926 South Loomis street.

Four Injured in Crash.

Four persons were injured, one seriously, when their automobile skidded on wet pavement and crashed into a steel pole in front of 5512 North Western avenue.

The injured are Charles Schwartz, 27 years old, 1336 Farwell avenue; Arthur Rhodes, 19, of 334 South Winchester avenue; Arthur Harpling, 20, of 2645 North Newcastle avenue, and Samuel Schwartz, 24, brother of Charles. The latter's condition is critical.

Vincenzo Carone, 3916 Federal street; Michael Albigo, 4912 Federal street, and Louis and Franj Laconde, brothers, of 4734 South Keeler avenue, were injured last night when their car was struck by a Belt Line freight train at Archer avenue and 53d street. According to their story, they had stopped at the crossing and were struck from the rear by the machine of Thomas Englebrecht, 4357 South St. Louis avenue.

Rescues Pinioned Victim.

Driving to the north woods on a hunting trip, Les Gottbehuett of 115 North Marion street, Oak Park, reported early today that he had found a man pinned under his sedan at the foot of a ten foot embankment on highway No. 12, near Whitewater, Wis. Gottbehuett extricated the man who said he was James Carlson, an insurance salesman of Beloit, Wis., and a brother of Mrs. Irene Shaffer of 1312 Bosworth avenue, Chicago. He apparently was injured internally.

NYE TO BAR DAVIS FROM SENATE TO CHECK EXPENSES

New Campaign Report Causes Action.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 30.—[Special.]—A move to halt the immediate seating of Senator Elect James J. Davis [Rep., Pa.], retiring secretary of labor, if he presents his credentials at the opening of congress tomorrow will be made by Senator Gerald P. Nye [Rep., N. D.], chairman of the senate campaign expenditures investigating committee.

Senator Nye announced tonight that he had decided to ask Mr. Davis to step aside, at least temporarily, after receiving word of expenditures in the Davis campaign which had not previously been reported to his committee. Mr. Davis declined to comment. He may not offer his credentials tomorrow.

Adds $150,000 to Total.

According to the information which Senator Nye said had reached him, there has been filed at Harrisburg, Pa., a report covering expenditures by the Brown-Davis primary campaign committee of about $150,000 more than had been reported by it to the Nye committee.

"The committee today sent an agent to Harrisburg to obtain a copy of the report covering this alleged unreported expenditure of $150,000," Senator Nye said. "Until the committee has had an opportunity to obtain and study this report I feel that it has no alternative but to ask Mr. Davis to stand aside until it can do so."

Ran Together in Primary.

Francis Shunk Brown was candidate for governor of Pennsylvania with Davis in the primary. Gifford Pinchot defeated Mr. Brown, while Mr. Davis won over Senator Joseph R. Grundy.

It is understood that, owing to the fact the New Jersey canvassing board has not completed its work, Senator Elect Dwight Morrow will not present his credentials for several days.

Keeps Eye on 'Andy'

Washington, D. C., Nov. 30.—(AP)—Representative Garner of Texas, the Democratic leader, has taken quarters for the first time in a downtown hotel, one that overlooks the treasury building where Secretary Mellon administers the government's financial affairs.

Garner, ranking minority member on the house ways and means committee, which initiates revenue legislation, frequently has attacked Mellon's policies.

Asked why he moved to the new place on his return from Texas, Garner said:

"To keep my eye on Andy."

USE NEW TYPE PLANE TO BEAT HAWKS' RECORD

San Antonio, Tex., Dec. 1.—[Monday.]—(AP)—An army observer reported that a new type of army pursuit plane carrying First Lieutenants Joe D. Butler and Raoul Woodridge of Rockwell field, San Diego, Cal., passed over here early this morning at a speed estimated at between 250 and 300 miles an hour and at an altitude of 15,000 feet.

The flyers are en route to New York with first stop scheduled at Muskogee, Okla. Stops are scheduled for Kansas City, Mo., and Columbus, O. They are expected to reach New York today. They plan a return flight from New York to San Diego in an effort to reduce the record of Capt. Frank M. Hawks.

ARMAGEDDON BOUGHT BY U.C.; RACKET BARED

Armageddon, one of the major places in biblical history, where the kings of the earth met for the decisive struggle against the kingdom of God, has been purchased by the oriental institute of the University of Chicago, James H. Breasted, director of the institute, announced yesterday. The price was $3,500.

Dr. Breasted also disclosed that during the first three years of work on the site rental was paid for it to a group of natives who actually did not own the property. It was regarded as evidence of the spread of racketeering even to the Holy Land.

With the expiration of the leases Mrs. Mary Oliphant was found to be the real owner. The land is located 14 miles from Haifa, Palestine.

19,000 DAIRYMEN JOIN RANKS OF GOOD FELLOWS

I. Miller & Sons' Profits Will Go to Fund.

Nineteen thousand dairy farmers announced yesterday through their organization, the Pure Milk association, that they want to be enrolled as Good Fellows to relief destiution and to hasten the return of prosperity in the Chicago market for their milk. Their president, W. C. McQueen of Elgin, said that members will be encouraged to send cash donations directly to the Good Fellow headquarters in THE TRIBUNE offices at Dearborn and Madison streets, labeling these contributions for the purchase of milk for the poor.

Another important announcement for Good Fellows came yesterday from I. Miller & Sons, which has shoe stores at 312 South Michigan avenue and 137 South State street. All profits of these two stores for the week beginning today will be turned over to the Good Fellow fund for helping families through the unemployment crisis.

Want City to Prosper.

"These farmers cannot prosper unless Chicago prospers," said Mr. McQueen. "It was on the suggestion of some of them that the association decided to sponsor donations that will be used 100 per cent for the purchase of milk for the destitute. Most of the members of the association can spare at least $1 a month, especially when the money not only will relieve much suffering among the city's poor, but will also stimulate the consumption of the farmers' milk."

The shoe company is acting on authority of its president, George Miller.

"Let's help the Good Fellows to provide for the needy and to drive pessimism from the public mind through widespread giving," he wrote his local managers from his New York headquarters. "I. Miller & Sons must do its part toward aiding Chicago families of the jobless, to preserve their homes and to become self-supporting again."

Buyers to Aid Needy.

Miss Esther Bradford, advertising manager of the stores, pointed out that every shoe purchased from I. Miller & Sons this week at regular prices will be a contribution toward the food, clothing, and shelter for some destitute family whose needs and worthiness have been established by careful investigation.

December will see many benefit affairs for the Good Fellow fund. Among these are the following:

The South Side Old Time Dance club will hold one of its old fashioned dances on Dec. 20 at 6932 South Halsted street.

The Illinois Women's Athletic club will hold a charity ball for the Good Fellows on Dec. 18 at its club on East Pearson street.

Benefit Dance at Drake.

The Zeta Sigma Psi sorority is selling tickets for a benefit dance in the Drake hotel on Dec. 10. The North Central Kiwanis club is coöperating. John B. Drake Jr., manager of the hotel, is donating the use of the main dining room with its dance orchestra.

Iota Sigma Phi is sponsoring a Good Fellow card party on Dec. 6, next Saturday, at the Bismarck hotel.

Warner Bros., Inc., is holding a special midnight show in its nineteen Chicago movies on Dec. 13, a week from Saturday, with total proceeds to go to the Good Fellow fund.

The women employés of Williams & Cunnyngham Advertising agency will hold a bridge tea in the Congress hotel on Saturday afternoon.

These and other similar benefits are material contributions toward the relief of destitute families but the main source of revenue for the fund for the needy is still the donations and pledges from individuals and groups that are received daily in the mails at the Good Fellows headquarters. If you want to help, you can mail the coupon published for your convenience in a nearby column. Your contribution of $1 or thousands of dollars will reach the worthy destitute in its entirety. THE TRIBUNE pays the expenses of administration.

GOOD FELLOWS!

If you alone or you and your associates wish to carry a hungry family through the winter fill out the blanks below and mail to "The Good Fellow," The Tribune Chicago:

'MOTHER' JONES, LABOR LEADER, DIES AT AGE 100

lance," going where she pleased and doing what she pleased to further the cause of the miners.

A writer describing her once said that "she looked as though she had just come from a prayer meeting—but she did not use that kind of language." Her hair was snow white.

Opposed to socialism, the I. W. W. and bolshevism, Mrs. Jones stood for years for the principles of the American Federation of Labor. Violence she denounced as "silly." Her views as to how capital and labor should reconcile their differences were set forth in an interview in 1913 when she said:

"If labor would eliminate violence and capital would eliminate injunctions the battle would be practically over. We then could go sanely to arranging peace. Common sense, unimpaired, could step in. But labor will be violent so long as capital swears out injunctions. Also, the first step toward peace must come from capital. It has more advantages."

In one of her last labor exhortations, on her 100th birthday, May 1, 1930, Mother Jones made as vigorous a speech as she did in her prime.

A few days later she received a congratulatory telegram from John D. Rockefeller, Jr. whom she had bitterly assailed during the "Ludlow massacre" in Colorado.

"He's a damn good sport," she said. "I've licked him many times but we've made peace." At times she said Mr. Rockefeller had invited her to dinner several years ago before the incident, but she did not go because people would have said that she "had sold out the workers."

Burial in Illinois.

Mount Olive, Ill., Dec. 1.—(AP)—The Union Miners cemetery of Mount Olive, said to be the only necropolis of organized labor of the United States, will the final resting place of "Mother" Jones, labor crusader, who died last night.

Who is Mr. K. and what has he to say in next Sunday's Tribune?

DYING POLICEMAN KILLS SLAYER OF FELLOW OFFICER

Small Town Petty Thief Turns Desperado.

Macomb, Ill., Nov. 30.—[Special.]—A small town thief, arrested for loitering here early this morning, suddenly turned desperado, slipped a hidden automatic from his coat sleeve and in three minutes of swift gunplay at the door of the police station killed one patrolman, fatally wounded a second and shot two others.

He was escaping in a police car when the mortally wounded patrolman, slumped in the rear seat, regained momentary strength and shot him to death. Late tonight his body was identified as that of Edwin Veril, 28, "bad boy" of Canton, Ill., with a record there as an auto thief, petty burglar and highway prowler.

Kills Veteran Patrolman.

Veril's first victim was Edward Whittlesley, 60, a veteran of the force. At the gunman's first shot he fell with a bullet in his brain.

Patrolman Ernest Bowman, 38, and the father of four children, was the avenger of Whittlesley's death. Wounded four times, he rallied long enough to shoot the escaping desperado four times in the back and once in the head before dying himself, a few hours later.

Patrolman Albert Links, 55, was shot in the groin and may die. The bullet ranged upwards into his abdomen and left him in desperate condition.

Another policeman, Luther Jackson, recovering from a head wound suffered three weeks ago in a battle with burglars, scraped through this morning's affray with a shattered left wrist.

Arouses Suspicions by Actions.

Veril, a sallow faced, nervous young man with a reputed addiction to narcotics, came from Canton by bus yesterday. He was carrying his gun in the crook of his elbow with an elastic armband for a holster, and he had but $1.60 in his wallet.

He was seen skulking about the business district but aroused no suspicion until shortly before midnight, when he entered the S. & N. battery shop, two blocks from the police station.

Here he provoked alarm by questions concerning the ownership and value of cars stored in the shop, the value of the stock, and the sum of cash on hand. John Links, 19, telephoned the police.

Patrolmen Whittlesley, Bowman and Links, the latter the father of the youth who telephoned, arrived and questioned Veril. In a search they found a burglar's jimmy but failed to discover the pistol.

On the short ride to the station Whittlesley drove, with the prisoner seated between Bowman and Links in the rear. Veril was sullen but seemingly submissive.

Whittlesley alighted first. As the officer opened the rear door the prisoner, his pistol now in hand, shoved the muzzle to Whittlesley's ear and fired. The patrolman fell to the curb, dead.

Links, springing to his feet to club the gunman with his night stick, caught a bullet in the groin and was shoved out the door to fall beside Whittlesley in the gutter. Bowman tried to draw his gun, but two bullets in the chest checked his move.

Starts to Flee in Car.

The road to escape seemed clear and Veril was climbing into the driver's seat when Patrolman Jackson rushed out of the station with gun drawn. One bullet, the last in the chamber of Veril's automatic, disposed of Jackson, piercing his left wrist and shattering the bone.

Veril jammed a fresh clip into his pistol. He had gone but half a block when Bowman stirred in the rear seat. He gripped his gun and fired four shots, all of which lodged in the desperado's back.

Turning half way, Veril fired twice, the bullets ripping into Bowman's abdomen. He then returned his attention to the roadway. Again Bowman leaned forward in the seat and fired a shot which drilled the killer's head.

The car crashed into a tree. Bystanders rushed Bowman to St. Francis hospital. There he died at 8 a. m.

Youth Shot When He Tries to Halt Bandits

Attempting to halt three bandits, Joseph Potrzeva, 21 years old, 2056 North Hoyne avenue, was shot in the right knee last night. The thieves had held up Mr. and Mrs. Martin Zylinski in their grocery at 2126 Carolina street, and were departing without having obtained any money when Potrzeva confronted them. He had been visiting friends above the store.

Spencer, Ia., Nov. 30.—(AP)—Miss Edith May Verner, 17, a sophomore in the Spencer High school, was fatally injured today when she fell from a moving automobile while returning from a dance.

HOPE ABANDONED FOR AVIATRIX ON FLIGHT OVER SEA

Miami, Fla., Nov. 30.—(AP)—Aviation officials today agreed in expressing the belief that Mrs. J. M. Keith-Miller, Australia aviatrix, perished on an attempted flight in adverse weather conditions from Havana to Miami.

No word has been received of the Australian flyer since she left Havana in her reconditioned plane The Bullet at 9:11 a. m. Friday.

The naval station at Key West said no ships in gulf or Atlantic waters had reported information on the missing aviatrix, and that orders for a search by navy boats would have to come from the navy department at Washington.

Flying Pal Joins Search.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 30.—(AP)—Capt. William N. Lancaster, former flying companion of Mrs. J. M. Keith-Miller, took off for Miami, Fla., at 11:45 a. m. today to join in the search for the missing Australian woman flyer who, he believes, may be still alive on some remote key.

Jugo-Slavs Mark 12th Anniversary of Union

Chicago Jugo-Slavs last night held a celebration in the Ashland auditorium of the twelfth anniversary of the union of Serbia, Croatia, and Slovenia. Nearly a thousand persons attended the celebration, which was under the auspices of the Jugo-Slav club of Chicago. Etbin Kristan, immigration commissioner from New York, delivered the principal address.

Pose as Messengers to Rob Four in Home

Three armed bandits who gained admission to a home when their leader posed as telegraph messenger held up Charles Bleier, 26 years old, his mother, Mrs. Bertha Bleier, and two sisters, in their home at 2727 South Millard avenue, and escaped with $450 in cash and jewelry and watches valued at $275. Bleier, who operates a fruit store at 3433 West 22d street, and the money represented the proceeds from Saturday's business which he had neglected to bank.

BUILDERS OPPOSE WAGE CUT AS CURE FOR TRADE SLUMP

Hold Prosperity Depends on Buying Power.

Chicago builders do not contemplate a reduction of wages as a solution of the national industrial depression, according to E. M. Craig, executive secretary of the Building Construction Employers' association. Mr. Craig's statement followed a joint meeting of building trades representatives and building employers held in the Builders club.

"American builders today are striving to stimulate construction," Oscar W. Rosenthal, head of the Builders association, said, "and this is not to be accomplished by reducing wages and cutting the purchasing power of the large unit of building craftsmen who hold a strategic position in the composite makeup in the industrial life of the nation.

Points to Other Economies.

"Labor today is at a peak of efficiency, material prices are low, and these two important factors should prove an economic incentive for persons to build now. American prosperity can be attributed to well paid men and women of toil. To grasp this low ebb of business as a means to reduce wages would not be conducive to the welfare of the nation. Such action would retard and not stimulate business."

Builders pointed out that in normal times the building industry employs approximately 115,000 men in all the phases of local construction. The average wage rate for Chicago construction men ranges from $1.62½ to $1.70 an hour. The construction employers stated it was the consensus that any change in the wages of this large and representative group would decrease national demand.

Issues November Figures.

Mr. Craig announced that during the last two weeks of November the volume of Chicago building projects let to contract amounted to $4,402,000. Contemplated construction for the same two weeks amounted to $29,690,000.

Building records furnished by the office of Building Commissioner Paschen show that during the first eleven months of 1930 2,342 permits having a valuation of $87,323,500 were issued. For a corresponding period of 1929 there were 5,946 permits issued with a total valuation of $195,400,700.

Urge Slum Rebuilding.

The American Construction council yesterday sent letters to the governors of all states and to the mayors of all cities of more than 100,000 population urging them to encourage all possible construction work for the rebuilding and modernizing of slums and obsolete tenement districts. Mr. Craig is president of the council.

The appeal points out that such construction undertaken now would materially reduce unemployment and says that the present offers opportunities for construction economies. The letter also suggests methods of financing such projects and points to the social benefits of eliminating slums. Various organizations are to be invited to participate in pressing the construction program.

A "PROSPERITY LOAN" OF BILLION TO BE LAUNCHED

Federal Employment Bond Issue Sought.

New York, Nov. 30.—[Special.]—A new movement for unemployment relief, aiming at an expenditure of one billion dollars for public works and improvements by the federal government as a means of providing employment for hundreds of thousands of workers, and supplying renewed impetus to business and industry in general, was launched today with the announced formation of the emergency committee for federal public works.

The committee intends to urge its program upon congress. Business men, bankers and civic, religious and social welfare leaders are members.

Crisis Like Wartime.

The committee will ask congress to authorize a billion dollar federal employment bond issue or "prosperity loan," to be floated by the government in the manner of the war time "Liberty loan," and to be offered to the nation as a method of dealing with the national emergency of unemployment and business depression.

It is the contention of the committee that at present the nation faces the crisis of wartime. The sponsors of the plan propose that a substantial portion of the financial resources now available in idle capital be put to the task of building necessary public works such as river and harbor improvements, flood control, road extensions and paving, public buildings and the like, on so vast a scale that employment will be given to several hundred thousands of men directly on the projects themselves and to countless thousands more in factories on railroads and elsewhere supplying the materials and manufactured products required for construction.

Magazine Editor Chairman.

Harold S. Buttenheim, editor of the American City magazine, who is serving as acting chairman of the organization committee, announced formation of the emergency committee for federal public works.

It is the belief of the committee that the strong impetus to be received by business and industry from the extensive building program will more than compensate taxpayers for the comparatively slight additional tax required for interest and amortization of the proposed million dollar loan.

Salesman Ends Acid Stomach

"I cannot help telling how good ACIDINE is," says J. F. McCarthy, of Dorchester, Mass. "I had been troubled with an acid stomach for the last ten years, and as I am a salesman I think my condition used to hurt my production. Now after using two boxes of ACIDINE I feel O. K."

Almost everyone who takes ACIDINE raves about it. More than two million packages have been sold. It's absolutely amazing the way this new prescription succeeds when other known remedies fail.

ACIDINE is the only known remedy which contains Japtase, that in laboratory tests digests 800 times its weight of certain heavy, starchy foods which cause trouble. It neutralizes burning acids, soothes irritated stomach linings, stops gassy headaches, sleeplessness and nervousness. No other known remedy contains this combination to end acid stomach. ACIDINE also fortifies you against colds by reducing acidity.

Get ACIDINE today at Walgreen's. Watch how quick acid indigestion, burning stomach, belching, pain, heartburn, dizziness, fullness, short breath vanish. Eat, drink all you want. Maker refunds money if not delighted.

DRY ISSUE WILL NOT DOWN, SHORT SESSION SHOWS

Will Continue a Leading Role in Congress.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 30.—[Special.]—Prohibition will play a leading part during the short session of congress, opening tomorrow, notwithstanding the complicated legislative program and the desire of the administration to keep the troublesome but irrepressible wet and dry controversy in the background.

Before the end of the week the house "wet bloc," headed by Representative J. Charles Linthicum [Dem., Md.], will reorganize and plan its campaign. Senate committees also are expected to start early toward clearing their calendars of a jam of prohibition bills piled up during the regular session.

Wait on Wickersham Report.

Both wets and drys are anxiously awaiting any prohibition pronouncement that may be made by President Hoover in his message scheduled for delivery Tuesday. There is no reason to believe that the White House has changed its attitude, which from the start has been one of cautious reticence pending recommendations by the Wickersham commission.

For the last two months the Wickersham commission has been wrestling with its prohibition report. In a flood of conjecture and rumors, the most persistent is that the group is split, with a majority favoring some kind of modification.

Rival Conventions Comiss.

The congressional session will be hardly under way when Washington will become the mecca of wet and dry organizations. They hold simultaneous conventions here the week of Dec. 8. On Dec. 15 a group of wet organizations will assemble to vote on a liquor plan, and on the next day forty organizations supporting the eighteenth amendment will start a two day convention.

During the present week the senate campaign expenditures investigating committee will dig into the actions of the two leading wet and dry bodies—on Tuesday, the officials of the Anti-New York, the officials of the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment.

Four enforcement bills recommended by the Wickersham commission last winter await disposal in congress.

The house appropriations committee has under consideration the budget request of the prohibition and industrial alcohol bureaus for more money.

SONSTEBY WILL TAKE OATH TODAY AS COURT HEAD

John J. Sonsteby, chief justice-elect of the Municipal court, will be installed this mornig at a ceremony in room 915 of the city hall.

Special ceremonies also will be held for the installation of Judge Leon Edelman, who will take up his duties in the Town Hall court, and Judge Jay A. Schiller, who will take the oath of office in room 1128, city hall.

Other newly elected associates justices of the Municipal court who will be installed today are: Thomas A. Green, Alfar M. Eberhardt, Joseph A. Graber, H. O. O'Connell, George V. McIntyre, Edward S. Scheffler, J. W. Brooks, J. F. O'Connell, and Justin F. McCarthy.

SIFT MYSTERY BLAST AND FIRE

A mysterious explosion in a drug store at 1259 West Madison street late last night, fifteen minutes after Irving Zeitlin, the proprietor, had closed the place, caused Fire Attorney Scott Hogan to launch an investigation. The interior of the pharmacy was ruined by flames and a rooming house above damaged by smoke. Altogether Division Marshal Joseph Mackay estimated the dameg at $6,500. Zeitlin's only explanation was that a quantity of grain alcohol he had stored in the rear might have been fired by spontaneous combustion.

Calls Cab and Robs Cafe When It Arrives; Escapes

A well dressed young man yesterday telephoned for a Yellow cab from Emilson's restaurant, 7903 South State street, as the cab pulled up at the curb he drew a gun and turned to the cashier, Victoria Obraka, 23 years old, and forced her to give him $30. Twenty minutes later the same man arrived in the cab at Lauterbach's drug store, 5458 Wentworth avenue, ordered a package of cigarets, and then robbed Lauterbach of $80. He drove away in the cab.

SALLY TO FACE NEW CROWD OF JOBLESS TODAY

And Work for Needy Is All Too Scarce.

BY KATHLEEN McLAUGHLIN.

After weeks of experience Sally Joy Brown knows well that this morning will bring a stream of jobless men and women to her office door, eager for a chance at the jobs for which she has been pleading daily in these columns. Each Monday morning, it seems, the line grows longer, the need for work greater, the stories of hard luck more pathetic.

It isn't easy for Sally to face those petitioners for assistance, especially when the number of jobs she has to turn over to the Illinois free employment bureau at 116 North Dearborn street are so sparse in comparison with the number needed. No jobs are given out at the Tribune Tower, consequently all these callers can only be referred there, unless their needs also include clothing. Sometimes there are articles of apparel that can be handed out to help tide over some man or woman whose funds barely cover carfare and cannot possibly stretch to such luxuries as needed clothing.

Letters Beg for Help.

As usual this morning, also, Sally Joy Brown's mailbag is overflowing with letters begging help. One of the arresting missives comes from a mother of seven children, a washwoman seeking additional bundles to launder so that her brood may eat.

"Could you possibly help me to get some bundle washings at home?" she asks. "I can give good references. The people I worked for left town, and I have only two bundles, which don't hardly help me any. My rent is past due and I have a notice to move. I don't know what I am going to do".

Another mother with an eighteen year old son, neither of whom can find a position, implores a job as a matron or at any kind of work. They cannot pay their rent and have nothing to eat.

Loses Home; Hunts for Work.

A. B. L., a watchman and former salesman, writes to inquire about a job mentioned in this column, but which has been filled. After living for 44 years in Chicago he lost his home through his loss of employment, and his wife is living with relatives in Milwaukee while he searches for work here. He adds that he has a good education and is a teetotaler.

G. T., a young man of 29, said: "I have had hard rows to hoe before, but always until the present time managed to find a way out. Now, after exhausting all honest ways and means, I find I am unable to cope with my present situation. I've tried to fight this out alone, but cold, hunger, and no shelter have driven me to defeat. I mainly want a home. I can drive, paint, and make myself useful around any home or establishment. If you know of some one who can use my services will you please give me a hand?"

GOVERNOR ASKS STATE EMPLOYES TO HELP NEEDY

Asks Day's Pay Monthly; Gather Clothes Today.

All employès of the executive branch of the state government were asked to contribute one day's pay a month from December to March, inclusive, to the unemployment relief fund in a letter sent out last night by Gov. Emmerson. The governor himself will donate a day's pay each month.

This request will add thousands of dollars to the relief fund being raised by the governor's commission. Gov. Emmerson, in his letter addressed to all executives and department heads of the executive branch, points out that employès of the state have not felt the industrial depression, and that their work is regular and provided for by state appropriations.

Women Collect Clothing.

In Chicago a charity army of 2,000 club women, under the direction of Mrs. Kellogg Fairbank, chairman of the women's division of the governor's commission, will start out today on a house to house canvass for clothing for the poor and unemployed.

The drive of this division has already realized thousands of dollars' worth of usable apparel. Most of it is available for immediate wear and virtually all will be on the backs of the needy by tomorrow, according to Mrs. Fairbank.

Appeals of various woman leaders of this division have brought steady and liberal response. One committee under Mrs. Edgar R. Born solicited 600 wholesale establishments in Chicago, and obtained pledges from all but a few to contribute to the clothing fund. Yesterday $10,000 worth of apparel had been turned over by this and the Fairbank group to the Emmerson commission. The clothing will be distributed through seven substations.

Another phase of the charity drive will be the opening today in the State street department stores of special counters where warm apparel may be purchased at actual cost. Thus a philanthropic citizen, spending $1 or $1,000, may buy flannels, socks, entire suits or coats, shoes and other necessities at cost. These purchases will, of course, not be carried away by the buyers, but will be turned over to the clothes division of the commission and distributed to the needy.

Philip R. Clarke, chairman of the Cook county emergency relief campaign, yesterday emphasized the need for the $5,000,000 fund. An analysis of existing conditions is staggering, he said, and the sooner the people of the city learn the true picture the sooner will the campaign be completed and recorded a success.

Under normal conditions, according to Mr. Clarke, the recognized welfare agencies require approximately $8,000,000 a year. At the peak season 12,000 families seek aid from these organizations, he said.

50,000 Families Seek Aid.

"As nearly as we can determine now, more than 50,000 families are seeking aid," asserted Mr. Clarke. "Thus the emergency situation is four times as bad as in normal times.

"On the basis of normal requirements, $32,000,000 is needed to meet the present emergency. But we are asking for only $5,000,000, which, under operations of the welfare agencies coöperating with the governor's commission on unemployment and relief, will keep the unfortunates from starving or freezing this winter."

FIND NO TRACE OF SHIP WITH ELEVEN ABOARD

San Pedro, Cal., Nov. 30. — (AP) — Thus far the ocean has kept secret the fate of the fishing boat Fidelity and her crew of eleven men, missing since Nov. 21.

Despite a search by naval planes and six destroyers, no trace has been found of the boat which left the fishing grounds off the Santa Barbara islands during a windstorm that swept southern California.

The destroyers were called in yesterday and two coast guard patrol boats were ordered to carry on the search.

So far no clew has been discovered although a minute search was made of all possible havens around the Santa Barbara and Santa Cruz islands.

court," while Vladimir, who looks like a star full back on a grammar school team, went scampering about making a big impression on suceptible Russian subdebs.

Sing "God Save the Czar."

The climax of the reception, which followed the taking of pictures, came when the whole crowd burst into the imperial hymn, "God Save the Czar," and ended with a wild barbaric shout, which kept up until the imperial family left the room.

Several receptions of this sort have been held in Paris during the last few years, but previously they were very drab and small affairs. In addition to today's reception the association of young Russian Nationalists held military exercises for the first time. The review, witnessed by THE TRIBUNE reporter, took place in the middle of a forest fifty miles from Paris.

Twe hundred young Nationalists journeyed to the place by train and walked three miles from the station. They were drilling when the imperial car drew up. Little Vladimir climbed out flanked by a couple of generals and gravely reviewed his soldiers, complimenting them on their military bearing. These young Russians are not monarchists, so their putting on a review in honor of the Romanoffs was very significant.

PLOT TO BLACKMAIL RICH MANUFACTURER CONFESSED BY PAIR

New York, Nov. 30.—(Special.)—A blackmail plot designed to obtain $10,000 from Richard C. Clemson, wealthy manufacturer of Middletown, N. Y., under threat of kidnaping Mrs. Clemson, known as an amateur golfer, and her four children was revealed tonight by confessions of two prisoners at police headquarters.

One, John Brady of Harrison, N. J., was arrested Saturday night when he accepted a package supposed to contain the $10,000. The other, John Rhodes of Irvington, N. Y., came into police custody early today because he suspected that Brady, who did not meet him to share the money, had fled with it.

To check up his accomplices movements Rhodes telephoned the Hotel Astor, where Mr. Clemson, working with detectives, had agreed to deliver the $10,000. The police traced him through information given during the phone call and arrested him.

Woman Suspect in Prison Plot Is Taken to Joliet

Mrs. Helen Wilson, 30 years old, arrested Saturday at 418 South Central Park avenue, charged with being an accessory in a plot to free her brother-in-law, James Chapman, from Joliet penitentiary, was taken to Joliet yesterday for trial. She is alleged to have delivered saws to a prison mate of Chapman, who smuggled them into his cell. Chapman is serving a sentence for murder.

BALTIC NATIONS UNITE IN LEAGUE AGAINST RUSSIA

Lithuania and Latvia Sign Pacts, Others on Way.

BY DONALD DAY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

RIGA, Latvia, Nov. 30.—Another step towards the realization of a northern Baltic union was made in the last week when Lithuania and Latvia signed a trade agreement and four other agreements including one abolishing visa formalities. This is the result of five years of negotiations.

When Dr. Augustinas Waldemaras was dictator Lithuania's policy isolated her from her neighbors, Moscow doing everything possible to further the estrangement. The present government at Kaunas has reversed this policy and is doing all it can to discredit Dr. Waldemaras.

Plan New Trade Treaties.

Dr. Zaunius, who succeeded Dr. Waldemaras as foreign minister, said today that Lithuania will immediately open negotiations with Esthonia for trade and other treaties. Unlike his predecessor, Dr. Zaunius does not demand that the Baltic states recognize Lithuania's claim to the Vilna corridor, and no mention was made of Vilna during Latvian Premier Zeiminsch's visit to Kaunas to sign the five treaties.

Hope for Polish Peace.

The Kaunas press has even begun to discuss the necessity of talking things over with Poland, and the coming year is likely to see the unofficial war between Lithuania and Poland liquidated. The Lithuanians may accept the status quo with the understanding that they have not renounced their claim to Vilna, their ancient capital.

Latvia, which has attempted to maintain strict neutrality in Baltic politics, especially in regard to Russia, is also changing her foreign policy. Her leaders are strongly advocating a Baltic entente which would include both Poland and Sweden.

Province Chief Chosen to Pick New Austrian Cabinet

VIENNA, Nov. 30.—(AP)—President Miklas today commissioned Dr. Otto Ender, governor of Vorariberg province, to form a cabinet succeeding that of Karl Vaugoin, who resigned last week.

CHARGES FRENCH PLEDGED ARMY TO FIGHT RUSSIA

Agreed To in 1930, Prisoner Tells Court.

MOSCOW, Nov. 30. — (AP) — Prof. Leonid Ramzin, now on trial with seven others on charges of seditious activities against the Soviet union, today testified that two officers of the French general staff had promised intervention in Russia in 1930.

Cross examined by N. B. Krilenko, the fiery prosecutor, the leader of the confessed conspirators said the French officers had promised armies from Poland and the Baltic and the aid of the English fleet.

"We received definite assurances and guarantees of intervention, with the probable date the summer of 1930," Ramzin asserted.

Poincare's Name Mentioned.

Although the court had previously ruled that the names of responsible officials of other countries should not be brought out in open court, Krilenko again introduced the name of Raymond Poincare, former premier and president of France, in cross examination of Alexander Fedetov, but the questioning was not pressed.

Ramzin said he first met Janville and Janin of the French general staff with the former czarist officers, Denisov and Lukomsky, in Paris, and they discussed intervention plans.

"What did you want to learn?" Krilenko asked.

"The approximate date of the intervention, the plan and the strength of the army to be employed," the defendant replied.

When asked what the French sought, Ramzin said they wanted information of espionage, acts of treason, military information and knowledge of soviet industries—especially metal, chemical and other defensive materials.

"Promised Intervention in 1930."

"I promised to get the information," said the professor.

"What did the French promise?" was the next query.

"They promised intervention in 1930 with armies from Poland and the Baltic countries, and the aid of the English fleet." Ramzin replied. "Lukowsky said he believed an army of 600,000 to 700,000 men would be enough."

"Were the intervention promises absolutely definite and concrete, or only vague statements?" asked Krilenko."

"We received definite assurances and guarantees of intervention," the defendant returned.

Victor Larichev took the stand next and said he accompanied Ramzin in the negotiations at Paris. Asked to tell of a conference with Col. Richards of the French staff, he continued:

"We questioned the reality of their promises. Richards personally assured us that he was taking up the matter with leading French military circles."

Tell of Part in Plot.

Krilenko interrupted the cross examination to call two witnesses, Peter Osadchii and Leonid Urovsky, both of whom have been prominent in Soviet affairs and now are awaiting trial on counter-revolutionary charges. They were called to testify what they knew about the industrial party and the alleged plot. Osadchii admitted being a member of the central committee of the party and having worked for intervention, while Urovsky admitted being a member of the Peasants Labor party and also knew of the intervention plans.

Osadchii, who is 60 years old, confessed in a quavering voice.

"I wish to take this opportunity," he said, "to tell this big audience of my sincere repentance for the crimes I have committed. I promise to devote the rest of my life, if it be granted me, to socialistic construction of the soviet union."

Krilenko asked the court to order him to trail along with the eight others. The court agreed to request a trial order from the central executive committee.

Insist Confessions Are True.

Today's proceedings were enlivened considerably when the prosecutor stopped cross-examination long enough to read an article from a recent Warsaw emigre newspaper charging that the confessions were obtained by an ogpu third degree and that the whole case was a frameup.

Krilenko, with fiery tongue, indignantly demanded if that were the truth.

One by one the eight prisoners took the stand, each declaring the story was "all lies" and that the confessions had been made of their own free will, without inducements, promises, or threats. They said they had been well treated in jail.

SIXTY PLANES TO BE BUILT IN NEXT 6 MOS. BY ONE CORPORATION

Detroit, Mich., Nov. 30.—[Special.]—Production schedules for sixty military and transport planes to cost $1,250,000, for the next six months, were announced today by P. R. Beasley, president of the Detroit Aircraft corporation. Plans call for the largest production in the history of the company during the next few months.

"We have arranged to provide work for the largest number of men during the winter.

"Thirty-two large bombing and torpedo planes will be manufactured for the navy and a large number of Detroit Lockheed metal transport planes for various air lines and corporations."

Bandits Rob Couple of Cash and Gems at Garage

Two armed men appeared last night as Ben Goldberg was preparing to put his car in the garage of his home at 2040 North Kimball avenue. The bandits robbed Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Ordower, 3420 Dickens avenue, Goldberg's companions, of $50 in cash and $700 in jewelry and then drove away in Goldberg's car.

CORRUPT GOVERNMENT.

The revelations of police and other official corruption in New York, as in Chicago, produce no really novel facts. The official shakedown is an old story. But we are now given a general picture which is both comprehensive and concrete and, therefore, must impress the public conscience as sporadic disclosures and a rather vague consciousness of the situation could not do. We are learning pretty definitely something of the extent and the actual mechanics of corruption, and with this knowledge may come a more determined and more practical effort to attack the evils at their source. Chicago is now on the job with more vigor and efficiency than ever before, and New York has begun a similar battle. There are cities and states not yet awake to conditions as bad or worse. We trust they will wake up.

Meanwhile the cynic will feel that his theory that democracies are inevitably corrupt is being thoroughly demonstrated. A comparison with other forms of government does not sustain it. In many autocracies official corruption has been a recognized part of the system. Their officials have taken office on the tacit understanding that they were to compensate themselves through graft and the sale of justice. Democracies, at least, have not virtually regularized official corruption and are in a pretty persistent if not always energetic or intelligent warfare against it. They have higher standards, if they fall below them, and to have them is half the battle. We think Chicago and New York and other communities engaged in house cleaning will get results. They will not be lasting results. While human nature struggles up from the primitive there is no discharge in this war. But that is a part of human as well as of social evolution. A society, like an individual, makes character through struggle. We can be encouraged in our present efforts by the fact that we are getting conditions out into the open. We are learning how the interlocked machinery of corrupt politics and profitable crime operates. Individuals will be exposed and some of them will be punished. What is more useful in the long run is to know what the system is, how public money is spread to pay for political organization, how funds to create and support political power are obtained by the sale of protection for lawbreaking; in other words, the inner workings of practical politics of which the law abiding citizen, absorbed with his private problems, is only vaguely conscious.

Against this background, for a while at any rate, the loud mouthed demagogue, with his hidden allies, will find it less easy to sweep up the votes of unthinking thousands. Some needed changes in the laws, to fit them to new conditions, may be pushed through. Perhaps some permanently useful reforms, as in the manner of selecting judges and increasing police responsibility, will be obtained. At least we are likely to move toward them. The problems are many and the main task unending. But we are making gains and the fight is well worth the trouble. Sustaining it is the character of the people, and in the long run it is that character which will control conditions.

The great need in the foreground is the better organization of good citizenship to meet the entrenched organization of corrupt politics and criminality. We have the beginnings of such civic organization in Chicago. They should be strengthened and carried forward. Honest and courageous officials must have substantial and unwavering support, not merely occasional applause. They must be made confident that this support will be continous, as the opposition of the predatory forces is and will be. The people must have the leadership which organized civic agencies alone can give them. It is the plainest truism that crime and corrupt politics have thrived because they are allied and organized, while good citizenship is not.

We have had in the last two or three months the benefit of the recommendations of exceptionally able grand juries, which have presented the situation with force and intelligence. The November grand jury called for the summoning of a special grand jury which would not be limited as to time and which might concentrate upon a thorough investigation of the police department. Chief Justice McGeorty has promptly acted upon this suggestion and we are confident that some substantial results will appear from the inquiry. We suggest that important witnesses should be required to waive immunity where their relations to the police may involve responsibility.

RUSSIAN CONFESSIONS.

The American public will not take the confessions of the Russian engineers on trial for treason at their face value. To the normal American they will seem obviously a dictated official statement, elaborately composed to prove that the great revolution and the cause of the proletarians are in constant danger from the plotting of capitalist nations. At this time, when Stalin and his associates in control of the government are engaged in measures which exact great sacrifices from the people and have already created revolt even in the inner counsels of the party, the staging of a dramatic revelation of foreign intrigue against Russia is timely and profitable to the present group in power. No doubt it will inflame the loyalty of the party membership and in some measure distract the people from their troubles.

Americans will doubt the revelations not only because of this but also because it is difficult if not impossible for us to believe that educated men capable of conspiring as they confess having done would now so humbly confess repentance and betray their associates wholesale. The description of the principal defendant as he delivered his long story, if accurate, is that of moral and physical demoralization. All the chief repentants gave signs of fear and despair. Their confession may be credited by partisans of bolshevism, but it suggests a compulsion which the reputation of the cheka tends to verify. That there is effort by governments in Europe to obtain knowledge of conditions behind the veil soviet censorship holds before the Russian realities is more than probable. A certain amount of espionage is carried on among governments generally. There also in the case of Russia may be a continuing scheme of encouraging malcontents. The bolsheviks themselves are at it constantly. But the charges against leading public men in France and England of complicity in a serious conspiracy require more support than these confessions can give it.

But the confessions may be very interesting exhibits for students of abnormal psychology. They might be studied with reference to confessions obtained under the inquisition and the witch mania at Salem. We shall discuss this aspect of the drama at Moscow another day. Meanwhile this picture of human agony and self-debasement reveals a condition in the communist Utopia which will not incline the peoples of the outside world to pursue the bolshevik way to human happiness.

IN THE ROBES OF PEACE.

Frank B. Kellogg, former secretary of state, has been selected for the Nobel peace prize of 1929. The 1930 prize goes to Dr. Nathan Soderblom, archbishop of Upsala and pro-chancellor of the University of Upsala. Mr. Kellogg's achievement was the peace treaty which distinguished him above the American multitudes all worthy of the honor and its considerable honorarium. [$48,000.]

The prize committee must have sat and slept long upon the 1929 award, embarrassed by the peculiar richness of the American field for that year and for 1930. Mr. Kellogg, having been secretary of state, offered an opportunity of decorating a whole nation, as, indeed might have been done by giving the award to President Hoover. The selection of the former secretary was not quite so definitive and yet it sufficiently indicates an appreciation of the complete American phenomenon of giving all to the dove.

In a few seconds one may run over the beginning of the list of American notables all qualified for any peace award predicated upon a willingness to contribute until it hurts to a cause elsewhere regarded as a nuisance unless profitable. There would be Mr. Stimson, now secretary of state; Senator Borah, Admiral Pratt, Mr. Peabody of Massachusetts, the eminent cancellationist, Mr. Levinson of Chicago, architect of multilaterums; Mr. Ford, peace ship skipper emeritus; Prof. Shotwell of Columbia, Dr. Morrison, all the Swarthmore faculty, most of any other faculty; Dr. Bowlby, Dr. Hibben of Princeton, any one in the associations opposed to the R. O. T. C. The list would be more than arm's length. Mr. Kellogg was the easiest and the most fitting choice, although the selection does not diminish the worth of other pacifiers in America.

Since the peace pact has received the countenance of nearly all the responsible nations about three-fourths of the world has been engaged in the application of force in the execution of designs or in intensive preparations for its use. Russia and China have been in what was privately known as a war and publicly represented as a negotiation. It did not greatly interfere with the private fights in China. Great Britain has been flailing the Hindus. Nearly all South America has been responding to the bang of cannon. France is fortifying every inch of its frontier toward Italy and Mussolini is feeding tonic to the war eagles.

Into this world the United States goes armed with innocence and hope.

Editorial of the Day

SMALL CURRENCY ECONOMICAL

[Cedar Rapids Gazette.]

Considerably more than a year has elapsed since the treasury department put the Tom Thumb currency in circulation. Three aims of the government at that time were to reduce conterfeiting, and to effect a saving in the cost of currency circulation by making the bill smaller and increasing its period of usefulness.

According to a recent statement from the treasury department, two of the aims have been accomplished; the other has not turned out satisfactorily. The cost of money circulation has been decreased one-third through use of the new bills, it is estimated, and the amount of counterfeiting by nots raising has been reduced to the "very minimum," but the life of the new currency has been found to average only a few days longer than that of the old type bills. The treasury officials find that the designs of the new bills, especially in the small denominations, have become familiar enough to the public to make counterfeiting difficult. Only in communities where there is a superstitious or other aversion to accepting $2 bills is there any real counterfeiting threat. Several instances have been discovered in these communities in which the unfamiliar $2 bills have been raised to $20. Practically all the savings in circulation costs have resulted from the smaller quantity of currency paper required for the new bills.

Folding is responsible for most of the wear and tear on currency. Treasury experts were of the opinion last year that the new bills were small enough so they could be carried conveniently without folding, or, at most, with only one fold. They estimated that elimination of the double fold would increase the life of the currency at least 40 per cent. The experts were wrong. Experience has shown that the new bills are folded lengthwise and crosswise almost as often as the old type.

Modern merchandising methods also have affected the life of currency. Many bills now are handled by filling station attendants, whose greasy hands subject them to abnormal soiling. In order to achieve maximum success in reduction of currency circulation costs, the bureau of standards is engaged in an extensive search for a new type of paper that can be folded or crumpled without destruction of the grain.

THE NEEDY FIRST!

The soldiers marched to the church and halted in the square outside. One wing of the edifice was undergoing repairs, so there was room for only about half the company.

"Sergeant," ordered the captain, "tell the men who don't want to go to church to fall out."

A large number quickly availed themselves of the privilege.

"Now, sergeant," said the captain, "dismiss all the men who did not fall out and march the others in—they need it most."—Exchange.

CONSTIPATION.

DR. E. BOROS makes use of the following method of treating constipation. About half an hour before breakfast the person takes two tablespoonfuls of milk sugar dissolved in a half glass of water. At ten in the morning he eats a half pound, or thereabouts, of grapes, or about an equivalent of prunes, dates, or other fruit sugar foods. At four in the afternoon there is a repetition of the grapes or other fruits. At ten at night, or somewhere thereabouts, the morning helping of milk sugar is repeated. It takes two or three days of this regimen to become effective. During this time small enemas can be used if they are needed.

There are several kinds of milk sugar. Presumably, it makes no difference which is used. In all probability, the same amount of milk sugar eaten on berries, fruit or cereal would be equally effective. A glass of water on arising acts as a laxative, and the addition of some milk sugar to this water will not make it less pleasing, and will add to its effectiveness.

The theory is that fermentation tends to overcome the tendency to constipation. The diet recommended is one that lends itself readily to fermentation. The sugars are foods and their calories must be taken into account. If the person concerned tends to be stout, he should lessen his intake of bread and potatoes to offset the sugars. If he is a diabetic he may need to find some other cure for his constipation. Certainly no diabetic should add that amount of milk sugar and fruit sugar to his diet without the advice of his physician and dietitian.

NEEDS PEACE OF MIND.

L. H. C. writes: What is the cause of a 12 year old boy's restlessness at night? He goes to sleep quickly and rests well for about an hour, but the rest of the night he is not quiet at all and in the morning he says he is tired. He isn't aware of the fact that he isn't quiet through the night. He is the nervous type, but otherwise well.

REPLY:

The cause is excitement. Have the boy eat a light supper. After that, stay quietly in the home reading, studying, playing backgammon, or working puzzles. Have him go to a comfortable bed, in a comfortable room, at a regular hour.

Peace of mind carries with it a capacity for sleeping. The opposite holds also.

MAKING WARTS RUN AWAY.

V. T. C. writes: For the benefit of D. K. C. and his warts: Buy a small bottle of spirits of camphor, keep on the dresser, and apply frequently. The most terrible case of warts I have ever heard of, and others not so severe, have been cured by this simple remedy.

KIDNEY STONE AND DIET.

Mrs. L. M. writes: My husband had a large kidney stone removed. It was the size of a peach kernel and had little sharp points all over it. Since then he has repeatedly passed small stones. What diet should he have? Should he drink hard water? Should he drink distilled water?

REPLY:

There are at least three kinds of stones and there may be more. The one most frequently found is composed of urates. An important variety is the oxalate stone. Limestones are the least important of the three. You should have a chemist examine one of these stones and tell you what is the principle ingredient. Proper dieting is based on knowing which kind of stone is forming. Without this information dieting is guesswork.

The description you give causes me to guess that this stone is what is called oxalate stone. If so, the diet should consist principally of meats, eggs, fats, and breads. The best vegetables are potatoes and corn. The foods to be avoided are rhubarb, sorrel, pepper, spices, condiments, cocoa and chocolate, tea, and alcoholic beverages. Foods to be eaten rather sparingly are spinach, other salads and greens, cranberries, plums, prunes, and pineapple.

It is safer to drink distilled water and to avoid hard waters. If the stone is not due to oxalates this diet is all wrong.

FRIEND OF THE PEOPLE

Letters to this department must be signed with names and addresses of writers.

THE PAUPER ACT.

Chicago, Nov. 26.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—Since my father's death my brother and I have been supporting my mother with the exception of $10 a week which she earns. I am married and have a child of my own and have been out of work. Recently received a job paying $17 a week. The brother is married also and is more or less out of work. I have two sisters, both owning their own homes, one residing in Michigan and the other in Chicago. Can they be compelled to contribute toward their mother's support? J. K.

Ordinarily it is difficult, if not impracticable, to enforce such contributions as against nonresidents. Our pauper act requires near relatives to contribute according to their means to the support of destitute persons except that married women are not required to contribute unless they have independent means. Apply to the bureau of public welfare, county building.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

ORAL AGREEMENTS.

Chicago, Nov. 26.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—1. Can an electrical contractor collect by lawsuit more than the amount agreed upon (without written agreement) if he does the work without a city permit and it does not pass city inspection? 2. If he got a permit and obtained inspection after the work was completed could he collect for more than the amount agreed upon in oral agreement? L. K.

1 and 2. No.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

WATER SHUT OFF.

Chicago, Nov. 28.—[Friend of the People.]—Please advise me through your column whether the water department has the right to shut off water on a person because a previous tenant moved away owing a three months' bill? The meter was in the previous tenant's name. M. A.

This matter has been taken up with the writer personally at this office and fully explained and considerable correspondence has also been had with her. There are not enough shutoff men appropriated for by the city council to enable this bureau to shut off more promptly on account of delinquency. We are doing the best we can with the limited force, considering the great number of delinquencies at present on account of the unusual economic conditions which exist. JOSEPH P. GUBBINS, Superintendent of Water.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

How to the Line, let the quips fall where they may.

DECEMBER!

The days are getting shorter; likewise cash. Also they're sad and dreary; likewise everybody. The snow rides in on blizzards from the north. The wild ducks fly south. The lame ducks fly to Washington. Congress begins. And it will probably end with a special session. If the Democrats keep their health. Memories of Thanksgiving day and the melancholy thought that the next real meal doesn't come until Christmas. And it's twenty-five days 'til then. And there's presents to buy. What with? And the hanging up of Christmas stockings. What's the use, they've got holes in 'em! This is the month when Santa Claus comes. And if we ever needed that old bewhiskered guy we need him this year. But maybe he's busted, too. Wall street and margin stock caught one and all. Santa Claus was probably caught short on Reindeer preferred. And maybe the tariff will keep him out. Ice covers the world. The chains clank hollowly against the fenders. And at that the dam thing either skids into the sidewalk or freezes up. Or both. Usually both. But if winter comes, can spring be far behind? Shut up, Pollyanna. Or go out in the back yard and sit in the snow. December! Gosh!

NOCTURNE.

(Suggested by the picture, "Nightlights.")

Now, like a queen, she comes,
Drudge of the day that's gone,
Out of her marts and slums,
Mounting her ebon throne.

Purple and red and gold—
Thin raiments of the night—
Cover her, fold on fold,
Woven of dusk and light,

Woven of shade and sheen,— Dewdrops and bursting bloom,
Violet, blue and green,
Moonlight and sunset gloom,

Foes that are sinister
Threat and beset in vain;
Still, in the heart of her,
Romance and beauty reign.

Still to her Court of Dreams
Princes and poets throng,
Bask in her torches' gleams,
Fill all her nights with song.

Star-dust from midnight skies
Shower her with splendor,
Nymphs from the lake arise,
Fleet to attend her.

Towers of lost Kubla Khan
Loom in an artist's dream,
Bridges of onyx span
Depths of an opal stream.

Queen in her jewels of light,
Rare in each changing hue,—
City of glamorous night!
City of dreams come true!

EOLUS.

REGARDING SECRETARY DOAK: We wonder if he rhymes with croak? Or, unless the thought should prove a hoax, that the rhyme that goes with Doak. And were it not a quite low crack, but that's the way that we'd say Doak. We give up; it's a bitter pill. But the easiest way is to call him Bill.

JUDY SHEA WRITES us from Paris: "I can't write poetry these days; I am trying to think in French." Well, Judy, if you're thinking in French right now you needn't write poems for the Line. This is a family column.

But Where Was the Rotary Club, the Knights of Pythias, the Republican Marching Club, and the Silver Cornet Band?

(From the Kewanee Star-Courier via East Varn.)

GALVA, Nov. 25.—Elmer Hammerlund, patient at the Public hospital in Kewanee, was resting easily Sunday when his wife and their two children, Wayne and Marilyn, his mother, Mrs. Matilda Hammerlund, and daughter, Miss Lily, and another sister, Mrs. Eskil Johnson, and a brother-in-law, Gust Larson, and his father-in-law, Pete Johnson, all called on him during the afternoon.

ASH STEVENS japes at us because (says he) we are counting the days until Christmas. Be yourself, Ashton, and go play your banjo. It is not the days we are counting 'til Christmas; it's the money. And, gosh! How we count!

IT WILL BE almost like greeting an old friend when Muscle Shoals jumps out at us when congress starts going today. We've had old Muscle Shoals hanging around the front page for so many years, on and off, that we actually miss him when he's away. And there's so many people who are perfectly familiar with the name who don't know yet whether Muscle Shoals is a machine gun bandit or a health resort. (No, no, don't tell her; wait until Sen. Norris gets through and everybody will know just what Muscle Shoals is and why and how and when and where.)

The Cover—Ha—We Really Should Have a Cover Charge.

R. H. L.: Well, you'd better have a fine cover on the Linebook if you've left out Adelaide Love's exquisite "Star Creation," Anchusa's splendid "A Certain Rich Man," and "If I Were Conan Doyle." Those three things alone would make the Linebook a Christmas present to be treasured by any one—while without them—— Well, all I've got to say is you'd better have a fine cover on it, if you HAVE left them out! BROTHER JOHN.

LAGNIAPPE.

WE FEEL that we must hasten out to see the sleek, fat cattle in the stock show out at the yards this week. It's such a pleasure to look at anything that's sleek and fat these days.

OH, LAME DUCK, lame duck, fly away from home; the voters have told you get from under that dome. You've been voted out 'cause you nothing will do. Oh, lame duck, lame duck, for heaven's sake—SHOO! R. H. L.

FROM THE TRIBUNE'S COLUMNS

16 YEARS AGO TODAY

DECEMBER 1, 1914.

LONDON.—That the great battle between the Austro-German and the Russian armies in Russian Poland has become of prime moment, eclipsing in importance and intensity the struggle in France and Belgium, is the consensus of all the military men of the belligerent powers. Germany for the time being has turned all her greatest efforts against the Russians, and Berlin dispatches indicate that the kaiser has gone to headquarters of Field Marshal von Hindenburg. Great masses of troops from the western front have been shifted to the east to stem the Russian advance.

PARIS.—The French ministry of foreign affairs made public a Yellow book dealing with the causes of the present war, in which the blame is placed entirely on the shoulders of the Germans.

PARIS.—An official statement was issued dealing with affairs from Nov. 21 to Nov. 27. It says: "The general situation has not materially changed. The enemy has worn itself out in attacks, without result. Our counter-attacks have inflicted on him heavy losses and have brought some gain to ourselves."

CHICAGO.—The first human case of the foot and mouth disease in the present epidemic among cattle is believed to have been found in Joliet.

30 YEARS AGO TODAY

DECEMBER 1, 1900.

PARIS.—Oscar Wilde died of meningitis in a small hotel in the Latin quarter. For some time he had been living in the Rue des Beaux Arts under the name of Mammoth. It is stated that he was recently received into the Catholic church. The Journal says it is rumored that Wilde committed suicide. He had been indisposed for some time. He was born in Ireland in 1856. Once the apostle of the esthetic, his closing years were marked by almost degrading poverty. At the height of his career his plays were the delight of critics and he was popular in all circles. His downfall came in 1895. Grave offenses had followed his appearances everywhere, and his sins finally found him out. He was ostracized by society, tried and sent to prison in Reading gaol. Because of ill health he was pardoned in 1897.

CHICAGO — Unofficial announcement has been made of the selection of the Rev. Father P. J. Muldoon of St. Charles Borromeo's church as successor to Auxiliary Bishop McGavick of the Roman Catholic archdiocese of Chicago.

LONDON.—The war office confirms statements that Lord Roberts has handed over the chief command of the British forces in South Africa to Lord Kitchener, who has been promoted by the queen to be a lieutenant general, with the local rank of full general while commanding in South Africa.

CHICAGO. — Scottish songs were sung to the music of bagpipes at the Auditorium hotel when 500 Scotchmen gathered at the 55th annual banquet of the Illinois St. Andrews' society.

50 YEARS AGO TODAY

DECEMBER 1, 1880.

NEW YORK.—The secret is out of why Lord Leitrim, the Irish landlord, was assassinated. James Redpath, who arrived here from Ireland, speaking at the Irish Land league meeting in Newark, said: "All this year there have been only five cases of accidental deaths that any one can attribute to the tenants. One of the men killed was Lord Leitrim. If he had not been shot it would have been an eternal disgrace. He ruined thirty pure girls and the brother of one of them went to Ireland from Chicago and shot him down like the dog that he was. I hope the slayer will disclose his name that we may give him a testimonial."

CHICAGO.—Mayor Carter H. Harrison appointed W. J. McGarigle acting general superintendent of police to succeed Supt. Simon O'Donnell, whose resignation was accepted by the mayor. The mayor's action in putting at the head of the force so fine and popular an officer, with so clean a record, met with general praise.

CHICAGO.—Mrs. Scott-Siddons began her engagement at Hooley's in "King Rene's Daughter" and "The Honeymoon," and made a favorable impression.

JUDGE PADDEN ON BAIL.

Chicago, Nov. 28.—Not all the people arrested in Chicago are gangsters or hoodlums. Arrests in this city average about 150,000 a year, or about 400 a day. Seventeen thousand of these are arrests for felonies [penitentiary offenses]; the others, misdemeanors [Bridewell offenses], and cases punishable by a fine only. A small percentage of arrested persons stay in jail before trial, the others are free because they are let out under bond until their cases are disposed of. If they were all held without bail until trial there would be need for more and bigger jails. Only a very small percentage fail to appear for trial.

Except in cases where known criminals are involved or in cases where the charge is very serious, bail should be made easy. First, because a man should not be kept locked up before his guilt is established, and many who are arrested are in reality innocent. Second, the cost of keeping several thousand prisoners until trial would cost many millions of dollars every year. The best assurance that a defendant will appear for trial is that the bondsman has sufficient property and is a reliable citizen. The new bond department proposed to be established should be equipped to furnish information to the judge so he will know that the surety has title to the real estate and that it has a net worth equal to twice the amount of the bond, as the law requires.

In some instances it would be unfair to keep a prisoner in jail until some one viewed and appraised the bondsman's real estate. Neither would it be fair in all cases to accept only property free from mortgages or other liens. Most real estate is mortgaged. A good piece of property with a mortgage on it is good security and might belong to the only person the prisoner could get to go bail for him. What would happen if a judge refused to approve such a bond? In many cases a man with a family would lie in jail for months before trial, with consequent hardship to himself and family, only to be found innocent after he had been punished. A careful judge with good common sense will use his discretion in the matter and not allow himself to be bound by some rigid rule that will result in injustice.

The law says nothing about requiring unmortgaged property to be scheduled by a surety. In fact, in the exercise of a sound discretion the judge may allow a defendant to go on his own bond without a surety. It is often done in the interests of justice and it is a good thing that a judge has that power. There are too many good people being arrested in Chicago and too many bad ones at large.

The argument is often used that a mortgage will prevent the state from collecting on a forfeited bond. What of it? Bonds are not required of defendants in order to produce revenue for the state. They merely provide a penalty against a bondsman who fails to see that the defendant appears for trial. No reliable man wants his equity in his real estate taken from him or a judgment against him for the amount of the bond and the danger of such a result will make a reliable surety reasonably sure of his man before he signs a bond. It is only the irresponsible trickster that one must guard against, and that is where the bond department can assist by giving the necessary information to the judge.

Bonds given in felony cases are immediately recorded and become a lien on the real estate. If a surety, after a forfeiture of one bond, attempts to sign another, the record will disclose the fact and his second bond will be rejected.

The gangster and hoodlum have the means usually to meet any reasonable amount of bail that is required. In trying to make it hard for him the judges should be careful not to pass a lot of hard rules that will only make it difficult for the casual offender or the innocent defendant, leaving the professional criminal unaffected.

FRANK M. PADDEN,
Judge, Municipal Court of Chicago.

THE SETTING HEN.

Macomb, Ill., Nov. 22.—In this morning's TRIBUNE you have a funny squib about a feathered scoffaw, referring to an article in yesterday's TRIBUNE about a setting hen concealing six pints of alcoholic liquor. This is a right good one, but you left out the best part of it; you did not tell who the feathered scoffaw was. Of all the papers that come to my office, to my mind none of them fills the bill so well as you, THE TRIBUNE, to represent the setting hen.

LYMAN B. VOSE.

WET SUCCESS IN IOWA.

Clinton, Ia., Nov. 18.—An Anti-Saloon league indorsement is rapidly becoming a liability, as was shown in the Illinois vote for United States senator. Less than 2 per cent of the vote was cast for the league's well advertised candidate.

We beat four of their candidates in this county on Nov. 4 and sent a repealer to congress. There was no sidestepping or straddling, either.

It is by sheer bluff alone that the league can claim a majority in congress or the legislatures, and when the voters awaken to the fact there will be no more "vast majorities" represented by trimming politicians secretly pledged to drys while being elected by both wets and drys. F. CLIFFORD.

HOPE OF PEACE DAWNS IN BRITISH COAL MINE CRISIS

92,000 in Scotland May Withdraw Strike Threat.

BY JOHN STEELE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Nov. 30.—Brighter hopes for peace in the British coal fields were expressed today despite the strike threat of 92,000 miners in Scotland, who have refused to accept the "spread over" of 90 hours per fortnight in place of a flat seven and a half hour day as provided for in the new coal mines act which becomes a law tomorrow.

Latest reports tonight indicate that the miners will resume wark tomorrow as usual in every English district and all South Wales areas. Only in Scotland will there be an exception. The stoppage there actually commenced tonight, although reports indicate that the stoppage is not general. Meanwhile conferences are going on, and it is anticipated that an amicable settlement will be reached within a day or two.

The most important meeting will take place next Thursday when the delegates of the Miners' Federation, meeting in London, will reconsider the surprise rejection of the owners' offer of a "spread over" instead of wage cuts which they threatened if the seven and half hour day was insisted upon.

Workers Surprise Government.

The government had not thought for a minute that the miners would hold out for a shorter day in the face of the danger of a general stoppage, but the federation threw a monkey wrench into the works on Friday night, bringing on a crisis which involves 300,000 men. It is now considered certain that the decision will be reversed and that thus the "spread over" will become legal under a clause of the mines act permitting its adoption if approved by the federation and the board of trade.

Scotch May Reconsider.

Meanwhile, most of the mines will work under a technical violation of the new act, but the government will wink at the violation during the next few days in order to arrange a compromise agreement.

It was pointed out today that the Scottish national union acted before it knew that the other groups had agreed to the day by day contract until the question was reconsidered. News of the compromise in other fields probably will influence the Scottish union to relent.

BRITISH LAUNCH 10 TON ALL METAL NAVAL SEAPLANE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Nov. 30.—What is claimed to be the world's largest all-metal armed military flying boat was launched today by the British air ministry at Brough, near Hull.

The boat, which is the first of the "Sydney" class adopted by the air ministry, was built in the Blackburn works under the greatest secrecy. The public was barred from tests made on the Humber. The flying boat weighs nearly ten tons unloaded and is built of duralumin. It carries a crew of 21.

The new air boat, equipped with three motors, is especially designed for reconnaisance and coastal patrol. The launching was witnessed by 250. The machine taxied over the water and took off for the royal air force seaplane base at Felixstow.

GETS FIT IN SHOES, ROBS STORE.

After being fitted with a pair of shoes, a supposed customer in a shop at 811 East 63d street yesterday drew a gun, forced the proprietor, George Widen, into a rear room and escaped after robbing the till of $190.

'FIVE YEAR PLAN IN FOUR' IS NOW RUSSIA'S SLOGAN

Soviet Official Gives Data to Show Present Success

For the last two years the soviet union has been concentrating its energies on one of the most momentous experiments in present day history—an effort to place the union and its 150,000,000 inhabitants on a modern industrial basis in five years.

This huge undertaking of seeking to bridge over the gap from a frequently primitive and backward industrial development to a modernized one has been watched with the keenest interest.

The Associated Press herewith presents exclusively an official analysis from the soviet viewpoint of what has been accomplished by the soviet union. It was prepared by Valerian V. Kuibyshev, vice president of the council of people's commissars and president of the state planning commission, which drew up the five year plan.

[Copyright, 1930, and all rights reserved by the Associated Press.]

MOSCOW, Nov. 30.—(AP)—Claims of full success for soviet Russia's five year plan and the confident prediction that it will be fulfilled not in five years but in four are made by Valerian V. Kuibyshev, president of the state planning commission, the man responsible for the operation of the plan.

"The present task," he said, "consists of fulfillment of the plan before schedule—that is, in four years."

A portion of M. Kuibyshev's analysis of the present results of the plan follows:

"On Oct. 1 ended the second year of piatiletka [the five year plan], that same piatiletka which excited the minds of the whole world and over which the bitterest discussion has been and continues to be conducted throughout the world. The last two years have revealed piatiletka being exceeded in the most important sections of national economy.

Claim $15,280,000,000 Output.

"In planned industries the value of the first two years of output under piatiletka is estimated at 30,456,000,000 rubles [about $15,280,000,000].

"The extent to which actual output exceeds estimates may be gauged from the following figures:

OIL: Estimated under piatiletka 28,000,000 tons; actual output 30,600,000 tons.

STEEL: Estimated 9,900,000 tons; output, 10,200,000.

ROLLED METAL: Estimated 7,600,000 tons; output, 8,300,000 tons.

ELECTRO-TECHNICAL: Estimated 588,000,000 rubles; output, 781,000,000 rubles.

AGRICULTURAL MACHINERY: Estimated, 472,000,000 rubles; output, 515,000,000 rubles.

Increase Means of Production.

"It must be emphasized that the increase in the output of industries producing means of production amounted last year to 40 per cent, exceeding the planned figure for the year by 16 per cent.

"The building program industries also are far in advance of the piatiletka figures. While during the first year the construction program only slightly exceeded the piatiletka estimates, in the second year, that is 1929-'30, the piatiletka estimate was exceeded by 27 per cent, against an estimated 2,331,000,000 rubles.

"A very great advance has been made in the field of agriculture. The sown area increased from 118,000,000 hectares in 1928-'29 to 127,700,000 in 1929-'30. Improved cultivation of the land, particularly on collective state farms, and the consequent growth of yield resulted in 1930 in a gross grain crop amounting to 86,500,000 tons, against 71,700,000 in 1929, an increase of 20.6 per cent.

"These striking successes are the direct result of collectivization and state farm development. More than five million peasant households rejected individual farming and took up collective farming.

"The second year of piatiletka recorded a particularly sharp advance in the socialization of live stock, which, coupled with the organization of great cattle farms, brings us near solution of the cattle breeding problem. This problem will be solved by the same methods as the grain problem.

"The growth of the collectivization movement has provided splendid confirmation of the soundness of the policy pursued by the soviet government toward the peasantry. It has done this by liquidating the kulaks [rich peasants] as a class and basing itself upon collective farmers.

"Here modernization of agricultural technique plays an immense rôle. The value of agricultural machinery employed in field work increased from 1,400,000,000 rubles to 17,000,000,000 rubles. The tractor park reached 1,022,000 horsepower against the 560,000 provided for under piatiletka.

Transport Exceeds Expectations.

"The powerful growth of industry and agriculture has put great strain upon transport, particularly railways. Under piatiletka, the railways were expected to carry in the first two years 350,900,000 tons of freight; actually they carried 409,200,000. Passenger traffic also exceeded piatiletka estimates, the figures being 51,500,000,000 and 77,100,000,000 passenger-kilometers respectively.

"The improvement in the condition of the toilers was reflected primarily in the growth of employment. The total number of employed reached 13,684,000 in 1929-'30, against 12,793,000 projected for this year in piatiletka.

"Improvement in the condition of the toilers was reflected also in a further increase in the number of workers enjoying a seven hour day; at the beginning of the second year of piatiletka 19.1 per cent of workers worked seven hours a day, at the end of that year the number of factory workers enjoying the seven hour day reached 43.5 per cent of the total, exceeding piatiletka provisions by 3.5 per cent.

"This general improvement of the toilers' condition was accompanied by a further rise of wages, which in the last two years increased on an average of 12.1 per cent.

"The question of the fulfillment of piatiletka in scheduled time, that is in five years, no longer is a problem to us, as this task already has been exceeded as is shown above. The present task consists in the fulfillment of piatiletka before schedule, that is in four years. The above figures show we are accomplishing this object."

DAVIS ADVOCATES DRASTIC CURB ON IMMIGRATION

Urges Ban on All Alien Job Seekers.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 30.—[Special.]—Drastic restrictions of immigration into the United States are advocated by Secretary of Labor James J. Davis in his annual report made public today.

He states that he formerly advocated nothing further than the expedition of the entry of those immigrants for whom there was an economic need in this country.

"In the light of experience during the last year, however," he declares, "I am now convinced that no new and unattached immigrants coming for the purpose of seeking employment should be admitted to the country unless it had been previously determined by the department of labor that there was an actual need for the kind of service they are qualified to render in this country.

See Action by Congress.

"I would exempt from this plan of control immigrants coming to join near relatives already in the United States."

This pronouncement of Secretary Davis, coming so shortly after the proposal of Senator David A. Reed [Rep., Pa.], who advocated a shut down of immigration for two years, and in view of the administration's policy of restricting consular visas during the last several months, makes it probable, it is believed, that further immigration control—perhaps patterned after Secretary Davis' proposal—will come up for consideration and possible enactment at the coming session of congress.

Points to Need for Change.

"In previous reports and in various other ways," he says in his report, "I have repeatedly advocated the adoption of a scientific system of selecting our immigrants within the established quotas, with a view to meeting demonstrated needs for the service of such immigrants in the United States. The industrial depression during the last year has more clearly than ever shown the need for this departure from our present haphazard method of immigration control."

It would, Secretary Davis points out, obviate such a situation as existed during the depression of 1921 when despite the fact that 5,000,000 American workers were jobless 805,000 immigrants were permitted to enter the country under the existing laws.

SEE FRENCH BID FOR U. S. AID TO HEAL WORLD ILLS

Consider Americans as Disinterested Helpers.

PARIS, Nov. 30.—(AP)—Premier Tardieu's call for a real working financial and economic agreement between France and the United States, made in a Thanksgiving day address before the American club, has aroused nation-wide interest.

It was observed tonight that while French statesmen of other days have sought ententes with Great Britain or Russia, as circumstances suggested, Premier Tardieu appears to have thrown his force particularly in working out what might be called a non-political agreement with the American republic.

Friends of M. Tardieu pictured him as not having any great interest at present in disarmament agreements, because he deems that France and the United States have before them the more pressing problem of international economic ills and the necessity of putting on their feet nations which are being crushed by disturbance of economic laws and by overproduction of raw materials.

M. Tardieu welcomes the exercise of American political influence in Europe because he is convinced it is disinterestedly beneficial.

An economist remarked tonight that since France and the United States have the biggest gold hoardings in the world they possess between them a card against war.

It was insisted this card can be held in hand by refusing credits to nations which indulge in war talk. It was argued that, without joining the league of nations and entering an official league economic and financial blockade against nations menacing the world with war, the United States can potently reinforce the Kellogg peace pact by refusing financial aid to countries who talk belligerently.

A spokesman for the government said today there was no agreement of this nature between the governments of France and the United States, but there is general belief here that the banking interests of the two republics will act along this line.

French newspapers give prominence to a statement by the Italian embassy that Italy has not asked for foreign loans and therefore none has been refused.

Premier Tardieu has been giving an increasing amount of time to visiting Americans, like George L. Harrison, governor of the Federal Reserve Bank of New York, who represent vital American interests. He continues to drive home his conviction that Europe must be reconstructed economically so that prosperity may return and world buying power increase.

FOUND SLAIN IN CAR; COMPANION HELD BY POLICE

John Roman, 40 years old, 2241 Clybourn avenue, a janitor, was found shot to death in his automobile at Webster and Elston avenues yesterday morning. The Shakespeare avenue police arrested Philip Mintaro, 1405 Delaware street, Gary, Ind., for questioning, when Roman's widow said that her husband had visited Mintaro Saturday night at 120 South Halsted street.

Mintaro said that they had discussed Roman's efforts to find him work and a debt of $145 which he owed the janitor. When the police came to his home he said that he was awaiting the return of his friend.

Roman's car crashed into a building. He was taken to the Alexian Brothers' hospital, where it was learned that he had been shot twice, both bullets entering near his heart. A revolver was found in the street.

The Railroads Carry Traffic — and Taxes

A Message from
L. A. Downs,
President,
Illinois Central System.

Every taxpayer has a direct interest in the preservation of railway transportation.

The railroads carry a substantial part of the general tax burden. Loss of patronage impairs their ability to bear that burden.

The railroads pay for their own roadways and pay taxes on them. The roadways used by other methods of transportation are provided by the taxpayers and are untaxed.

In some communities railway taxes constitute more than half the support of public schools. In some others there are abandoned railway lines which cannot be taxed.

Taxpayers ought to think twice before denying their patronage to the railroads. Choosing transportation is equivalent to voting on taxes.

OKLAHOMA WINS COLLEGE STOCK JUDGING TROPHY

Announce Team Results at International Show.

By outscoring 22 other five man teams from agricultural colleges, the Oklahoma A. and M. college won the trophy for the best live stock judging in the intercollegiate class at the 30th International Live Stock exposition at the stock yards, it was announced yesterday.

Not only did the team place highest, but Ursel R. Cavett of Jet, Okla., finished as highest individual judge and rated 874 points out of a possible 1,000 Kansas State Agricultural college men finished second, the Kentucky Agricultural college team placed third, and the Iowa State college at Ames won fourth. Oklahoma college receives the bronze bull trophy which was won last year by Purdue and while will travel a circuit of agricultural college winners until it is won three times by the same school, and then that school will keep it.

Large Crowd Attends.

Yesterday was considered an unusual Sunday for the International Stock show, in that more than 30,000 persons thronged the exhibit halls and the amphitheater. Ideal weather conditions brought them out in record attendance, although the Sunday program, as usual, did not include any judging or the spectacular afternoon or evening horse shows.

The management of the show indicated that from the thousands of visitors brought in by trains in the last 24 hours that Chicago will be host by tonight to 100,000 persons, including many of the most prominent figures in the agricultural world.

Walter Biggar, world famed authority on cattle, and a resident of Dalbeattie, Scotland, steps into the ring this morning to begin a round of judging that will end with the selection of the grand champion steer of the show.

Special interest attaches to the fortunes of Sarah Ann Tolan, 14 year old high school freshman of Farmingdale, Ill., who as owner and exhibitor of Chocolate, Aberdeen Angus, yearling, was proclaimed winner of the grand championship in the junior live stock feeding contest. There also is her father, John Tolan, whose carload lot entries of Aberdeen Angus averaging 90 pounds each took another grand championship for the Tolan family.

Dress Costing $1.88 Wins First.

A dress that cost only $1.88 won a first prize for Margaret Loar of Rawlings, Md., in the cotton school dress class. Ruth Nance of Fulton county, Georgia, made a complete outfit for a Four-H club girl at a cost of $16.32 and won a first place and a $30 prize. Dorothy Hopkins of Stillwater, Okla., was first with a children's garment entry. Forty-three states and a Canadian province are represented among the 1,400 club girls and boys registered last night at the International.

First awards announced in the grain division found Canada prominent yesterday among the prize winners. Mary E. Maycock of Milford, Ont., took first in field beans, with L. E. Peterson of Victor, Mont., second. Herman Trelle, the 1927 wheat king at the International, from Wembley, Alberta, was named champion, and Cecil Trowell of Saltcoat, Sask., reserve champion for samples of field peas.

ERROR CAUSES RIOT; 5 LONDON POLICEMEN HURT

LONDON, Nov. 30.—(AP)—Five policemen were injured and an unrecorded number of persons were clubbed by police during a riot in Hyde park late tonight.

The incident occurred as police were attempting to arrest some rowdies outside the park. These ran inside and mingled with the crowds around the soap box orators, who by tradition are permitted to voice their grievances at a prescribed place near the marble arch.

When the constables lunged into the crowds after their men the audiences thought they were being deprived of the Briton's right to free speech. They attacked the police, who swung their clubs in a wild scene. Order finally was restored and four persons were arrested.

Jugo-Slav Border Patrol Ambushed; 1 Soldier Slain

CANAPE, Italy, Nov. 30.—(AP)—A border patrol of six soldiers was ambushed in the mountains, near the Jugo-Slavian line this afternoon and one soldier was killed in the exchange of firing.

OPEN AN ACCOUNT FOR CASH

Good for a loan of $100 to $300 in CASH—any time*

Many husbands and wives believe that it is difficult and complicated to make a loan of $100 to $300 without stocks, bonds, or real estate for security. This is not true—

Borrowing $100 to $300 from us is as simple as this: You ask us for the money you need. We ask you questions that enable us to give you credit. Then we open an account in your name for the money—just like opening a charge account for clothing or furniture. Then we give you the money in cash.

Money is advanced, under this Plan, to husbands and wives—no other signatures or endorsers are required. Neither are inquiries made about you through friends, relatives or employer. We give you as long as a year and eight months to repay your loan. If you wish, however, you may make larger and more frequent payments than we require, or you may pay up your entire balance at any time. Charge will be made only for the actual time you keep the money, and our rate is nearly one-third less than the maximum lawful rate.

Come in, write, or phone to make a loan. If more convenient, a representative will call at your home.

*As a special service, Household makes loans of $50 to $100 at a rate slightly higher than the rate on loans of $100 to $300.

"Don't say I'm married"

. . . plead Hollywood's famous stars

IS IT dangerous to be married in Hollywood? Is it professional suicide for a screen star to have a husband? Have studio officials put a ban on marriage?

Almost every day some new star willingly signs a contract which forbids her to marry. Others, happily married, deliberately conceal the fact.

Even Hollywood reporters, who are supposed to see all, know all, and tell all, were surprised when Sue Carol, Jeanette Loff, Jean Harlow, Helen Twelvetrees and other stars recently sued for divorce. No one even knew they were married!

"Please don't say I'm married! Please don't say I have a baby!" That is the plea of many stars. Why? Has marriage ruined more Hollywood careers than scandal? Would the public refuse to accept Clara Bow, Constance Bennett, Greta Garbo as married women with families?

Phantom husbands uncovered

Dozens of men have remained "phantom" husbands—so that their wives might become stars. They remain in the background while their wives seek the spotlight. They sit by quietly while their wives are reported engaged to other men.

Guarded secrets of Hollywood

How do the stars rate as human beings? What is the mental average of Ruth Chatterton, Nancy Carroll, Ann Harding and other well-known stars? Samuel Richard Mook has had personal contact with the stars for many years. He knows what they read, what they think, what they say in conversation. And now he has classified them for you—strictly according to their brains. "Beauty Gets a Mental Test" will surprise you with its many revelations about the stars. Don't miss this unique article.

This month's issue of Picture Play contains a striking new story about Clara Bow which presents the other side of this madcap, fiery star whose exploits have always made front page news. You'll enjoy the story about Walter Byron and the interview with Frederic March; also the clever feature articles about Nancy Carroll and Marie Dressler. Inez Sebastian continues her novel "Babes in Hollywood". Reviews, gossip, photographs and personal information about Hollywood. Get Picture Play Magazine now.

FLYER, HIS WIFE, SON DIE WHEN PLANE CRASHES

Ship Sideslips and Falls 400 Feet.

Mitchell, S. D., Nov. 30.—(AP)—Bob French, 30, commercial airplane pilot, his wife and 8 year old son were killed here today when their plane sideslipped and crashed 400 feet to the earth.

Witnesses said it appeared that French had banked too steeply and could not regain control when the plane sideslipped. The plane was completely demolished. The family lived in Mitchell.

Two Killed in Plane.

Stockton, Cal., Nov. 30.—(AP)—An attempt to make a quick takeoff in a rented airplane cost the lives of two men on the Orange brothers' airport today.

The dead were Frank W. Reed, 30, pilot, and Orlando Williams, 28, a passenger, both of Stockton. Immediately after leaving the ground, observers said, Reed tried to climb too rapidly and his plane stalled 200 feet above the airport and crashed.

Two Texas Flyers Killed.

San Antonio, Tex., Nov. 30.—(AP)—A. P. Taxman, 22, of Wichita Falls, Tex., and O. P. Waldrop, 31, of Sherman, Tex., were killed in an airplane crash 40 miles north of here today while flying from Tulsa, Okla., to San Antonio.

HUNT 5TH BANDIT WHO FLED POLICE TRAP IN KILLING

Two squads of detectives under Lieut. Phil Carroll and Sergt. Dan Healy went to Cicero last night to hunt the one man who escaped a police trap Saturday night when an attempt to hold up a group of commission merchants in a restaurant at 818 West Randolph street was frustrated. They were acting on information that the man was seeking medical attention in Cicero for the wounds he received when Sergt. Healy fired six shots at him.

A report that the hunted man may be Sam Battaglia, who was recently acquitted of a charge of robbing Mayor Thompson's wife, was neither confirmed nor denied by Chief of Detectives Norton. The four robbers captured during the holdup were known to be associates of Battaglia.

The four prisoners are Dan Clementi, 309 Sholto street; Joseph Catrino, 714 South Ashland avenue; Joseph Pupelli, 732 South Ridgeway avenue, and Philip Epstein, 911 South Spaulding avenue.

Assistant State's Attorney Harry S. Ditchburne said all of them would be charged with murder because of the killing of Leonard S. Sanor, a patron of the restaurant, who was shot by one of the robbers.

Passengers of French Plane Safe; Land at Monte Cristo

ROME, Nov. 30.—(AP)—Passengers and crew of the French seaplane Falyz, which through motor trouble landed in the sea near the Island of Monte Cristo yesterday afternoon, were rescued today and taken to the island.

N. Y. TO COAST PASSENGERS DUE HERE THIS P. M.

New York, Nov. 30.—[Special.]—Direct air passenger service, weather permitting, will open tomorrow between New York and San Francisco by way of Chicago. At noon the first passenger plane of the N. A. T., Inc., service is scheduled to leave the Newark metropolitan airport for Chicago.

The big trimotored plane will carry both mail and passengers and will land at Cleveland, Toledo, and Chicago, arriving in Chicago at 6 p. m., Chicago time.

The mail will then be transferred to the Boeing lines for delivery in San Francisco shortly after noon on the following day, less than thirty hours after leaving New York.

Use 15,000 Feet of Hose to Fight Elevator Fire

Fire in the top section of an abandoned grain elevator at 4712 Roosevelt road yesterday had to be fought by firemen of engine companies Nos. 77 and 113 with scaling ladders because of the height of the flames. Battalion Chief Michael Kerwin said 15,000 feet of hose were used. The fire was soon extinguished with damage not to exceed $2,000. It is believed to have started from locomotive sparks in an adjoining railroad yards.

ALDERMEN SEE 'TIGHT SQUEEZE' IN NEW BUDGET

Study Revenues to Avoid Pitfalls of New Law.

BY OSCAR HEWITT.

The council finance committee through its chairman, Ald. John S. Clark [30th], announced yesterday that it will begin consideration of the annual corporate budget on Wednesday or Thursday. This will be formulated under the new law, which—as the chairman phrased it—"makes it very dangerous to over-appropriate."

This new statute says that "if the appropriations from any fund . . . shall exceed in the aggregate the maximum amount which such corporate authorities are herein authorized to appropriate therefrom, all appropriations made from such fund by such ordinance shall be void . . ." Then it provides that the appropriations from such fund for the preceding year shall be substituted automatically.

Predicts "Tight Squeeze."

There appears to be such danger of excess appropriations that Chairman Clark said that he will have the committee study the estimated revenue for a day or two. He also plans to ask much more information than usual of the city departments.

"It looks like we will have a tight squeeze," went on the chairman, "but I don't know off hand where we can curb expenses, without reducing service, except in the department of license. I for one favor reduction of that department or its abolition altogether, if it is true—as I have heard—that they increased the force immediately before election, and then fired the men after election.

"I have been told they have eaten up the money so that civil service employes will be compelled to lay off without pay for two or three weeks. These civil service employes do all of the work there.

"If crime conditions will permit, perhaps the police can bring in the license payers."

Consider Idle Police Captains.

"What are you going to do about the high priced captains of police in the miscellaneous division who have nothing to do except to play pinochle?

"Unquestionably that subject will be considered," replied the chairman.

"Do you advocate saving any more than the $324,000 by the abolition of the license bureau?" he was asked.

"I haven't examined the controller's estimates closely," he replied, "but I have read the newspaper reports that the tax valuations from which we get taxes next April, will probably be reduced $200,000,000, and that means a $2,000,000 loss to the corporate fund.

"Certain businesses have contested the paying of license fees. Filling stations, which would pay us $600,000 a year are in the Supreme court fighting both 1929 and 1930 collections."

On the face of City Controller Schmidt's estimates the corporate fund will have $64,978,452 total assets to appropriate for 1931. Last year the council appropriated $63,315,563 for corporate purposes; and on the face of the record it would appear that the city council will have $1,600,000 more to apportion next year.

The fact is that the city council will have considerably less for current expenses. The new law requires the city to appropriate for judgments and other liabilities, and for loss and cost of tax collections, which has not heretofore been the rule.

City Controller Schmidt set up no appropriation to pay the sanitary district for electric power. Nor is any sum set aside for rent, power and other expenses due the water system. These two items incurred liabilities of $386,000 last year.

Tax Loss Set at $4,500,880.

Controller Schmidt's estimate of the loss and cost of collecting taxes is $4,500,880, or 9 per cent of the taxes extended. That apparently is low.

The total taxes for the corporate expense, library, tuberculosis sanitarium, public schools, sundry pensions, and for payment of bonds and interest totaled $133,922,312 for the last year for which a complete report is available. The total cash received from these levies was only $114,964,848. That is the cost and loss of $18,957,000, or 13.3 per cent.

It is rumored that the delinquent taxes in the current levies aggregate about $30,000,000, instead of $18,957,000. If this report proves true, the controller's estimate of loss and cost is $2,500,000 short of the probable amount. An appropriation for this loss must be made, if all the corporate appropriations are not to run the risk of being declared void.

These figures indicate that there will be only $57,590,000 available this year for items for which $63,315,563 was appropriated last year, or a reduction of $5,724,000.

Identify Four Suspects as Racquet Club Robbers

The robbery on Nov. 6 of the Racquet club, 1361 North Dearborn street, in which $670 was stolen, was believed solved last night with the identification of four men as the bandits. They are Wallace Snyder, Edward Kientz, and Fred Fellhorst, all of 1809 North Park avenue, and Ernest Hahn, 2241 Lincoln street. Two other men are held with them. The identification was made in a showup of 140 criminal suspects before 300 robbery victims at the detective bureau.

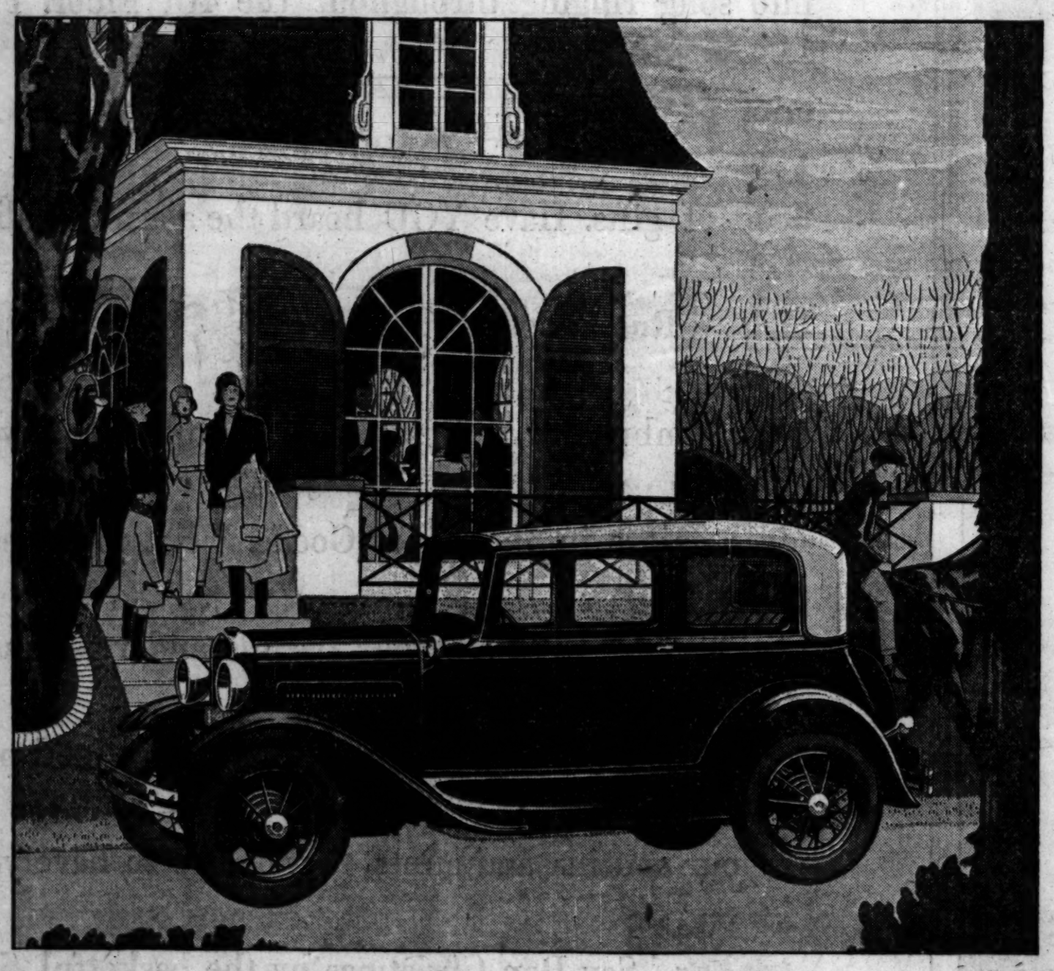
The Ford Victoria



A NEW FORD BODY TYPE OF DISTINCTIVE BEAUTY

TODAY, a new Ford body type of distinctive beauty is on display by Ford dealers in this city and throughout the United States. It is called the Victoria and is distinguished by many features of design, comfort and convenience. It marks a new degree of value in a low-price car.

The striking lines of the Ford Victoria are especially apparent in the graceful sweep of the straighter, lower top, the slanting windshield and the curving bustle back, with the spare wheel set at a conforming angle. There is a suggestion of continental design also in the shape and size of the side windows and the intimate four-passenger seating arrangement.

As you open the door and step within the car you will be impressed by the dignity and richness of its appointments. Many details of finish reflect the mode and manner of a custom-built automobile.

The ample, deeply cushioned seats are carefully tailored and upholstered in luxurious mohair or fashionable Bedford cord, optional with the purchaser. Both of the individual front seats have form-fitting backs and fold forward. The rear seat is low and comfortable, with side arm rests that contribute to easy riding. Satin-finish hardware gives a quiet touch of brightness.

Another appreciated feature of the new Ford Victoria is a choice of attractive body colors in rich pyroxylin lacquer. They complement its fresh new lines and contour and help to give it distinctive place on every highway.

See this beautiful new car today at the showrooms of the nearest Ford dealer and arrange for a road demonstration. You will find much to admire in its safety, comfort, and alert, capable performance.

—but you can have it dependably and legally for use in your own home

THE problem is solved at last. Yours again—the pure juice of the grape with all its unforgettable bouquet and glorious flavor—always legal for use in your own home (by the distinct provisions of Section 29 of the National Prohibition Act) and now made dependably available to you by a great grower-cooperative organization with a vintner's experience dating back 95 years.

VINE-GLO! A name to remember. Not a novelty—not a concoction. Just the pure juice of California's finest wine-grapes as it comes from the press—brought to you with a guarantee of absolute satisfaction or your money back.

THERE IS JUST ONE WAY TO GET IT

The method of getting VINE-GLO to you is novel but simple. You will not find it on display in any store. Nor will any agent call at your door to sell it. But you can order it from our "selected dealers"—and we will deliver it into your home.

So go now to the VINE-GLO dealer in your neighborhood (you will know him by the emblem in his window). Ask him about VINE-GLO—then place your order for the varieties and quantities you want.

CHILDREN URGED TO HELP SPEED CHRISTMAS MAIL

Asked to Advise Parents Against Delays.

An appeal to school children of Chicago to facilitate the Christmas mail and to aid in putting the dead letter office out of business is being made by postal authorities. It is hoped that the message, delivered in classrooms and through other channels, will reach parents and adults through the children.

Coöperation from the public in the yuletide mail rush is essential, points out Postmaster General Walter F. Brown in his appeal. With First Assistant Arch Coleman, he urges first that all packages for out of town delivery in Chicago be sent out on or before Dec.15, and that packages for delivery in Chicago be sent out on or before Dec. 19.

No Writing Is Permitted.

The words, "Do not open until Christmas," may be written on all packages, but the packages, Mr. Brown warns, should not be sealed nor contain writing.

There will be no delivery Christmas day and the postoffice will be closed the preceding Sunday, postal officials advise, and suggestions of the department for early mailing should be followed if the tons of mail flowing into the local division around Dec. 25 are to be handled properly.

Tons to Dead Letter Office.

According to estimates, more than 15,000,000 pieces of mail annually cannot be delivered by the Chicago postoffice because of faulty addresses, no return addresses, and poor wrappings.

Plain and complete addresses, of sender and receiver, and secure wrappings are among the more important items for the assurance of successful delivery, the postmaster general says.

WORK PLEDGED FOR IDLE AFTER RIOTS IN TURIN

TURIN, Italy, Nov. 30—(AP)—Last week's demonstrations by the unemployed, resulting from erroneous reports that the Fiat Motor company was to close indefinitely, have resulted in a decision by the prefect that all public works programs shall be begun immediately.

Last weeks' manifestants dared the authorities by marching publicly with pockets turned inside out to advertise their penniless plight. They rifled a bread wagon and wrote on walls: "Bread for our children or the head of Mussolini!"

The police acted vigorously and the Fascist militia was called out, but the authorities immediately acted for relief. There are about 30,000 unemployed in Turin province.

FOOD SHIP HITS CLIFF IN STORM; 3 DIE; 1 SAVED

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ST. JOHN'S, N. F., Nov. 30. — A northeast gale with blinding snow flurries brought disaster to a small schooner which left here at daylight yesterday.

William Croft, his brother, George, the latter's son, Bernard, were drowned when the vessel struck a cliff at Church Cove, near Aquaforte. William Croft Jr. jumped safely to a crevice on the cliff.

The schooner was bound for Aquaforte with winter provisions for many families who are now destitute.

MORE SCHOOLS FOR HAITIANS IS ASKED IN REPORT

Washington, D. C., Nov. 30.—(AP)—The United States commission on education in Haiti today recommended to President Hoover that the United States assist in the establishment of an adequate educational system for the Caribbean republic.

The recommendation was embodied in a report on Haitian educational conditions made by Dr. R. R. Moton, chairman of the commission, after a sojourn of several months with the other four commissioners in Haiti.

The commission recommended immediate cessation of capital outlay for more farm schools in Haiti, which it said were not needed as much as progress in other educational lines.

Sixty-one specific recommendations of the commission included provisions for the return of a unified educational program under the secretary of state for public instruction; "for the payment of salaries to American teachers by the United States.

REACHES BRAZIL'S CAPITAL WITH 1ST U. S. AIR MAIL

RIO DE JANEIRO, Nov. 30.—(AP)—S. J. Williamson, flying a Sikorsky amphibion, brought the first United States air mail to the capital of Brazil this afternoon, marking a new era in commercial relations between the two republics.

He flew the 860 miles from Bahia in 8¼ hours, making three stops en route. His cargo—52 sacks of mail, left Miami, Fla., a week ago, and thus the trip cut the steamer mail time between New York and Rio by six days.

Return mail will leave here Tuesday morning and arrive in New York seven days later, since the northward trip is one day shorter than that to the south.

SHIP INSURANCE ON LAKES ENDED FOR THIS WINTER

Midnight last night marked the opening of the "gambling season" on the great lakes, so-called because at that time insurance on many classes of ships expired and from now until the ice locks the harbors mariners who still have voyages to make must pit their skill against wintry storms without insurance protection for their cargoes.

Ship captains were reassured by the fact that 1930 so far has been a year devoid of major disasters on the lakes. The death toll thus far this year is 12, compared with more than 100 deaths in 1929.

BRUENING TO O. K. GERMAN FINANCE LAWS BY DECREE

BERLIN, Nov. 30.—(AP)—The Bruening cabinet tonight busied itself with putting into final form emergency decrees whereby the financial reform program will be declared law by virtue of the extraordinary powers of article 48 of the constitution.

Chancellor Bruening yesterday gave up hope of obtaining passage of his drastic financial housecleaning measures by regular parliamentary means, and indicated that he would arbitrarily approve them himself under the semi-dictatorial powers granted under the article.

He made this decision after the Social Democrats served notice they could not support him. At the same time they gave the government to understand they would not join the communists, Nationalists and Fascists in voting for annulment of the program, if it has already been declared law by the time the reichstag meets again next Wednesday.

30,000 FILIPINOS WEAR HOMESPUN IN LIBERTY MARCH

MANILA, Nov. 30.—(AP)—During a demonstration today commemorating Andres Bonifacio, Filipino patriot, 20,000 Filipinos became members of the new Katipunan nationalistic organization which hopes to prove to the United States the Philippines want independence. The association was recently organized by Manuel Roxas, speaker of the house of representatives of the insular legislature.

A parade by some 30,000 men, women, and children for a mile and a half to the legislative building was preceded by administration of an oath of allegiance.

Nationalism was the keynote of the day and every participant was supposed to wear only clothing manufactured in the Philippines. The organization's executive committee wore "barong tagalog," a coat made of hemp.

$200,000 RADIO PLANT BLAZE IN MILWAUKEE

Milwaukee, Wis., Dec. 1.—[Special.]—Damage estimated at $200,000 was caused last night to the plant and stock of the Economy Boys' radio store and the Fairbanks-Frey Engraving company when fire attacked a two story brick structure in the downtown section. Damage to the radio stock was estimated at $100,000. One fireman was slightly hurt.

1794 BLUE LAW CLOSES SUNDAY BENEFIT MOVIE

Philadelphia, Pa., Nov. 30.—(AP)—Police tonight stopped a picture show being given at the Kent theater under the auspices of members of the veterans of foreign wars to aid the city's unemployed, ordered the audience to disperse and arrested three persons. Under the state's blue laws of 1794 Sunday amusements are forbidden.

War veterans said a police permit for the entertainment had been obtained several days ago, but was later canceled after a delegation of ministers had protested to Director of Public Safety Schofield.

Members of two American Legion posts joined forces tonight with sponsors of the show and, led by a band playing "Onward Christian Soldiers," marched to the theater where several hundred men and women had gathered. Police were on hand to prevent the entertainment.

When the doors opened the crowd was so great that the police were swept aside and about 1,000 entered the theater. More police were sent to the scene, and, after threatening to tear down the screen, the sponsors of the show agreed to call it off. Those arrested were charged with disorderly conduct.

JOHN EGGERT, 83, VETERAN OF '61, TAKEN BY DEATH

John Eggert, 83 years old, a civil war veteran and retired farmer from the Glen View section, died yesterday at the home of his son, A. J. Eggert, 2111 Wesley avenue, Evanston. Funeral services will be held tomorrow afternoon from the chapel in Glen View, with burial in Glen View cemetery. He is survived by his widow, Sophia, 72 years old, and nine children. They range in ages from 24 to 51. There are five sons, including A. J. Eggert. They are Fred M. and H. J., also of Evanston; H. M. of Kenilworth, and William C. of Sacramento, Cal. The daughters are Mrs. Robert Burger, Mrs. Anna Raschker, and Mrs. Herman Scherer of Evanston, and Mrs. Ira B. Gibson of Sacramento, Cal.

Physician's Wife Ends Life with Sleeping Powders

Mrs. Charles Conrad Miller, wife of a physician living at 48 East Elm street, was found dead early this morning in the bedroom of their home, having swallowed an excessive quantity of sleeping powders. She left two notes, police said, one indicating her wishes for funeral plans and the other bidding farewell to her husband. Dr. Miller said she had been in ill health for five years and had been in various sanitariums for treatment.

JOHN KIRCHMAYER, FAMED WOOD CARVER OF CAMBRIDGE, DIES

Cambridge, Mass., Nov. 30.—[Special.]—John Kirchmayer, famed wood carver of Cambridge, whose religious statues adorn churches in nearly every section of this country, and one of the founders of the Society of Arts and Crafts, is dead in East Cambridge. He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Burbett Kirchmayer.

Born in Oberammergau, the scene of the Passion Play, 70 years ago, in the years of 1870 and 1871 he played the part of Joseph in the world famed religious spectacles. He came to this country 50 years ago and settled in Cambridge, where for many years he has maintained his studio.

One of his most recent works in church figures is the St. Augustine of Hippo [354-430], African born church father, portrayed in oak for the Washington, D. C., cathedral.

Three Children Burned to Death in Box Car Home

Byron, Ill., Nov. 30.—[Special.]—Betty Jane, 2; Pauline, age 5, and Ethel Marie, aged three weeks, daughters of Ira Himes, section worker, burned to death in their box car home at Oregon, Ill., this morning. Himes threw his wife out of the window. She was saved. A small wood stove exploded, causing the fire.

AVOID UGLY PIMPLES

Does a pimply face embarrass you? Get a package of Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets. The skin should begin to clear after you have taken the tablets a few nights, if you are like thousands of others.

Help cleanse the blood, bowels and liver with Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets, the successful substitute for calomel; there's no sickness or pain after taking them.

Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets do that which calomel does and just as effectively, but their action is gentle and safe instead of severe and irritating.

Thousands who take Olive Tablets are never cursed with a "dark brown taste," a bad breath, a dull, listless, "no good" feeling, constipation, torpid liver, bad disposition, pimply face.

Olive Tablets are a purely vegetable compound; known by their olive color. Dr. Edwards spent years among patients afflicted with liver and bowel complaints and Olive Tablets are the immensely effective result. Take nightly for a week. See how much better you feel and look. 15c, 30c, 60c.

Doris Blake Advises Girls Affairs of Heart and Home

By Royal Command

BY DORNFORD YATES

SYNOPSIS.

Richard Chandos and his wife Leonie, former grand duchess of Reichtenburg, are visited at their estate near Littai, in Austria, by George Hanbury. A telegram arrives from Marya Salm, countess of Dresden, an expected guest, stating that she dare not come. Prince Paul, ruler of Reichtenburg, had hoped to marry Leonie and was incensed at her marriage to Chandos. Fearing for Marya's safety because of her friendship for Leonie, of Reichtenburg, where Marya resides. Because of the enmity of the prince they must enter the country in stealth. They drive to the frontier and leave Rowley with the car at a farm and proceed by foot. They befriend a peasant named Ramon who, in gratitude, leads them over the border by a secret path under a waterfall. In the town of Vardar they board a freight train for Virgil and hide in a motor car which they discover is consigned to Prince Paul. Not able to leave the train before arriving in the station yards at Virgil, they are saved by the wit of Hanbury, who tells the officials that they are in charge of the car by royal command to deliver it to the palace. Hanbury drops Chandos and Bell at the home of Marya and drives on to deliver the car. Chandos secretly arouses Marya, who tells him she sent no message and that she plans to drive to Austria that night.

INSTALLMENT VII.

UNDER SURVEILLANCE.

"I trust Carol," Marya said, "and my maid."

"What of your gardeners?"

"I have only one, and he is gone to some flower show and will not be here today."

"Then we will stay in the garden until you are up. Can you have the shutters shut? Because then I can cross the lawn."

"At once," said she. "You promise you will wait till I come?"

"I promise," said I. "And don't worry. We'll give them a run for their money—but nothing else."

"Please God," says she, softly.

Then she smiled her old, charming smile, slipped through the salon, and stood with her ear to the door. For a moment she waited, listening. Then she waved a slim hand and disappeared.

Two minutes later I heard the shutters closed.

* * * * *

I found Bell where I had left him under the trees.

Now George was not yet due, for though what had passed since we parted has taken some time to tell, I could hardly expect him till five minutes more had gone by. But what I had learned from the Countess had made me very uneasy on his account, and when twenty minutes had passed but he had not appeared I was ready to swear that he had been laid by the heels.

Then there was a sudden scramble, and he came over the wall.

When he had heard me out he told me his tale.

"I drove the car into the forecourt, parked her bung in the middle, stuck the note back on the windscreen, and then got out. Then I strolled to the

We were able to make a rough toilet, which did us a world of good.

guardroom and walked inside. When I told the sergeant he said that it wasn't his business and that I must speak to the porter at the head of some entrance steps. Well, that didn't suit me at all, so I picked up the telephone and asked to speak to the mews. The sergeant began to bristle, but I said that I'd traveled all night to deliver that car and that any sort of obstruction I should report to the Prince. That fixed him, and though he looked pretty surly he let me be. I don't know who spoke from the mews, but I said that the car was in the forecourt and advised them to come round and get her and wash her face. Then I stalked out of the guardroom and out of the palace gates. Very childish, you know, but my respiration was better the moment I got outside.

"Well, the river side wasn't crowded. I only met six people and a couple of vans. Nor was the Lessing strasse. Not crowded. But is wasn't empty, my son. Two fellows were standing talking at Marya's door. One was a red headed footman and the other—well, he had a broom and barrow and should have been sweeping the street. I couldn't get over the wall while they were there, so I casually crossed the strasse and walked straight on. I meant to stroll round the block and then see if they'd gone. But I got an idea and went further. The Lessing strasse is the only street that's been watered. If you remember, we saw the watering cart. More. It's also the cleanest street of the five I took the trouble to try. The others aren't foul, but there's not a loose leaf in this. And the wallah with the broom is still sweeping. When I last saw him he was brushing the trunks of the trees."

"Observation and collusion," said I.

"That's right," said George. "We're obviously expected. And I'll lay you a bank to a biscuit that Marya won't be permitted to leave the country today."

"Why not?" said I.

"Because she's the decoy. Once she's gone there's nothing to bring us. So we haven't lost our labor. They damned well meant to keep her until we came. They may let her go if they get us, but I guess they want Leonie, too."

"You're not very cheerful," said I.

"I don't feel very cheerful," said George. "Ever since you said 'Grieg I've had that sinking feeling you read of in books. I can bear the police—with an effort; provided he stands well back, I can even stomach Prince Paul; but Grieg as chief constable makes my blood run cold. Never mind. Let's clean the outside of the platter. What's the matter with that tap?"

There was a tap in the bushes to serve the gardener's needs and, thanks to the gear Bell had carried, we were able to make a rough toilet which did us a world of good.

Then we ate some food and began to discuss the position, which, perhaps because the flesh had been served, proved to be less depressing than it had seemed. Indeed, comparing it with that which we had expected to find, we counted ourselves well off, for we were in touch with the Countess, and though she was under surveillance, she was under no sort of arrest. Provided, therefore, that our presence was not suspected, we had, all four, a good chance of leaving the country that night, for she had a car and we knew the way to go, and though some women would have jibbed at passing beneath the fall, Marya Dresden's courage was of another sort.

Now she had told her chauffeur that we should meet her at Bariche at three o'clock. At two o'clock then, or soon after, she must drive out of Vigil and take the Austrian road. If George was right, she would be stopped at Klis, the principal frontier post. Once stopped, it was all important that she should waste time—for leave before dark we could not—yet give no cause for suspicion by what she did. She must, therefore, protest and argue and endeavor to telephone and, after that, she must drive to another post and seek to go by. When it was dusk she could return to Vigil, as though disheartened by her failures to pass the guards, and then we could all leave together and drive for the bridle path.

We were going over this plan and debating its weaker points when we saw my lady coming with a posy of flowers she had picked.

Marya was very good to look at, and the plain black dress she was wearing suited her very well. Her fine short hair was golden and her skin like that of a child, and when we rose out of the bushes I shall always remember how pretty a picture she made.

She stood very still, with her delicate lips parted and the bright flowers caught up to her breast and her head half turned to the house, as though she were fearful that one of the servants would come. The trees were thick with foliage, but little shafts of sunshine that had found their way past the leaves were striking her slim figure and playing with the silk of her stockings and the lights in her beautiful hair.

George stepped to where she was standing and put her hand up to his lips.

"It's as well we came," he said, quietly. Your house is watched, Marya."

"That's because they expect you," she said.

"No doubt," said George. "But until they've seen us roll up they won't let you go. And I don't like your red haired footman. He may be all right, but half an hour ago he was having a word with the police."

Marya caught her breath. Then:

"That's the chauffeur," she said. "He's the only one with red hair."

Our precious plan was crumbling. We dared not trust the Countess to a man in the enemy's pay.

"Bell must drive her," said I. "It's the only way."

"And you?" said Marya, quietly.

When we told her what we proposed she shook her head.

"I will not go without you," she said. "I am in no danger—on that we are all agreed."

"You're in very grave danger," said I. "You are harboring misdemeanants, for that's what they'll make us out."

"The car is closed," said the Countess. "If Bell is to drive you two can sit inside and you will not be seen."

By Mae Tinée.

Good morning!

Well, this treasure hunt starts in Canada and ends in France.

In the lumber country you meet a fine young Englishman, greatly beloved by Maxine, a dance hall girl. (A good, pure, self-sacrificing dance hall girl! Don't get that wrong.) The young Englishman's name is Tony and he's engaged to an English Diana, whose aunt has frowned on him because he was poor. He and Diana having sworn in gypsy fashion that they will always be true, Tony hies to America in search of fame and fortune.

He is very popular with all the rough woodsmen, despite the fact that he looks a bit like an archangel and won't drink with them. Maxine of the dance hall thinks he's just wonderful and persuades a visiting countryman of his to inveigle Tony to the dance hall by saying he's acquainted in Tony's particular shire. The scheme works and the wistful lady gets her chance to tell the boy she likes him. Then he gives HER an earful which makes her very sad and THEN comes the cablegram which tells Tony that by the convenient death of some relatives he's become a lord.

Home to Diana scoots our hero. But alas, Diana is not the same! She has been playing with fire. She has been dancing to forget his absence, in the arms of a great many men, and she does not feel that now, in honor, she can marry Tony. Aunt Emily isn't the same, either. She's of the opinion now that there's nobody in the world quite so well suited to her niece as this new made lord with his gobs of money.

Maxine comes over to dance in London. The man with whom Diana has whirled too often proves a cad. Maxine and Diana both turn out to be nature's noblewomen and the film ends happily for all—you hope. You're not so sure about the state of Maxine's mind when the final curtain swishes down.

Mr. Holmes and Miss Clarke do the star acting in this one. Miss Moran is highly unnatural in some scenes and charming in others. Mrs. Patrick Campbell is as ever Mrs. Patrick Campbell, and I thought her tiresome as Aunt Emily. You may not. Other rôles are handled well enough.

You will find the scenery beautiful and, I imagine, rather like the production as a whole. See you tomorrow.

Experts Debate; Will Science or Religion Win?

Harvard Physicist Meets U. of C. Philosopher.

Whether science can take the place of religion was debated yesterday before the Chicago forum at the Adelphi theater by Prof. T. V. Smith, University of Chicago philosopher, teaching this year at Cornell, and Prof. Kirtley F. Mather, geologist and physical scientist of Harvard.

It was the contention of Prof. Smith that there is at least a possibility that science may usurp the office of religion as man invades more and more the realm of the unknown and brings it into the realm of the known. That the last province to be left to religion, it may develop, will be in the unknown, because as things become known they are no longer things of religion, but of science.

That the happiest of men are not those who believe in the mysteries of religion, but those scientists who accept the actual conditions of life without regard to the supernatural, and seek to understand the world as it is, not as it may be.

Prof. Mather, upholding the negative, reasoned that it is more probable that science will proceed to a certain point in its investigation of causes and effects, and that beyond that point there still will exist the need and the actuality of religion. That science never can quite take the place of those ennobling influences rooted in religion which prompts people to humanitarian actions and thus distinguishes sharply between our existence and that of, for instance, an insect civilization.

Chicago Historical Society Starts Display on Dec. 3

The Illinois exhibit at the Chicago Historical society will be a place of interest next week, for on Dec. 3 we celebrate the one hundred and twelfth anniversary of the admission of Illinois as a state.

Among the exhibits will be rude implements used by the early settlers to change trackless forests and prairies into prosperous farms. Then, too, there will be on exhibit the crude household utensils required by the pioneer. A piano was one of the luxuries that few possessed, but one once owned by Martha Flower, now on exhibit at the Chicago Historical society, was brought to Illinois when Illinois was in its infancy. Another treasured object on exhibit is the Bible of the first governor of Illinois.

SUNDAY'S CONCERTS PROVIDE NEWCOMERS AND VETERANS, TOO

BY EDWARD MOORE.

Newcomers on the one hand and those finishing a season's series on the other made up the greater part of yesterday's program. Of the first class Jan Smeterlin, pianist, was at the Playhouse in the afternoon, Frank Kneisel, violinist, at the Civic theater in the afternoon and Frances Coates Grace, soprano, in the evening. Of the second, the Lener String quartet completed its list of three chamber music recitals in the afternoon at the Studebaker.

Mr. Smeterlin has acquired what would seem to be a well deserved reputation abroad. It was sufficient to bring out Mary Garden and Mary McCormic as part of his audience yesterday, sufficient also to keep the part of his audience that knew him not in an attitude of interested attention at what he was doing.

He has something to say at the keyboard. He is definite and authoritative, belonging to the class of pianists who can strike an occasional false note and get away with it in the general sum of his merits. They say that he is a skilled specialist in music of the moderns, but apparently he is saving this phase for a future appearance. At any rate his first group kept well away from the present century with Bach-Busoni choral preludes, the Beethoven Sonata in G, opus 79, which gets upon few programs, the Paganini-Brahms Variations and a Chopin group. As much as could be heard of it showed fine tone, dignity, and much of the common sense of music.

Mr. Kneisel is a son of the late Franz Kneisel, a veteran of the violin who devoted many years to the cause of chamber music. With Carroll Hollister at the piano, he began his program with the Brahms Sonata in A, playing it in sane, rhythmic, and likeable fashion. Later numbers included the Mendelssohn Concerto, a group of short numbers, and the Sarasate "Zigeunerweisen."

The Lener quartet said good-by through the means of Haydn, Schumann, and Dvorak. As on their other appearances, they made themselves prominent through excellent tone and the sense of ensemble that come partly through innate feeling and greatly through practice.

Mrs. Grace's program dashed about over quite a territory of operatic excerpts of varied styles into lieder, from there into old French works and back again into American folk song as found in the Kentucky mountains. It was said that she used to be a diseuse and is now engaged in bridging the gap between that form of art and song. Certainly she projected her texts with considerable clarity and attention to their mood, but they continued to be somewhat more of a literary expression than that of the expert singer of songs.

Budding operatic talent in Chicago would seem to be in a slump. At least the 1930 contests for the Chicago Civic Opera European scholarships have been concluded without an award. The judges voted unanimously that none of the contestants qualified under the terms of the foundation. Among other requirements, it is in all cases necessary that contestants shall have finished their preliminary vocal training and be ready for coaching and actual work in operatic performances.

Londoners Cheer McCormack

LONDON, Nov. 30.—(AP)—John McCormack was given an enthusiastic reception today. It was his last London concert for two years. The audience failed to fill the fast auditorium of Albert hall, but it applauded wildly and the tenor responded with numerous encores despite the fact he obviously was suffering from a cold. He will sail for the United States on Dec. 31.

Postage Stamps Show.

An exhibition of postage stamps, sponsored by the Chicago Philatelic society, will be held at the Morrison hotel Dec. 4, 5, and 6.

THE STAGE

"DRACULA."

A dramatization of Bram Stoker's novel by Hamilton Deane and John L. Balderston; given at the Selwyn theater Nov. 30, 1930, under the management of O. E. Wee. Stage direction by Ira Hards.

THE CAST.

Wells .....Alfreda Hill
Jonathan Harker .....Arnold Daly

Lucy Seward .....Marcella Gaudel

Count Dracula .....Courtney White

BY CHARLES COLLINS.

OUR old friend, Count Dracula, vlovode of Transylvania and king of the vampires, came back to town last night at the Selwyn theater; and, oddly enough, his audience behaved as if the play were a new story. It sat with bated breath, it murmured now and then with the pleasure of superstitious horror, and it gave Renfield, the fly eating madman, a round of applause every time he went into a Jekyll-and-Hyde fit. At the end of the second act, when the master-vampire folded the wilting maiden in his arms and bared his tusks at her throat, a lady in the back of the house went into hysterics. But she, I fear, is a member of the company, which has found it profitable to carry a professional screamer on the pay roll.

Bram Stoker's novel is a classic in its vein, and this dramatization is a neat piece of play-carpentry, giving all the essential details of the lurid and rambling yarn in simple, actable form. "Dracula" has been rolling around the country ever since its first vogue two or three seasons ago, coaxing money into box offices that had abandoned hope of the drama, and of the shriek-and-shudder plays of the last five years it easily leads the list.

It carries a few symptoms of its crossroads career. The victim's nurse, for example, has been developed into a screamer, to satisfy the customers' demands for yelps of terror. Then there is a scene between this girl and Renfield's cockney keeper which seemed new to me. He takes a white rat out of his pocket, and she hops upon a chair, screaming her best and lifting her kilt to reveal an ample area of white thighs. This, I take it, was the happy thought of a stage director who felt that "the road" would like a dash of sex appeal with its folklore of vampires.

The present company was geared up for economic travel and never entertained ambitions to dazzle the sophisticates of Chicago with its acting. Still, the performance is better than I expected under the circumstances. None of the melodramatic value of "Dracula" is lost in this interpretation. Courtney White, in the title rôle; Maurice Morris, as the Dutch savant who solves the riddle, and Edward Forbes, as the raving Renfield, are especially effective.

"Michael and Mary," a comedy by A. A. Milne, will begin an engagement at the Harris theater this evening with Madge Kennedy in the central rôle. This play is the third to be offered under the auspices of the Dramatic League of Chicago, which recently transferred its subscription audiences from the Princess to the Harris. "Michael and Mary," like its predecessor, "Death Takes a Holiday," is ranked by Burns Mantle among the ten best plays of the theatrical year.

Eva Le Gallienne will stage "The Lady of the Camellias" [better known as "Camille"], by Alexandre Dumas the younger, at her Civic Repertory theater in New York early in January. Scenery and costumes will be designed according to the atmosphere of Paris in 1875, and the score of "La Traviata" will be used as incidental music.

EINSTEIN SHOPPING ALSO IS A DIFFICULT PHASE OF RELATIVITY

BERLIN, Nov. 30.—(AP)—Albert Einstein, accompanied by Frau Einstein, also by his secretary and a scientific assistant, left tonight for Antwerp. There the party will embark on the steamer Belgenland for a visit to the United States.

One of the last problems to be settled was the acquisition of a new waterproof coat for the father of the theory of relativity.

Finding her husband more than busy, Frau Einstein entered a men's clothing shop and attempted to give a description of her husband's measurements.

"Would it not be more practical," said the statesman, "to have the Herr Professor come here so we can give him an exact fit?"

The reply left him flabbergasted.

"If you knew how hard it was even to persuade my husband he needed a new coat," the wife answered, "you wouldn't expect me to fetch him here. I wish you had my worries."

Young Germans Try to Harness the Lightning

Have Laboratory in Alps for Experiments.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Nov. 30.—Like the earlier part of the Greek legend of Prometheus, who brought fire down from the skies and so changed the lives of men, reads the story of two youthful German scientists. They have gone to an Alpine mountain top to harness the lightning for an experiment.

Friederich Lange and Arnold Brasch want to achieve the disintegration of atoms through electric discharges of colossal force. So terrific must the power be that no man made laboratory exists capable of furnishing it; hence, they have installed their apparatus atop Mount Generaso, high in the Alps. From there they expect to draw down discharges of the necessary potential—that is, at least, three million volts!

The harnessed lightning will be drawn down to terminals set in an oil-bathed tube of insulating material. The result is calculated to be that the discharges known as "cathode rays" will be set up, but on an intensity never achieved in the laboratory. These cathode rays, bombarding a minute quantity of some element or substance placed in their path, will so alter its structure that the old alchemist's dream of "transmutation" of metals may find its modern counterpart.

At least that is the object of the experiment, and the hope of these two young scientists who have conceived it.

Their number was three before, but one of them—Kurt Urban—was killed during the building of the laboratory which is to house the daring trial.

U. S. College Students 167,999 in 1900, and 863,793 During 1928

New York, Nov. 30.—(AP)—Problems in considering the future of higher education in America, after its rapid growth since the beginning of the century, were presented today by Chancellor Elmer Ellsworth Brown of New York university in the prefatory essay of his annual report.

Dr. Brown pointed out that attendance in colleges and universities increased from 167,999 to 863,793 between 1900 and 1928. He said he hesitated to estimate the vast numbers in the colleges of the future.

"This peering into the dim future has an obvious bearing on certain questions that are asked from time to time," he said, "relating to the present situation and the years immediately before us:

"Is our American society approaching the point of saturation as regards the percentage of its members to be found in attendance upon our institutions of higher learning?

"Have we not already reached the limit, 'passed the peak,' and must we not expect a stabilized ratio or even a retrogression in the immediate future?"

"I look upon the limit, psychologically considered," he continued, "as altogether indefinite. Not only is it true that more students are going to the universities today than a generation ago in proportion to population, but it also is true that more students in proportion to population are capable of pursuing university studies. It may be that we shall reach a stabilized ratio for other reasons but not, in the near future, for lack of mental capacity in our people."

Northern Trust Players Will Give Show Tonight

ARDEL MELIN.

The chances for a man to escape seven determined women matrimonially inclined toward twelve million dollars is the theme of "Seven Chances," a three act comedy by Roi Cooper Megrue, to be presented tonight at the Goodman theater by the Northern Trust players, under the direction of Margaret Breckenridge Bard.

The production is a farce about money as befits a banking organization, and the fifteen characters in the play will be portrayed by secretaries to bank officers from the president down, bond salesmen, real estate officers, cashiers, tellers, department managers, and legal counselors.

BEG YOUR PARDON

In the metropolitan section of THE SUNDAY TRIBUNE it was stated in the club meeting calendar as well as in a story that the Marquette Community association would meet tonight for the election of officers. Miss Harriet Winship, secretary, says the items should have read that the meeting will be held Tuesday night, Dec. 2, at the Commonwealth Savings bank, at 8 p. m.

Bernard S. Grimes, 1743 Addison street, was erroneously named in Saturday's TRIBUNE as the driver of the motor bus which fatally injured Herman Bott, 60 years old, 4108 North Damen avenue. The bus was driven by Charles Shoup, Grimes avers.

Emily Fentress, Robert Stocking to Wed Dec. 27

BY THALIA

Miss Emily Gary Fentress, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Calvin Fentress of Hubbard Woods, and Robert Stocking, son of Mrs. William A. Stocking Jr. of Ithaca, N. Y., are to be married during Christmas week. Dec. 27 has been set as the date for their wedding.

The ceremony is to be a small and quiet one. It will be solemnized at Fenbrook, the Fentress residence, with only a group of relatives and intimate friends attending. Although the plans for the wedding are just now being made, it is probable the sisters of the bride-to-be, Miss Harriet Fentress and Mrs. Burwell Dodd [Mary Fentress] will be her attendants. Mrs. Fentress has just returned from a visit in New York with the Dodds, whose marriage took place at Fenbrook on Aug. 11.

Mr. Stocking and his bride are to reside in Lake Placid, Fla., during the winter months, and in Lake Placid in the Adirondacks in the summer time.

Another wedding on the winter calendar, also a small one, will be that of Mrs. Theresa Gross Thomas and René Paul Traveletti, to take place on Saturday, Dec. 13, at the residence of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Alfred H. Gross of Evanston. Mrs. George S. Haskell is to be her sister's only attendant, and Mr. Traveletti will have his brother, Bruno Traveletti, as best man. Mr. Traveletti and his bride are to reside in Winnetka.

Through the courtesy of Mrs. Tracy C. Drake, an exhibition and sale of Fireside Industries of Berea college is to be held at the Blackstone today, tomorrow, and Wednesday from 9 o'clock in the morning until 9 in the evening.

Mrs. Edward R. Litsinger is giving a luncheon today at the Litsinger residence at 1400 North State parkway for members of the board of Grant hospital who are making preparations for the annual Christmas sale for the benefit of the hospital, to take place on Tuesday, Dec. 9.

The marriage of Miss Isabel Bibb Fitts, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harden Holland Fitts of 220 East Pearson street, to Richard Mancha Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Mancha of St. Louis, Mo., will take place on Wednesday morning at 10:30 o'clock in the chapel of St. Chrysostom's church.

The bride is to have no attendants. Herbert H. Taylor of Evanston is to be best man for Mr. Mancha, and the ushers will be John W. Hamilton and Philip Aylett Fitts of Evanston, Thomas Carter Johnson and Robert Randolph Laughlin of St. Louis. The wedding is to be a small one, and there will be no wedding reception, as the bride and groom are to depart immediately after the ceremony for a wedding trip in England and France.

Mrs. William J. Chalmers bespeaks consideration for the Christmas sale for the Country Home for Convalescent Children, to take place on Dec. 9 at 700 North Michigan avenue. Toys, hooked rugs, bird houses, mail boxes for country homes, and "rainbow blaze" for open fires are among the things to be on sale. Many of them are made by the children in the home who derive a percentage of the proceeds.

Assisting Mrs. Chalmers will be Mrs. Thomas Phemister, Mrs. Charles H. Schweppe, Mrs. Ralph Brown, Mrs. Bruce MacLeish, Mrs. E. R. Graham, Mrs. Lester Frankenthal, Mrs. William Pullman, Mrs. Joseph O. Watkins, Mrs. Edward F. Swift, Mrs. Charles H. Morse, and Mrs. Albert W. Sherer.

Mrs. Hempstead Washburne and Mrs. C. Frederick Childs are to give a luncheon at the Childs' residence in Lake Forest next Sunday for Miss Josephine Dennehy.

Mrs. F. Eugene Ackerman of New York City is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Randolph Buck of Hubbard Woods, and Mr. Ackerman is to come on and be with them for the holidays.

Business is to take the Vincent Healys to Florida for the winter months, but their plans are not yet complete and they do not know whether they will be leaving Chicago before or after Christmas. They are to be in Miami Beach.

The William A. Yagers of 1430 Lake Shore drive plan to go to Beverly Hills, Cal., after the Christmas holidays for a stay of several months.

Margarett Sargent's Pictures Modernist, but Not Melancholy

BY ELEANOR JEWETT.

The paintings by Margarett Sargent which, with a group of drawings and wash drawings by Picasso, comprise the Arts club exhibition that opened Friday, are typical modernist in treatment, but they reflect a modernism which is contemporary and borrow nothing from the mannerisms of Matisse, Modigliani, Van Gogh or Gauguin. The exhibition will continue to Dec. 13. The paintings are rich in gay humor. The melancholia which still lies heavy on the conceptions of some of our painters has, fortunately, passed Margarett Sargent by or, what is more likely, has been thrown in the discard by her.

Modernism with Margarett Sargent takes the form of an effective impressionism and a vigorous ability to handle suggestion and color. She puts into her portraits the invisible aura of personality that with an English portrait painter of several years back was visibly painted as a colored nimbus about the head.

These portraits of Mrs. Sargent are in need of no such fantastic detail. They are whimsical, sure impressions of individualities and they are worked up in her canvas with the least amount of minute particulars possible. Enough is given to make the setting congruous, after that the person is the thing.

The portrait of Hugh T. Birch is a delightful picture. That of F. C. Poole with his marked resemblance to Twain and Walt Whitman is equally delightful. Where we go into studies of type, "Blue Girl," "Straw Hat," "Waiter," and "Shorts," the painter's conviction of the power of modernist treatment is more decisive, but the effectiveness of the likeness remains undiminished. Her delicacy of handling is exquisitely shown in "Child Alone," her robust humor in "Jenny, Jerry, and Tommy." That Mrs. Sargent can handle color is illustrated again in the still life paintings, of which "Bookshelf" is one of the most richly managed.

NEW YORK SOCIETY

New York, Nov. 30.—[Special.]—Count and Countess Raoul De Roussy de Sales will give a dance for Miss Jacquelin Stewart, daughter of the countess, on Dec. 20, at the Central Park casino.

The former ambassador to Turkey and Mrs. Abram I. Elkus will leave their country home, Elkridge, Redbank, N. J., on Tuesday and will come to the Ambassador for the winter.

PATTERNS BY CLOTILDE

[Registered U. S. Patent Office.]

WOMAN'S DRESS.

This graceful model should have an especial appeal to women with figures a little above normal. The softly falling jabot collar is most becoming, and it also offers opportunity for contrast. The scalloped outline of the skirt diminishes the width through the hips, and the circular skirt is always becoming. Black Canton crêpe, with the vestee of the self fabric and the jabot carried out in white crêpe, will be effective. Black transparent velvet with the vestee of lace is lovely, and crêpe marocain in the new rust red shade is smart with the vestee and jabot of the dress material.

The pattern, 2706, comes in sizes 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46, and 48 inches bust measure. Size 36 requires 3⅝ yards of 39 inch material with ⅝ yard of 14 inch all over lace and ⅝ yard of 39 inch contrasting.

PRINCE OF WALES SHOWS HIS HUNTING MOVIES TO EX-SOLDIERS

LONDON, Nov. 30.—(AP)—The prince of Wales today assumed the rôle of film impresario.

In Lambeth road in South London he exhibited his own movie of African advntures before 700 former service men.

"It's entirely an amateur effort," the prince told them. "Some of the captions are rather short, but that's not my fault.

"You don't look at them as you do at ordinary cinema and then turn away and talk to your friend and then look back at the caption," he went on in explanation. "Your motto is deeds, not words."

The prince expressed the hope that the spectators would "get some of the enjoyment at seeing the pictures which I got by taking them." At his special request no details of the film itself will be published.

Help Your Child Get Suitable Toys at the Proper Age

By GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

When relatives are plentiful and money is free but children are scarce in a family, the children are apt to be deluged with presents.

One of the worst features of this is, that besides being satiated with gifts, these children are apt to receive toys and playthings that are unsuitable because the children are too young for them.

It is a mistake to rush children into using things they are not yet ready for. The child is often bored or irritated by a plaything that is too old for him. This may be either because it is too advanced for him to work, or simply because he hasn't reached the stage of development that it fits.

Take the matter of trains, as example. There's the age at which the baby wants a big steady train to pull by a string or to push. Then there's the age at which his smaller muscles have developed enough so that he can fit track sections together with skill and patience, and operate a wind up locomotive, and negotiate the curves with four or five freight cars careering along behind. Still later his mechanical interest is developed and he has enough understanding to handle electric trains with house current or batteries—to comprehend contacts and speeds and circuits. At each point he is, we might say, ripe for each kind of train.

This holds true throughout his play life. Some interests will last for years—like skating. Others will cover a much shorter period. But he must not be rushed by indulgence or generosity or ignorance into the use of playthings that he is not ready for.

Without drawing hard and fast lines we can, with our knowledge of the minds and bodies of children, figure out pretty well what satisfies both at each age.

Such information is available to parents in various ways through books and toy stores. This department has a booklet listing Christmas toys and playthings, which is obtainable in the usual way by sending a stamped and self-addressed envelope.

A Gentleman from Vienna Says a Word About Benefactors

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

"One cannot be too grateful for comments calling the successfully self-beautiful girl a benefactor to mankind. I am a former literary critic of Vienna and an ardent admirer of the American woman, especially in so far as her looks are concerned. The great skill displayed in her makeup and the fine color harmony in dress, as well as her coiffure skill, brings forth constant admiration from me. You, Miss Donnelly, no doubt, are entitled to the lion's share in this achievement. Therefore, you are the benefactor to mankind. I kiss your hand, madam.

"ALEX R."

Confusion is me name, Alexis, only you had better stop that! Let the credit go where it belongs—to the ladies themselves!

It's nice, though, to have a gentleman from Vienna pay tribute to our American girls and women. One doesn't come from Vienna without a pretty fair idea of what feminine beauty is. The place is full of it—and chic and cleverness.

Anyway, girls, if father and the boys don't notice your makeup and your matching shoes and purse, your cause isn't lost. You never can tell who is going to tell the world what a swell looking girl you are. Neither may you suspect what an important part you play in the panoramic scene as it is met by the passing eye.

Sometimes it is suspected that all this fixing up and fussing about self and figure and complexion isn't getting the prize reward it should. Maybe a grunt is all you get with the news that your weight has gone off fifteen pounds. Maybe another mister says: "I can't see any difference with your hair that way." Maybe they don't know whether you've got your lashes beaded or not. But all men are not blind. Nor are the grunters or the silent partners. They all have sight. And if you didn't keep on improving with the times——

Well, we won't hint what might happen.

What we started out to say was that we have the busiest group of women in the world right here in America. In spite of their lack of leisure, if American women can be looked upon by one man as benefactor to his sex, that's something, now, isn't it?

BEAUTY ANSWERS

H. N.: THE FIRST SYMPTOM of pyorrhea is a tendency of the gums to bleed when brushed. When this occurs you should consult your dentist. Use a medium stiff brush for cleansing the teeth—one stiff enough to cleanse but not hard enough to injure the gums. My booklet on teeth may be had for a stamped addressed envelope.

Paris Takes Starch Out of Lame Frocks

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special Correspondence.]—Lamés used to be so stiffly gorgeous that they were smart only for the most formidably formal occasions. But now, that fabric wizard, Wiener, has taken the starch out of lamé and created gold and silver cloths in chiffon and gauze weights. These are as unpretentious looking as simple muslins, though they have a fairy-like beauty that makes you think that quite probably he's spun them out of moonbeams or sunbeams.

There is nothing prettier than these new lamés, and young Parisienne élégantes are just going wild about them.

Molyneux uses Wiener's lamé gauzes for many of his dance frocks and evening gowns. They're printed in patterns exclusively for him—jewel colored flowers on a gold or silver background that has a square meshed effect like a glorified screen door.

The dance frock, attached above, shows you how beautifully and simply Molyneux handles these gauzy fabrics. This one is decorated with old red flowers on a gold ground. It follows Molyneux' new Revolution silhouette, which, you know, was the couture sensation of the openings. The bodice is perfectly simple and the highish waistline is defined by a narrow tie belt of the lamé.

Note the characteristic, progressive fullness of the skirt, achieved by three bands, each one a little more ample than the one above. The two upper ones are finished by incrusted ovals of the lamé surrounded by shirrings, to which the lower ones are attached in many handsewn tucks that spray into narrow unpressed plaits.

FARM AND GARDEN

BY PAUL POTTER

Even in winter, when daylight may not stretch over a nine hour period from dawn to sunset, the working day of the laying hen should be 12 to 14 hours if artificial lighting is feasible, says Frank A. Norman, eastern poultry and lighting expert.

By using artificial light it is said that egg production during short and dark winter days can be kept around 50 to 60 per cent. Some direct rays of the light must fall on all parts of the perches in order to bring the fowls down to eat in the morning or keep them on the floor near water and feed in the evening, says Mr. Norman.

One 40 watt electric lamp with a cone shaped metal reflector 16 inches in diameter at the base and four inches high should be hung six feet from the floor and is sufficient for each 200 square feet of floor space, his studies show. Dimming the lights before turning them off in the evening is one of the recommendations for proper flock management in that it helps the birds going to roost.

In wiring the poultry house, a handy arrangement includes a three wire system which allows the lights to be placed on one side of the system and the fountain warmers on the other. With this arrangement either may be operated separately.

No more than a 12 hour day should be required of breeders recovering from the molt. An extra hour may be tacked on to the working day of well bred and high producing mature pullets or high producing fowls that have completely recovered from the molt, while 13 to 14 hours can be considered a full day for late August or early September molters. Once started, the lighting system can be used until about April first.

College Boys Call Beauty Essential to Their Ideal Girl

BY DORIS BLAKE.

In answer to the question, "What qualities do you consider essential in the ideal girl?" the boys of Princeton university gave "Beauty" first place by a good two-thirds of the school's voting population.

The only feature of news in this announcement is that the choice of beauty is boldly printed in the answers to the questionnaire. Heretofore, or to the best of my recollection, the issue was dodged and certain character features were judged more fitting above a college youth's signature.

It has been pretty generally surmised, in college circles and out, that the girl with pulchritude to her advantage has a better chance at an invitation to a prom than the girl whose appearance reflects little glory on the escort of the evening. A wholesale masculine preference, indeed, is the one for beauty. No college has a monopoly on the taste. All of which might seem terrifying to the miss nature has not bountifully endowed, but which need not be distressing to her, at all.

It is important that girls realize the great need of being good to look at. It is important that they know that more solid virtues, while excellent in themselves, are not quite sufficient to carry them on to the victories dear to their romantic young hearts. Knowing this, it can be safely left to the girls to manage their hair, cosmetics and dress to meet the requirements.

There is nothing in the world less definable at the current moment than this magnet known as beauty, but which often is nothing more than cleverness and the intense desire to be pleasing to the eye. The young woman of the age vitally interested in college boy judgment has youth, the lines of youth, meaning its supple grace of silhouette; she has an independence of style which she may adjust to her particular need; she has a wide choice of becoming dress at minimum cost. If denied the actual physical attributes, she can, if she wants to, create the illusion of being attractive, which, as every woman knows, is sufficient unto the male cause.

Except for a few connoisseurs, beauty in the male eye is blended from one part physical components, one part becoming dress and one part [quite a big part, this] the illusion of a charming person the girl herself, subscribes.

Food Talk.

The open season for corn bread is now here. Cold weather and hot corn bread just naturally are linked together and every American is glad to be near enough to his hardy pioneer ancestors to still have the appetite with which to enjoy it. The corn bread that our forbears enjoyed wasn't rich, sickly sweet cake. It was good, sturdy corn bread baked in a shallow pan, about an inch and a half deep. The genuine article doesn't have a dash of sugar in it. Those who must encourage the good old solid qualities of corn by making a sweet bread can never satisfactorily please the palate of one who appreciates the real corn flavor.

Steaming hot corn bread and huge pats of butter! Imagine them on your table. Imagine the exclamations of delight as each crumbly morsel is eaten. That pleasure belongs to the good corn bread maker.

Corn bread may be made in a number of ways. The simplest bread is made from corn meal, lard or butter, salt and water. Or it may have wheat flour, milk, buttermilk, eggs, baking powder, soda or yeast in it. The south is the most appreciative of corn bread and it is from the Creoles that we get our most famous recipes. One, Creole bread, is made of the finest and whitest of white corn meal, buttermilk, salt, butter, egg yolks beaten until light and lemon colored, and egg whites whipped to a creamy froth.

Corn meal muffins or corn meal dodgers are from the same basic recipes, but are made in individual shapes. With the addition of sugar we can have waffles and cakes, delicious and pleasing, but which stand second to the big leader—corn bread.

If you don't believe that such corn bread is good, try this recipe. Be converted:

CORN BREAD.

2 cups milk.
1 tablespoon butter or lard.
2 eggs, separated.

Pour the boiling milk over the corn meal. Melt the butter and rub it into the meal. Beat the egg yolks until light and thick. Add the salt and mix with the corn meal mixture. Fold in the stiffly beaten egg whites. Pour into a shallow buttered tin. Bake in a quick oven [425° F.] for about 30 minutes. Serve hot, well buttered.

Yield: Six servings. One serving: Total, 264 calories; protein, 37 calories; fat, 69 calories; carbohydrates, 138 calories.

The GREAT SEVENTH FLOOR takes first steps toward CHRISTMAS...

Christmas shopping on the Great Seventh Floor is like a Treasure Hunt without the obstacles. Everything has been done to make it easy right from the start. The various collections have been grouped in the most convenient manner—even the most frivolous decorative bit has its proper place. And what a charming diversity of gift ideas there is—to make the search fascinating every step of the way—and the prices do their share toward making the adventure a success—by keeping themselves so attractively low.

Glass

Luncheon Set of Ruby Glass Service for Eight—$10

Just the thing for Christmas entertaining. The goblets and sherbets have the smart square bases. Service for 8, consisting of 8 plates, 8 goblets and 8 sherbets, complete at $10.

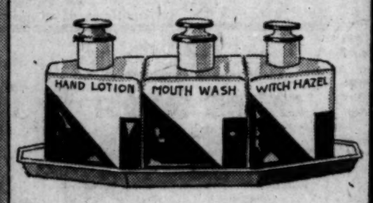
Console Set in Crystal and Black Three-Piece Set, $10

A strikingly lovely set with decorative cut bowl of crystal on a black glass base, and two candlesticks to match. Or it may be had in combinations of amber or topaz with crystal.

Bathroom Set in Glass at $5 Three Bottles and Tray

For the bathroom that likes color—and nearly all of them do, nowadays—here's a most attractive set in blue and white, pink and white, green and white, or black and white.

Seventh Floor, North, State.



China

The Latest in Queensware

"Florentine" pattern, reminiscent of the old Della Robbia sculpture. The embossed fruit border is tinted with deeper ivory, delicately outlined in black.

Teacups and Saucers—$26 Dozen
Large Dinner Plates—$30 Dozen
Cream Soups, Plates—$40 Dozen

Sugar and Cream Set Of Gold China, $10

A gift that is perennially successful. Sugar, creamer and tray, $10.

China Coffee Set, $20 In Pastel Shades

Such lovely colors—yellow, pink, or blue, bordered in gold color.

Italian Pottery Console Set, $17.50

A most effective group that will lend color and character to any setting that it becomes a part of. Complete with bowl and two candlesticks, $17.50.

Seventh Floor, North, State.

Lamps

Table Lamps, $15 Of Chinese Porcelain

The base reproduces in faithful detail an antique Chinese roof tile. It is set in chased brass mountings and has an embroidered shade in tan or green. Topped with a finial of carved jade color stone.

Table Lamps, $12.50 In Old English Brass

The smart bases of these lamps plated in old English brass are completed with equally smart parchment effect shades hand-appliqued in unusual designs.

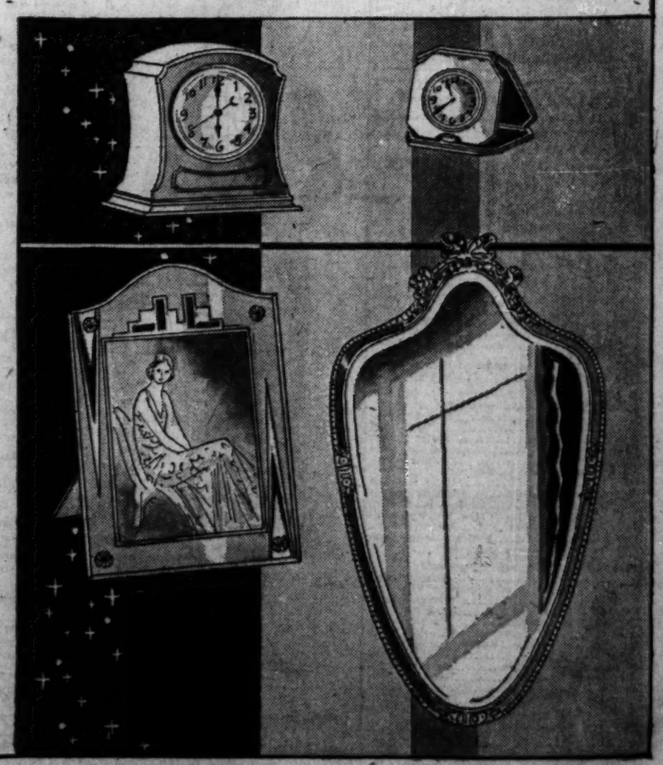
Davenport Lamps, $15 With Smoker's Tray

Here's the new davenport lamp in its newest version. Finished in plated old English bronze or enameled in green, red, or black. It has parchment effect shade and a tray with smoking accessories.

Bridge Lamps, $25 With Mica Shades

Here's something else new. The bases are in bronze and gold plated finish. The shades are of mica hand-appliqued in colorful designs also of mica.

Seventh Floor, South, State.



And Here Are Still More "Specials"

A Smoker Table, $6.50 With Accessories

It is of plated brass with a black glass top. Complete with a glass cigarette jar, brass match box holder, and two brass ash trays.

Colored Glass Frames, $5 Very Smart Now

They come in red, green, or black, and make a most unusual and acceptable gift. Size 7x9 inches, specially priced at $5.

Electric Clock, $4.25

It's the right time all the time—a synchronous movement assures it. No winding.

Travel Watches, $25

With an 8 day, seven jewel Waltham movement. In many styles of leather cases.

Mirrors, $7.50

SHAMROCKS BEAT FLIERS, 3-1; TIE FOR FIRST

BEARS DEFEAT PORTSMOUTH, 14 TO 6; GRANGE STARS

RED LEADS 85 YARD MARCH TO 1ST TOUCHDOWN

Passes to Johnsos for 2d Score.

It's Red's Day

Substitutions—Bears: Savoldi for Nagurski, Schuette for Carlson, Trafton for Pearson, Hulmer for Grange. Portsmouth: Harris for Lyons, Wesley for Smith, Meyer for Roberts, Glasgow for Peters, Weaver for Meyer, McLain for Lumpkin.

Referee—Cahn [Chicago]. Umpire—Scott [Milwaukee]. Head linesman—Smith [Chicago].

BY WILFRID SMITH.

Chicago's Bears had more success combating the mud and muck of Wrigley field yesterday afternoon than did the Spartans from Portsmouth, O. Hence the final score was Bears, 14; Portsmouth, 6, and the Chicago professionals made amends for their early season 7 to 6 defeat on the Ohioans' home gridiron.

Of course, the Bears had one advantage in their battle with the mud. They faced the Spartans, while these Spartans waged battle with the Bears as well as the six inch deep sticky loam.

The Bears won the game early, scoring in each of the first half periods. Then they relaxed and during the relapse Portsmouth staged its only drive of the game to make the score read: Bears, 14; Spartans, 6, at the intermission.

Grange Leads Attack.

And that was the end of production, although the 6,000 spectators kept their places in the cold stands waiting for the quartet of Spartan backs to get going once more. But that time did not arrive, principally because the Ohio line could not match the abilities of their ball carriers, and also because the entire eleven was disorganized.

Harold [Red] Grange, now well into his second decade of football, which includes six seasons as a professional, led the Bears to victory. Red seldom has played with greater brilliance. He scored the first touchdown from the Spartans' three yard line, concluding an 85 yard march during which he carried the ball for several large gains, and then he tossed the pass to Luke Johnsos on which the former Northwestern end scored the second marker.

More surprising, the Bears added both points after these touchdowns, ending several weeks of impotency which had cost them, among others, a victory over Green Bay. Johnsos, with Quarter Back Brumbagh holding the ball, place kicked both points.

Glasgow, McLain Star.

Willis Glasgow and Mayes McLain, former Hawkeye stars, topped the driving power of the Spartans' backs. Chuck Bennett, Father Lumpkin, Frosty Peters, and Tiny Lewis were the others well known for their abilities and past deeds. It was Glasgow who pounded through the Bears' line, with Bennett alternating, and finally crossing the goal on a five yard sprint around the Bears' right end.

But the Spartans' forwards could not check the quick thrusts of Grange in the first half, and, except for one brief span, could not open the way for their own backs. Smith, at center, and Lyons, right tackle, in the starting lineup, were particularly weak, and the Bears centered their drive on them. Later, when Harris replaced Lyons and Wesley took over the job at center, the Spartan line checked the Bears' ground attack, but even so, Johnsos came through with a running catch of a forward pass to counter that defense.

Brumbaugh Passes to Grange.

The Bears' first advance started from their own 30 yard line with Grange running 30 yards outside of Lyons. The Bears drew a 15 yard penalty for two backs in motion before the ball was put into play, but they retrieved this loss and three additional yards when Brumbaugh forward passed to Grange. Another play and the Bears had first down on the Spartans' 27 yard line.

Following a five yard penalty for a Spartan offside, Brumbaugh went through center on a spinner to the 19 yard strip. Nagurski added two yards on a plunge and Grange picked up four yards off tackle. Bronko again plunged, winding up eight yards from the Spartans' goal. He carried on the next play for five yards and Grange crossed the final line for the touchdown.

Joe Savoldi replaced Nagurski in the second quarter and aided in the interference which made possible the second touchdown parade. Joe also shared the ball carrying with Brumbaugh and Grange until Red forward

YESTERDAY'S RESULTS.

Brooklyn, 7; New York, 6.
Chicago Bears, 14; Portsmouth, 6.
Green Bay, 37; Stapleton, 7.

New York, Nov. 30.—[Special.]—The league leading Green Bay Packers crushed the Stapleton professional football team this afternoon, 37 to 7, before a crowd of 12,000. The defeat, the second suffered by Stapleton on their home field this year, was the worst ever inflicted on the 1930 eleven.

Lewellen Goes Over.

Starting on their own 15 yard line after the kickoff, the Packers opened up with a brilliant forward passing attack and brought the ball to the three yard line. Lewellen plunged through guard for the first touchdown before five minutes of the game had elapsed. The kick for the extra point was blocked.

On the next kickoff Strong brought the crowd to its feet with a 60 yard run from his own five yard line to the Packers' 35 yard line. The Packers held, taking the ball on downs, and began another march up the field which resulted in their second touchdown, when Engelmann broke loose around end for 35 yards.

Follet Runs 55 Yards.

The game became a rout in the second half. Stapleton, except when a 55 yard run back of a kick by Follet, had placed the ball on the Packers' 20 yard line, did not threaten. Lineup:

DODGERS BEAT GIANTS, 7-6.

New York, Nov. 30. — (AP) — The Brooklyn Dodgers nosed out the New York Giants, 7-6, in a National Professional Football league game at the Polo grounds today.

The Giants scored first, Campbell breaking away on a 35 yard run for a touchdown. The try for point was wide. The Giants held on to this advantage until the fourth quarter when Brooklyn marched down the field and McBride broke through the line for a touchdown. The try for point was good and Brooklyn went into the lead and fought off an Giant attempts to score.

Substitutions—De Paul: O'Connor for Cullen; Hamilton for Stotts; Griffen for McClane; Borelli for Cowhey; Cherne for M. Grabowski; Coan for Lyons; Rea for Harrington; Steffen for Butcher; McGivern for Stafford.

Referee—Lipp [Chicago]. Umpire—Kearns [De Paul]. Head linesman—Wyatt [Missouri]. Field Judge—McGrane.

Coaches—Ray Loach, St. Johns; Eddie Anderson, De Paul.

De Paul university suffered its second defeat of the football season yesterday at Soldiers' field. St. John's college of Brooklyn hustled through the Blue Demon's line to block two punts and triumph, 4 to 0, in the last college football game for Chicago.

RED HARRINGTON.

More than 15,000 watched the two teams slither about in the mud. It was all for charity's sake. The proceeds were turned over to St. Vincent's orphanage of Chicago.

St. John's scored its two safeties in the third quarter. On several occasions the aerial attack of the Brooklyn team threatened the Blue Demons, despite the uncertain footing and the sodden ball.

Place Kick Fails.

Finally, in that third period, Margolies, St. John's little half back, heaved a long pass to Sheppard. He struggled to De Paul's 25 yard mark before being overtaken. Capt. Pace banged through center for seven yards, but then the Demons offered resistance.

Cooper essayed a field goal from placement. The heavy ball only bounced over the goal line, missing the uprights completely. De Paul took the ball on its 20 yard line, but some aggressive eastener charged through and blocked Butcher's attempt to punt out. Mann, St. John's right end, lost no time pouncing on the ball beyond the end zone for a safety.

Mann broke up another punt a moment later and recovered on his own 20 yard line. But the Demons rose to the occasion and belted down Sheppard's pass over the goal.

Down Harrington Behind Goal.

McGivern replaced Stafford at full back and punted 40 yards away. Cooper punted back almost immediately. Harrington of De Paul went back to kick, but fumbled the ball and recovered behind his goal. Neary, St. John's left end, downed him for another safety.

De Paul's only offensive gesture of importance came in the third quarter, when Harrington intercepted one of Sheppard's passes. Harrington then countered with one of his own to Butcher. The helmless Butcher slashed off 5 yards and Harrington rammed his way to the St. John's 13 yard line. Stafford hurled a short pass to Harrington on the 8 yard line, but there the easterners braced and held for downs.

The De Paul line fought the St. John's forwards to a standstill throughout the game, with Cullen, Stotts, Driscoll, Borelli, and Grabowski playing brilliantly. Harrington and Stafford were the Demons' mainstays in the backfield.

A Bite of Mule a Day Keeps Primo Away—from Elephants

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.

Leon See, one of the many stockholders in Primo Carnera, tells of the time, only a couple of years ago, when Primo was discovered engaged in common toil, carrying water to the elephants and vice versa, with a leaky tent circus, at a wage of about 60 cents a day.

Mr. See states that Primo was about to be discharged from the circus at the time as a succulent yearling elephant was missing from the herd and the proprietor had noticed something suspiciously like elephant feathers entangled in Primo's whiskers. Primo had always been hungry on his 60 cents a day, and the proprietor's suspicions were pardonable under the circumstances, although they subsequently proved to be quite unjust, as Mr. See discovered the elephant playfully hiding in one of Primo's shoes and a chemical analysis showed that the suspicious plumage in Primo's whiskers was nothing but mule feathers.

Mules Don't Count.

"Mules are insignificant," said Mr. See. "It is true that Primo sometimes was so overcome by the hunger on his 60 cents a day that he could not resist that he should bite one, with a bit of salt, just as one bites the oyster. One does not formally slaughter the oyster, but eats it alive, and to one of Primo's great degree of large the mule is just an oyster. But what is a mule? A mule is nothing. The world is full of mules, but Primo was one of simple appetites and he would not bite the elephant. Now, perhaps, that he is rich, with the luxuries of the world at his command, he might indulge in an occasional elephant. Why not? A man lives but once and money is for pleasure."

Since leaving the circus, Primo has become the only approximate successor to Jack Dempsey as a box office power in the prize fighting industry, and so he remains, notwithstanding the rather pathetic efforts of the New York prize fight commission to exclude him from the trade in reprisal for the unethical conduct of some of his American managers during his American tour.

Commission in Top Form.

The prize fight commissioners are inconsistent in this but then they are consistent only when they are inconsistent, so the worst and best that can be said of them is that they are running true to their own form. They have not only barred Primo from the state of New York, but have tried to take in the entire world or that part of it which is sufficiently civilized to enjoy prize fights. Other prize fighters under the same management are permitted to do business as usual. It is not to be supposed that Primo was so dumb as to have been ignorant of the unethical practices performed on his behalf, but neither is it to be supposed that he was sufficiently smart to originate these devices himself.

His offense probably was one of acquiescence, whereas his American managers were persons of quite sinister character and very cunning. Yet Primo is forbidden to perform in New York and other athletes who might wish to perform with him elsewhere and promoters who might wish to present him to their customers, are forbidden to do so under pain of suspension in New York.

Now Paulino's in Dutch.

Such are the ramifications of this sentence that Paulino Uzcudun, who danced a fandango with him Sunday afternoon in Barcelona, must now be declared inoperative in New York and the Garden corporation will be punished if Primo should be engaged to do an act in Miami during the winter. That is, theoretically the Garden corporation will be punished. Actually, the Garden corporation is recognized as a civic asset in New York, attracting a large volume of incidental business to the stores, the speakeasies, hotels, and restaurants of Broadway, and the nearby Forties, and always hitherto when the policy of the commission would have interfered with the Garden's operations, the commission changed its policy.

So it seems improbable that if the Garden corporation decides to present Primo in another fandango in Florida in February, the commission will insist upon its penalty to the detriment of the deserving houses of the neighboring community in New York.

Farley Knows His Boxing.

Anyway, Mr. James Farley, the chairman of the commission, long since has recognized that prizefighting is merely a mischievous business and no sport and that the country cannot suffer the slightest degree from any cheating, connivance, stealing of titles

Fists Fly as Bruins Lose to Cleveland

Cleveland, O., Nov. 30.—[Special.]—Cleveland's champions and the Chicago Bruins fought through an old time professional basketball battle at Public Hall tonight before a crowd of 4,000, and when the scene finally cleared the Monarchs had won a thriller, 16 to 14.

Pat Herlihy, Chicago center, and Pete Barry, Cleveland's veteran forward, went into a round of spirited punching late in the game and had the fans in a frenzy. It looked as though Herlihy had put a headlock on Pete, who didn't like it. Both participants were put out of the game by Referee Cleary.

Cleveland staged an uphill battle to win and the Bruins fought to stop them and the 4,000 fans loved it. The new league rules have sought to eliminate most of the body contact, but rules didn't mean anything to the boys in the last half, as they scrambled all over the court.

The Bruins went into the game without the services of their high scoring ace, Nat Hickey, who sprained his right ankle. They didn't seem to miss him, however, when Red Skurnick led an early drive that netted Chicago a 9 to 7 lead at the half. Red tossed in a couple of great shots while Tommy Allen and Ray Kennedy counted the other points.

Five Jams Mark First Half Hour of N. Y. Bike Race

New York, Nov. 30.—[Special.]—The wildest session of riding ever to usher in a New York six day bicycle race inaugurated the 49th international grind which started at 9 o'clock tonight in Madison Square Garden. Bedlam suddenly broke loose at 9:10 o'clock and then for half an hour the Garden was in turmoil while riders pedalled crazily over the pine saucer and the crowd of about 9,000 shrieked their encouragement. Three riders crashed in two spills at the height of the furious riding.

AMERICANS AND FALCONS PLAY TO 2-2 SCORE

Detroit, Mich., Nov. 30.—(AP)—The New York Americans had a National Hockey league victory in their grasp here tonight, but saw it turned into a 2 to 2 tie when the Detroit Falcons, fighting from behind all of the way, scored a goal 30 seconds before the close of a wild overtime period. Most of the action was confined to the extra session.

CARNERA SHADES UZCUDUN WHILE 80,000 LOOK ON

Tight Gloves Keep Primo from Socking Foe.

[Copyright: 1930: By the New York Times.]

BARCELONA, Nov. 30.—Hindered by special gloves so small they kept him from closing his huge hands and weakened the effect of his powerful punches, Primo Carnera showed a greatly improved style in winning a unanimous decision over Paulino Uzcudun before a record European crowd of some 80,000 in the Montjuich stadium here today. The gate was estimated at 1,000,000 pesetas, about $110,000.

PRIMO CARNERA.

Moss Deyong, English referee, said after the battle, "Uzcudun put up a good fight but he was meeting the future world's champion, in my opinion. Carnera's improvement was surprising."

Even Special Gloves Don't Fit.

Carnera's huge hands fit his body, which gave him a 56 pound weight advantage over the vainly bounding Basque, but they stretch regulation gloves enough to make padding ineffective. With this in mind, the local boxing commission had new ones made for Carnera which he tried on just before the fight. They fitted so poorly that Carnera at first refused to enter the ring and he was only persuaded to do so by the local police commissioner.

It was perhaps as well for Uzcudun that the gloves did not fit his opponent for his attempts to rip into Primo's midsection were met by battering lefts and rights to the head that were terrifically damaging.

The battle was fought against a picturesque background, for armed civil guards occupied the back row seats placed in the center of the stadium and were carefully deployed in other strategic points about the huge bowl which flaunted flags of many nations. As a spectacle it was magnificent, but the crowd was largely Spanish, although recruited from every quarter of Europe and sprinkled with Americans, who were strangely undemonstrative.

Back Seat Fans Miss Out.

To those occupying seats so far back in the huge bowl that opera glasses barely brought the fighters into focus, Paulino undoubtedly seemed to be winning, for he carried the attack all the way, trying ineffectually to weaken Carnera by pounding at his midsection.

Those at the ringside, however, saw Carnera was brushing Uzcudun's punches and taking others on his glove. Meanwhile Carnera's terrific lefts and only slightly less effective rights punched the Basque in all ten rounds.

Sports writers give Paulino from one to three rounds. He was most effective in the fifth. His desperate effort in the tenth did not change the complexion of the fight, although it made the Spaniards claim their favorite was cheated and forced civil guards to draw swords as a precaution.

NOTRE DAME TO LEAVE TODAY FOR GAME ON COAST

Thirty-eight members of the Notre Dame football squad, headed by Coach Knute K. Rockne, will leave Chicago at 2:30 p. m. today on their way to Los Angeles, where they will battle Southern California on Saturday in the final game of the season.

The team will spend the first two days of the week resting up from its one point victory over the Army at Soldiers' field on Saturday, but will resume workouts on Wednesday at Tucson, Ariz. The squad will leave Tucson Thursday night for Los Angeles.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

The Shamrocks last night further carried on the happy notion that Chicago hockey teams aren't supposed to lose games. They made it four victories when they licked the St. Louis Fliers, 3 to 1, before 6,000 at the Chicago Stadium, and went into a tie for first place in the American league.

The Shamrocks made their first score near the close of the first period and their other two in the first ten minutes of the second session. Thereafter they did a lot of merry skating but were content to let the Fliers get a little exercise and shooting practice during the remainder of the contest. This generous gesture resulted in the lone St. Louis tally 4 minutes and 35 seconds in the third period.

And speaking of the altruistic spirit of the Shamrocks, it is notable that the two Fliers who did the most able skating for the St Louisans were Tip O'Neil and Bill Cousins, until a week ago Shamrocks but sent to St. Louis to strengthen the Fliers, who finished in last place in the American Association last year.

Fliers Roly-poly Outfit.

Among the things that some of the Fliers seemed to lack is physical condition. A Mr. Breen and a Mr. Moran, for instance, are so replete with curves that they might easily be taken for prosperous aldermen, except that prosperous aldermen don't wear skates and shy at striped uniforms.

There are reasons for having a skilled team in Chicago, of course, but judging from the performance of the Fliers and the Tulsa Oilers here, our boys seem to be taking off more than their share of the new American league's class.

Such performers as Bouncer Taylor, Bobby Burns, Pudge MacKenzie, Donnie MacFayden and several others all seem vastly more talented than any of the league performers who have visited the local ice for the two games played here thus far. And Goalie Timmins has been able to show up his two rivals in the cage dancing.

The Shamrocks will conclude their first home stand against the Minneapolis Millers at the Stadium tomorrow night.

McFayden Scores First.

Each team spent the first half of the first period feeling the other out, but after 12 minutes of the session had passed business began to perk up when Taylor, Mulligan and Brydson caught Breen alone in the defense zone and on a series of short passes carried the puck right up to the cage. Kearney, however, was equal to the occasion and withstood the three-ply onslaught.

The next grade A scoring chance developed was by Hill and Acaster, but all the attack served was a chance for Timmins to show himself as Kearney had been a moment before.

The first period had 29 seconds to go when the Shamrocks rammed home the first marker of the contest. MacKenzie took the puck down the side ice and failed to get his shot past the visiting goalie. McFayden then dashed into the picture and slammed the score into the net.

Mulligan Dashes for Goal.

Encouraged by their last minute marker in the first period, the Shamrocks carried the fight to the Fliers from the start of the second period.

Headley was halted on a close range shot and Burns was likewise. Then Burns and Wiseman were thwarted after a nice dash and so were Wiseman and Mulligan. Mulligan, however, recovered the puck on the blue line and skated head-on for the cage, straight through St. Louis' roly poly defense men. He also let on as if he didn't see the Fliers' goalie and

IRISH, TROJANS TAKE CENTER OF FOOTBALL STAGE

Three Major Teams Keep in Title Race.

The records of the 1930 football season are all but complete. Although scattered games are scheduled next Saturday, and the Army and Navy play for charity the week following, there remain only two contests of title importance.

Notre Dame's invasion of southern California is one; Washington State and Alabama, who meet in the Tournament of Roses, is the other.

These games involve the three major universities, undefeated and champions of their sections of the nation. Alabama is the outstanding eleven of the south. 'Bama met every worthy foe in the south and defeated them all. Washington State is title holder of the Pacific Coast conference. Saturday, as anticipated, the Cougars defeated Villa Nova in the east.

Ninth Win for Irish.

Notre Dame added its ninth victory of 1930 by whipping the Army, 7 to 6. The Army previously had been tied by Yale but had not lost a game. Saturday's contest was played on an almost impossible gridiron. Dodging, pivoting, and quick turning were ruled out automatically. The heavy, wet ball could not be forward passed. Indeed, in eight attempts the Irish completed one pass, a short throw to the flat zone for a gain of three yards. The Army didn't complete a pass, unless a short pass behind the line of scrimmage is counted. This did not gain a foot.

Under such conditions the Army was helpless. It earned two first downs in the first period against the Irish second team. After that it did not accomplish ten yards from scrimmage. Notre Dame won because its running game was superior. Within ten minutes of the second quarter and the advent of the regulars, it was apparent that Notre Dame was the better team. The first half ended with Notre Dame knocking at the Army goal.

Irish Threaten Three Times.

And in the second half, Notre Dame marched within Army's ten yard line three times [twice under its own power, the other on Army's fumble] before Schwartz finally broke loose in midfield for the scoring run. Carideo place kicked the winning point. The Army's touchdown was certainly legitimate, but it was a bit back handed, involving a blocked kick. The Army nullified in one play all Notre Dame had striven to accomplish for almost three quarters.

The touchdown after a blocked kick is lucky business at best. Blocking the kick is not luck, but the location of the ball afterward is. Had Carideo been standing on his goal line yesterday when he kicked instead of on Notre Dame's ten yard line, the ball would have bounded out of the end zone, and even if Trice had recovered for the Army, it would only have been a safety and two points. Thus Notre Dame would have won, 7 to 2. This happened last week when Illinois blocked Ohio State's kick.

Trojans Beaten Once.

Southern California, Notre Dame's opponent next Saturday at Los Angeles, has lost one game. Washington State defeated the Trojans, 7 to 6, early in October. Washington States scored first, but the Trojans marched the length of the gridiron to score in the fourth period, only to fail on the try for the tying point. There is a general impression that Southern California is the better team now, judging by its impressive victories over Stanford, California, and Washington. The Trojans won from Washington by five touchdowns; Washington State beat Washington by three points.

Dartmouth, which had divided eastern honors with the Army on undefeated records, Saturday fell before Stanford's heavy artillery at Palo Alto, Cal. Dartmouth made a great fight out of the game, coming from behind to tie 7 to 7, losing when the Cardinal paraded 59 yards in the fourth quarter for a second touchdown.

Drake surprised the east Saturday by whipping Temple, 49 to 20. Another Iowa university [Iowa State] did not fare so well in its intersectional game, losing to Loyola of New Orleans, 14 to 7.

NORTH CENTRAL LOOP ABANDONS ALL-STAR TEAMS

The North Central conference, at its annual meeting here yesterday, decided to abandon the practice of selecting an all-conference football team, or "all" teams of any kind.

It was decided that the naming of an all-conference team served no particular purpose, and that, although the conference is small, such a team could not be selected fairly. The group also decided to abandon its annual cross country championship meet.

Diminishing interest in the hill and dale sport caused the conference to substitute in its place a series of two mile team races, to be run between halves of football games, and with four men on each team.

Little Western Maryland Again Rules Over East

New York, Nov. 30.—(AP)—With the defeat yesterday of both the Army and Dartmouth, Western Maryland has returned to the top of the eastern football heap so far as cold figures go. Western Maryland, tied once, is the only eleven in the east that has not been beaten.

Colgate enjoys a wide lead in total points scored with 376. The only other teams which have passed the 300 mark are Dartmouth and Springfield, each with 301. Western Maryland has put up the tightest defense, allowing only 14 points to the enemy.

Scoring nine points with a touchdown and three extra points in Thursday's game, Leonard Macaluso of Colgate, leading scorer of the east, brought his total up to 144 points for the season and increased his margin to 48 points over his nearest rivals.

SMITTY—ASK THE MAN WHO HAD ONE

I JUST DROVE TO THE OFFICE IN MY OLD BOILER—IT ISN'T SOLD YET
IS THAT A FACT!
FIRST I CAN'T SELL IT FOR $250 AND THEN ALONG COMES A MAN AND OFFERS $1,000 FOR THE OLD BOAT BUT HE DOESN'T COME ACROSS I'D LIKE TO SEE HIM AGAIN—I KNOW HE'S ANXIOUS TO GET IT, OR HE WOULDN'T OFFER THAT IMPORTANT MONEY FOR IT—THERE'S NO DOUBT THAT HE WANTS THAT CAR!
HE'S GOT IT!

or other characteristic activities of the profession. He also understands that Primo, as the greatest drawing card, belongs in New York and, remembering that many other indiscretions no less unethical than his have been condoned in the past and the offenders reinstated for the good of the business, he will not insist on Primo's banishment beyond the propitious time for his restoration.

No other heavyweight prizefighter nowadays commands half as much interest as Primo. He is not a puncher but a pounder, and he is so easily hit, as George Godfrey proved in the Philadelphia fake last summer, that it is not easy to argue that he is the heavyweight champion, except by default, all his prominent colleagues refusing to box him. But none of his colleagues can draw only half as much money, and when they do draw half as much they bore the customers severely.

Customers Must Have Primo.

Having seen William Stribling clutch and heave and heard Jack Sharkey whinney and scream, the customers would regard any further business on their part unadorned by Primo's horrible charm, as just so much further boredom.

But Primo, fighting either of them or fighting almost any one else above the grade of a box car derelict, would draw many customers in Florida or Havana during the winter and, victorious by whatever means, would draw many more in New York next summer. There will be a great temptation to put him on in Miami, if only to stimulate business for the innkeepers and merchants.

If Gen. Smith of West Point could waive important moral and practical objections to an Army-Navy football game to relieve public distress, no whimsical rule of any prizefight commission should be allowed to hamper the business of a whole community, and I do not believe it will.

Could Have Elephant Farm.

Given one more year in which to perform, now that he has endeared himself to the customers, Primo could retire, buy up a thousand miles of land in some roomy country, breed his own elephants and indulge an epicurean taste for succulent yearlings, with a dash of salt, to the end of his days.

STRIBLING HEADS FOR CHICAGO TO START TRAINING

Macon, Ga., Nov. 30.—(AP)—W. L. [Young] Stribling, who is wont to fly as well as fight, left here today on a train for Chicago to begin training for his bout on Dec. 12 with Tuffy Griffith.

Stribling explained his mode of travel by pointing to rain and to a telegram signed by Sidney N. Strotz, president of the Stadium corporation in Chicago, urging him to stop flying until after his fight there. The Macon contender for the world's heavyweight boxing crown flew his plane here from Thomasville, Ga., 116 miles, in 52 minutes.

Stribling said he would start training immediately after his arrival in Chicago Monday afternoon.

Warren G. Jones Wins Lincoln Park Shoot

Warren G. Jones won the weekly 100 target class shoot yesterday at the Lincoln park traps by shattering 96 markers in class AA. In class A Henry Gallert broke 97 to win second honors. Class B was won by Joe Donlon, who shattered 95. W. W. Sparrow took fourth honors by breaking 90 and C. H. Vorkeller was fifth with 85.

Shamrocks Beat Fliers; Tie for First

hopped the rubber right over Mr. Kearney's boots into the cage. The time was 5:51.

In 10 minutes and 16 seconds of the second period Kearney was pulled away from the cage to join in a four handed mêlée. The puck was spun on edge in front of the open cage, whereupon Taylor skated up and rolled it in, hoop fashion.

In the remainder of the period five scoring chances were developed, four by the Sharmocks and only one by the visitors.

Fliers Rally for a While.

The Fliers broke the monotony of things by scoring their first counter when the final period was 4 minutes and 35 seconds old. O'Neil took the puck down the ice but lost it. Acaster recovered, however, and shot the score.

Jamieson got in the spirit of the St. Louis rally and extended Timmins to the utmost to accomplish a save. For five minutes the Fliers were permitted to have their fun, then Taylor, Brydson, and MacFayden took the ice and grabbed the play from the out of town fellows for a while.

BASEBALL'S BIG GUNS GATHER IN MONTREAL TODAY

MONTREAL, Nov. 30.—(AP)—Baseball notables, representing teams from the Pacific to the Atlantic coast and from Mexico to Canada, poured into Montreal tonight for the annual gathering of the National Association of Professional Baseball leagues.

Starting tomorrow with the meetings of the International and Pacific Coast leagues, baseball officials have ahead of them a busy week which promises to bring several important questions up for decisions. The National association meeting, the only one for which a definite program has yet been set, opens its sessions Wednesday and closes Friday.

Grange Stars as Bears Whip Spartans, 14-6

passed to Senn on the Spartans' 27 yard line. Grange repeated the same play for seven more yards. Unable to gain through the line, which now had been reënforced, Red shot a pass down center to Johnsos, who leaped high to grab the ball and continue ten yards to the goal.

Portsmouth Comes Back.

Portsmouth countered immediately with its touchdown. Chuck Bennett raced through center and cut to his right for 26 yards, ending on the Bears' 39 yard line. Glasgow sprinted 17 yards and got away again, with McLain bowling over the Bears, to make first down five yards from the goal. Then Glasgow circled end for the score. His placement for the extra point missed, and with an eight point lead, the Bears held the edge for the remainder of the game.

The Bears did not threaten the Spartans' goal in the second half. Portsmouth carried within the Bears' 30 yard line on two occasions, but an intercepted forward pass halted one threat and the other died of its own weaknesses.

Holmer's Kick Blocked.

Portsmouth's best opportunity came in the fourth quarter when Walt Holmer's punt was blocked and recovered within the final 20 yards, but once again the Spartans failed to pull together, possibly because one touchdown wouldn't help their cause.

The game was necessarily slow. Time was called on every third or fourth play to clean the muddy ball. Then, too, both teams were penalized frequently for holding. The Bears lost 65 yards on penalties; Portsmouth, 85. The total, 150 yards, nears the record for a professional game.

Portsmouth made six first downs, compared to eleven for the Bears. Portsmouth gained 109 yards from scrimmage; the Bears, 172 yards.

Maroons, Badgers Sign Six Year Grid Agreement

The football game between Chicago and Wisconsin, which was for years the traditional closing date game on the Midway, will be resumed for a period of six years, beginning next season. This was announced by Director A. A. Stagg of Chicago yesterday. Mr. Stagg and Director George Little of Wisconsin have signed a contract for the series, believing that the game was one of the features of the conference season.

Chicago's schedule for next season is complete except for an opening date game, and the Maroons are facing one of the hardest tasks in the country. Yale's appearance on the Midway next autmn will be one of the biggest of the year's intersectional contests, but it will not be the only important game on Stagg field. Four of the five conference games on the Chicago schedule will be played on the south side, the Illinois game being the only one away from home.

The Maroon schedule, as announced by Mr. Stagg, is as follows:

Oct. 10, Michigan; Oct. 17, Yale; Oct. 24, Indiana; Oct. 31, Purdue; Nov. 7, Arkansas; Nov. 14, at Illinois; Nov. 21, Wisconsin.

MEMPHIS TIGERS WIN, 7 TO 0, FROM CHICAGO MILLS

Memphis, Tenn., Nov. 30.—[Special.]—The Memphis Tigers broke loose from the gummy, clinging mud of Hodges field once this afternoon to score a touchdown and defeat the Mills stadium team of Chicago, 7 to 0.

A few more than 1,000 fans watched the game.

Etu, half back of the Mills team, fumbled on his own four yard line and Erselle Cavette, playing end for the Tigers, covered the ball. Two plays later Bucky Moore dashed through tackle for the touchdown and Butch Simas kicked goal for the only points of the day.

PEREZ DEFEATS M'HALE IN TWO EXTRA PERIODS

Johnston's Basket Brings 28-26 Victory.

McHale staged a sensational rally to overtake Perez and force the contest into overtime, only to lose in the second extra period, 28 to 26, in the south section of the Knights of Columbus basketball league at White City yesterday.

With the count 22 to 10 in Perez favor, McHale, led by Boland, brought the score to 26 all at the end of the regular time. Both teams played cautious defensive basketball in the first overtime period, neither tallying, but in the second extra five minutes, Pat Johnston worked in close to cage the winning points for Perez. Ducks Decoy with Hunters in Full View

BY BOB BECKER.

If you sit perfectly still in or near a duck blind it is amusing and startling how sometimes mallard ducks will work decoys and come straight to a pond even though the hunter is in plain sight of the birds. On our recent goose and duck hunt near Miller City, Ill., we enjoyed several laughable experiences because mallards caught us flatfooted when we were sitting in the warm sun on top of the blind instead of in the blind.

The first experience occurred about 2 o'clock in the afternoon. There was a lull in the duck flight because the day was bright and warm. For more than thirty minutes neither a duck nor a goose had been seen in the air. To get a change of scenery we crawled out of the blind and parked outside with the warm sun toasting our back. All was calm and peaceful. Behind us the live decoys [on a small pond] were dozing. The goose decoys, also behind us, huddled together in one corner of their pen as if they were ready to take a nap.

We weren't moving around but we were talking with Paul Davis, our shooting partner, when suddenly we saw a mallard drake, wings set, feet out and slowly coming down the aerial elevator in order to light in the pond. Where he came from was a puzzle because we had been watching the skyline for birds. Anyway, there he was. Davis didn't see the bird at all. We muttered, "Great guns, get that duck, get that duck," as we hopped into the pit, grabbed the gun, and taking quick aim, let 'er go.

Davis, who hadn't seen the mallard come in and had not raised his gun, still was puzzled because even after the bird had dropped he did not know what, if anything, had been knocked down by the shot. This added to the fun of the whole situation because we had to go out and pick up the bird to convince him that a mallard did decoy while we were lolling around as if the layout were a city park with benches instead of a duck blind.

This same thing happened when three of us were enjoying a dandy yarn spinning period in the duck blind. At that time Frank Miller of St. Louis was sitting out in plain view and two of us were standing in the blind. In spite of all the racket and one man in sight the mallard busted right into the party.

SPARTA DEFEATS CARPENTERS, 5-1, IN CUP BATTLE

The Sparta soccer team advanced another step in its rush for the Alexander cup yesterday by eliminating the Carpenters, 5 to 1, at Sparta field. Sparta jumped into the lead early in the first period, when Katochvil scored twice.

Kratchovil opened the second half with another goal. Jackson and Stevenson later added a goal each to end the scoring for Sparta. Just before the final whistle the Carpenters were awarded a penalty kick and Beland scored their only tally.

The Brickies-Jugo-Slav battle was called off when the referee declared De Paul field unfit for competition.

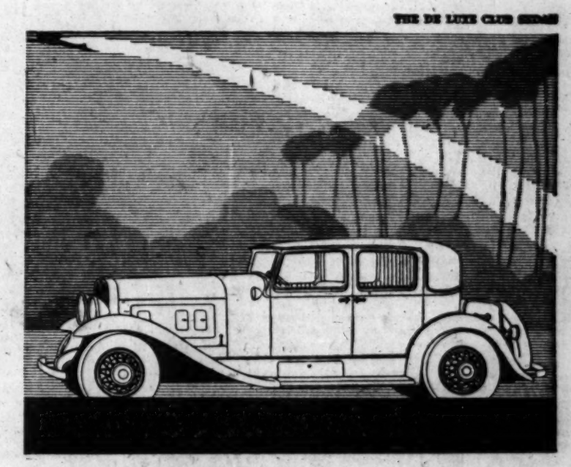
INTRODUCING IN THE AIRPLANE-TYPE FRANKLIN

THE DE LUXE CLUB SEDAN



THE LAST WORD IN Luxury

THE LAST WORD IN PRICE

A RIDE in the new Franklin airplane-type car is a LUXURIOUS sensation—a feeling of floating, gliding—anything but ordinary automobile riding. The air-cooled, airplane-type engine, delivering most power for size of any engine, provides such a steady, smooth flow of power, such instantaneous reaction to the driver's touch—that Franklin performance becomes a thing that people talk about. Then, longer bodies, wider seats—a truly lavish use of interior space—upholstery and cushions according to the latest dictates of the mode—appointments beautifully finished and ingeniously placed for convenience—afford the last touch of luxury and refinement. Suggested by the airplane are the air-foil fenders, the airplane streamlining, the low appearing body, the airplane instrument panel, and the slanting, clear-vision airplane windshield.

LOW LEVELS OF GRAIN DISCOUNT BEARISH STATUS

But See No Signs of Big Advance.

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

Grain prices have declined to a level where traders in the main consider bearish conditions fairly discounted, but at the same time there is nothing in sight to create enthusiastic buying, with expectations of a big advance.

All markets are regarded as fairly liquidated for December and deliveries today are to pass into the hands of strong holders. With money to be had at low interest rates there is every inducement for carriers to take cash grain and sell the futures. The spread between December and May wheat has of late ranged between 4 and 7 cents, although during the excitement in the previous week May and December at one time sold at the same price.

Traders expect that the Grain Stabilization corporation, the government agency, will pay for the bulk of the 4,000,000 to 5,000,000 bushels of wheat delivered on December contracts, and that eventually it will have control of a good part of the 19,000,000 bushels of all wheat in store here, also considerable wheat at Minneapolis, Duluth and Kansas City.

May Take Control Later.

With the December out of the way more attention is to be given to May and July, particularly July. So far there have been no indications of government agencies taking hold of that month, which is a new crop future, but all probabilities are that the government will be in control of it later in the season.

After a range of 2⅝ to 3⅛c for the week, closing trades were at net losses of 1¼ to 2⅜c, the latter on July.

Local pit traders are said to be doing fairly in May and July wheat, and growing interest is expected in July delivery from now on. Traders were upset by announcements from Washington intimating that the government might sell some of its purchases of the last three months. They have been doing it for a considerable period when market conditions warranted without creating any disturbance. Wheat bought at high prices when the farm board agencies first started their operations, it is said, will be held off the market.

Big speculators, however, are said to be out of the market. Back spreading operations between Chicago and Winnipeg are said to have been largely eliminated through the evening up process.

The Winnipeg market has righted itself after numerous sharp breaks, and with John I. McFarland in control of the Canadian wheat pool and the banks and the government having come to the latter's rescue, there is no uneasiness as to the wheat pool's holdings being dumped on the Winnipeg or foreign markets, regardless of price.

China Buys Wheat.

China has bought liberal quantities of Canadian wheat of late and is in the market for 8,000,00 bu more. Wheat is needed in China owing to supplies of native grain having about been exhausted. There is so much of Canadian wheat to be disposed of, however, that there is no uneasiness on the part of foreign buyers, hence Canada pools have to compete in Liverpool and other foreign markets with Argentine, Australian, and Russian wheat.

American wheat markets are considered as on a domestic basis. The farm board has 110,000,000 bu of cash and futures. Chairman Legge of the farm form in his latest estimate on consumption through feeding, puts it at 200,000,000 bu.

Consumption of wheat the world over the next six months is expected to be heavy, and is to cut into our surplus, but unless there is a shortage in the 1930-'31 crops there are indications of an ample supply at the end of this season. There are many in the trade, however, who predict that

Cites Extending Functions of Modern Refrigeration

BY SCRUTATOR.

Refrigeration is no longer merely a means of preserving foods. Although that is its principal function and will probably remain so, the manufacture of artificial climates cooled to comfort, both in homes and in places of business, may within a reasonable time become as universal as the manufacture of artificial climates by heating.

Costs and technical difficulties have heretofore kept artificial cooling to large commercial institutions, such as motion picture theaters and office buildings. Some form of mechanical cooling is employed now in 300 theaters and about 3,000 additional structures. Enthusiasts predict that in a short while it will be possible for every home owner to have, for the cost of installing a heating unit, a similar device for cooling, to be operated by the push of a button.

Cites Important Changes.

In the food preservation field, important changes are taking place. Quick freezing of fish and meats is reaching the practicable stage. In this method the food is started at once into a temperature of 50 degrees F. below zero. The speed of the process prevents the formation of large ice crystals, as in slower freezing, and prevents the breakdown of the food cells. The possibilities have been so well demonstrated that the principal problems now arise in the distribution of the frozen products and in presenting them in attractive form to the consumer.

Refrigeration, hardly a factor before the beginning of the twentieth century, now represents in its various branches a huge investment that is constantly growing. There are, according to the New York Trust company, 700 million cubic feet of cold storage warehouse space in the country. The warehouses in September contained 699 million pounds of meat, 42 million pounds of poultry, 143 million pounds of creamery butter, 10 million cases of eggs, and 87 million pounds of American cheese.

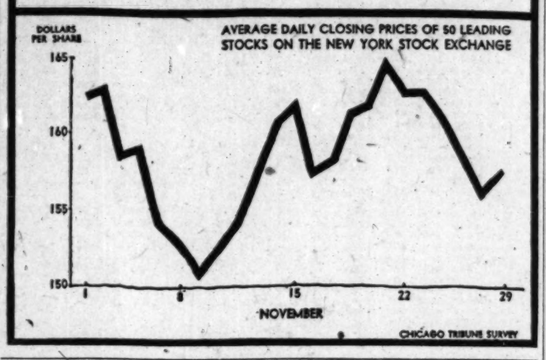
Producers of articles like these seldom give credit to the enterprise that built their markets. The operators of the houses which store the butter, eggs, and poultry are speculators. Without them there would be no market for the stuff they handle. Last spring, when they placed eggs in storage at prices higher by several cents than they can get now when they take them out, they relieved egg producing farmers of a large loss.

Home Refrigeration Growing.

The commercial units, although they are four times as large as they were thirty years ago, have not had as spectacular a growth as home refrigeration. The ice used by an average American each year is 1,054 pounds. In addition there has been the rise of the mechanical refrigerator. Gas and electric operated boxes in American homes will not be far short of 2,900,000 by the end of this year, it is estimated. Trade authorities hold that 950,000 units will be distributed in 1930, as against 685,000 in 1929, which shows that articles with a real sales appeal can be sold no matter how gloomy things look. Moreover, the artificial ice industry, making its supplies in factories and selling it retail, has not suffered appreciably with the coming of the mechanical cooler.

The demand for cooling devices is far from saturated. The discovery of a room or house temperature reducer, to be sold at a reasonable price and to cost only a little to operate, would furnish an outlet for labor and capital more important than the radio industry has offered in the last few years.

DECLINING PRICES PREVAILED ON LAST WEEK'S STOCK MARKET



NOVEMBER OFFERINGS OF NEW SECURITIES ARE LOWEST OF 1930

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Nov. 30.—Public offerings of new securities in November were the smallest for any month this year and with the exception of several fixed trusts which offered shares, the amount of which was not disclosed, the new offerings were entirely in bonds.

The total for the month was $240,815,000 in bonds, compared with $422,409,000 for offerings in October, when bonds totaled $402,334,000 and stocks $20,075,000. In November, 1929, the aggregate was $132,226,000, of which $111,299,000 was in bonds and $20,927,000 in stocks. New bond offerings in November were 73, compared with 55 a year ago, the bulk of which were state and municipal issues, totaling 45, contrasted with 47 last year.

Among the large flotations last month were $5,000,000 S. S. Kresge company 5s due 1945; City of Detroit, Mich., 4¼s and 4½s amounting to $19,692,000; New England Power association 5 per cent notes due 1932, aggregating $20,000,000, and $20,000,000 Federal Land bank 4½s due 1933.

Bond offerings maintain their increases over last year, but stock offerings are still far below the totals established in 1929. For the eleven months ending with November, 223 bond issues amounting to $5,310,257,000 were publicly offered, against 746 totaling $3,219,351,000 in a corresponding period in 1929. Stock offerings numbered 87, aggregating $696,748,236, compared with 522 issues amounting to $3,002,407,000 last year. All groups show gains in new bond offering this year, with public utility issues showing the largest increase. Stock offerings this year have been practically at a standstill.

The major part of the slump in stock offerings this year has been due to the absence of any large investment trust offerings, which accounted for more than a billion dollars of the stock offerings in 1929.

NEW LISTINGS IN NOV. ARE LOW ON N. Y. EXCHANGES

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Nov. 30.—Securities listed on the two leading exchanges in New York in November were the smallest monthly totals this year. The total of all issues added to the New York stock exchange was $180,133,826, of which $35,284,620 was in new stock, $45,040,000 new bonds, $94,809,200 additional stock, and $5,000,000 additional bonds. This compares with $611,049,606 for listings in October, and $729,989,439 for securities listed in November, 1929.

Among the issues granted listing privileges last month were Gillette Safety Razor $5 dividend convertible preferred, New Tennessee corporation common, which name was changed from Tennessee Copper and Chemical company; new no par Sterling Securities corporation preferred stock replacing the $20 par stock, $15,000,000 California Packing corporation 10 year convertible 5 per cent debentures due 1940, and $10,000,000 City of Sydney, New South Wales, Australia, 5½s due 1955.

MIDDLE WEST UTIL. ATTAINS DIGNITY OF BILLION DOLLAR RANK

Middle West Utilities company, big holding firm in the Insull utility system, has joined the billion dollar class of American corporations. This was disclosed by the company's manual of securities just issued. As of June 30, last, outstanding securities of the company in the hands of the public totaled $1,119,717,011.

Since June 30, 1929, the outstanding securities of the company have increased $224,315,520. This gain is accounted for by President Martin J. Insull by the acquisition of two major group of properties and the heavy construction which has been pursued by the company. Of the securities outstanding $581,625,264 represents bonds and $538,091,747 represents stocks.

Sees $50,000,000 Wastage of Natural Gas This Year

More than $50,000,000 worth of natural gas will be wasted this year in the United States in connection with bringing crude oil to the surface, according to the statement of Republic Shares corporation of Chicago.

National City Bank Sees Depression Nearing an End

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Nov. 30.—The fact that the current business depression has been in progress more than fifteen months and has resulted in a drop in business some 35 per cent below the peak warrants the assumption that the decline is nearing its end, according to the current issue of the National City bank's bulletin. The basis of prosperity is laid in periods of depression, the bank asserts, just as the basis of every depression is laid in the preceding period of prosperity.

"We have to remember in times like these," the bank says, "that the influences of depression are cumulative and that it is the usual thing for the outlook to appear more and more unpromising in inverse proportion as the depression nears its end. At the first onset of depression only a few lines are apt to be affected. Gradually as production falls off and purchasing power is curtailed, other lines are involved.

Disturbance Spreads.

"These lines affect other lines, and so the disturbance spreads. As production lessens, profits are diminished, causing a decline in security values which not only inflicts financial loss upon a great many people but unsettles confidence, which in turn hurts business some more and contributes to still greater security declines.

"Moreover, with a declining consumptive demand, commodity prices come under pressure, thus introducing still more serious complications. Since prices never fall equally, business is checked because of the inability of the different groups of producers and consumers to trade freely with each other. And as the price decline continues, the circle of disturbance grows constantly wider, involving in varying degree wages, rents, land values, and finally the credit structure itself which rests in the last analysis upon the basis of values.

Comes the Remedy.

"It is at such times that we correct the mistakes and remedy the abuses of inflation. Costs of doing business are reduced. Surplus stocks are gradually absorbed and shortages begin to appear. Old debts are paid and funds for new enterprise commence to accumulate. Gradually the weak spots are eliminated, stabilization develops, and confidence is restored.

"Business has now been declining more than fifteen months, and as closely as can be measured has reached a level some 35 per cent below the peak. This equals the severity of any previous decline of the last fifty years and, while not conclusive proof, surely warrants a strong assumption that the decline is nearing its end."

Reports on current industry and trade continue irregular and without definite trend, the bank says. Current statistics on factory output and wholesale distribution of goods are generally unfavorable and steel operations show a further shrinkage.

As against these indications of continued low or declining volume of business, the bulletin points to the improvement in the textile industry in recent weeks and stepping up of automobile activity with the introduction of new models.

Northwestern Securities May Boost Capital Stock

The Northwestern Securities company, investment affiliate of the Northwestern Trust and Savings bank, will increase its capital stock from 2,500 shares to 10,000 shares of no par value. The entire capital stock of the securities company is trusteed for the benefit of the bank's stockholders. Stockholders in annual meeting on Jan. 13 will vote on a plan providing that 3,750 shares of new stock of the bank will be made available for subscription. The new stock will result from first decreasing the capital stock to $625,000 and then immediately increasing it to $1,000,000.

Illinois Savings Deposits Increase Month by Month

Savings deposits in Illinois are gradually increasing month by month, according to reports of the 48 Illinois banks made to the federal reserve and released by the Illinois Chamber of Commerce. Deposits on Nov. 1 totaled $439,214,445, as compared to $433,341,788 on Oct. 1, $427,328,908 on Sept. 1, and $423,195,637 on Aug. 1. The Nov. 1 figures are $42,005,825 more than for the same period in 1929—an 8.5 per cent increase. This is a 5.7 per cent larger increase than that of the next best state reporting in the Seventh district.

COMES DEC. AND ITS SLOWER EBB OF COMMERCE

Now Find Forecasts of That Pickup.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Nov. 30.—Gradual ebbing away of industrial activities, even as compared with the disappointing picture of the earlier autumn months, proceeded visibly last week. Very probably it emphasized the prevalent spirit of despondency.

This feeling was less warranted, however, than the disappointment over the failure of recovery to materialize at the traditional hour for autumn trade expansion, five or six weeks ago. In the best of business years, activity slackens in November and December. Production and distribution for the prosperous year-end trade will have been pretty much completed. The markets take for granted the diminishing scale of output and transportation and direct their attention to the course of retail business.

In normal years the distinct revival of primary activities does not usually occur until the approach of springtime. There have been exceptions to the rule; the first two months of 1928, of 1925, and in a measure even of 1922, were instances in point. On these occasions there existed what may be called a pent up demand for goods, resulting evidently from the fact that production and distribution, in the four preceding months, had been out far below immediate requirements of consumers. But even then, several months more were needed to determine positively the character of the situation.

Recovery Forecasts Due.

We shall presently be confronted with all kinds of estimate, conjecture and forecast regarding the possible date of recovery from the existing inactivity. Much of this season's despondency has resulted from erro-

A Partial Payment Plan

for* CHICAGO "LOOP" BANK STOCKS

The stocks of big, strong metropolitan banks have long demonstrated unexcelled soundness, consistent earning power and high appreciation value.

Since banking is probably the most essential business in the world—since the earnings accrue from so many diversified financial activities—and since the future development of Chicago's large "loop" banks should parallel their past achievements, an investment in bank stocks at present prices offers a very exceptional opportunity.

Heretofore many thousands of investors have found it necessary to forego this opportunity because it has been necessary to buy these stocks outright. Now, however, under our partial payment plan, bank stocks may be purchased with an initial payment of from 5% to 15%, the balance to be paid over a period of 19 months. This enables the investor to purchase these stocks out of income.

We shall be glad to send details without obligation to all who are interested.

Building the House upon a Rock

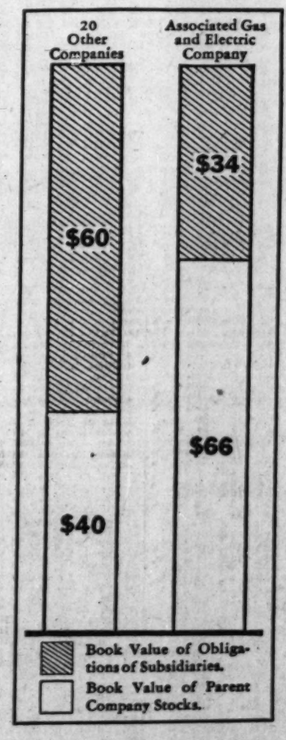
43% Less Obligations of Subsidiaries

THE SAFETY of a holding company debenture bond depends largely upon the amount of mortgage and prior charge securities of subsidiaries. A small amount of subsidiary company obligations increases the earnings directly applicable to the holding company bonds—creating a strength like that of a house built upon a rock.

The ratio of the book value of obligations of subsidiaries of Associated Gas and Electric Company to the book value of parent company stocks is 43% less than a ratio of a composite average for 20 leading utilities. This ratio shows only $34 of subsidiary obligations in contrast with $60 as appears on the chart.

Equally important, the Associated Company has a ratio of $66 of parent company stocks to subsidiary company obligations compared with the average of $40 for the group. The strength of this situation is seen in the fact that the Associated Company could nearly triple its outstanding obligations of subsidiaries and still show as favorable a relationship as that of the 20 companies in the chart as a group.

The Associated Company's policy of retiring securities of subsidiaries has resulted in above average safety for its bonds.



Associated debenture bonds offer the investor diversity—that important factor so difficult to obtain in mortgage bonds. The operating properties of the Associated Gas and Electric Company serve in 2,300 communities in 21 states.

Associated bond holders further enjoy the advantage of larger earnings in relation to interest requirements. On an "overall" basis, Associated earnings before depreciation are 2.22 times interest requirements compared with an average of 2.06 times for the 20 other utilities.

Debenture bonds of the Associated Gas and Electric Company are available to yield about 6%.

all the surplus practically will have been absorbed in the next seven months, which will be the best thing that the trade could have.

Speculative trading in Chicago has fallen off sharply. The open interest in December, while materially reduced, has been increased in May. Wheat prices in Chicago are lower than in Liverpool, which puts American markets out of the export business.

Corn Gains Friends.

Corn is gaining friends, although the volume of business last week was not as large as the previous week, but traders who dislike conditions in wheat are giving their attention to corn. Contract stocks are only about 241,000 bu, although they are double last year's.

December corn is said to be largely in the hands of a strong local operator and the open interest at the close on Friday was 13,286,000 bu, as compared with 17,019,000 bu a week ago. May is 31,314,000 bu, against 27,103,000 bu the week previous.

December closed at. 75⅞@75¼c; March, 78@78⅛c; May, 79⅝@79¼c; July, 80⅝; net losses being ⅝ to 1⅜c, the latter on July. Prices for the week follow:

FIGURES INDICATE TRADE SCOPE OF WHOLESALE DIST.

4,295 Buyers Register in Nine Months.

BY HOWARD CARSWELL.

A total of 4,295 retail merchants from all sections of the country registered their names in the daily "Arrival of Buyers" columns in THE TRIBUNE business and financial news section during the nine month period from Jan. 1 to Oct. 1 this year. Of this number registered during their recurrent visits to Chicago's growing wholesale market, 60.48 per cent, or 2,599, hailed from Illinois and the adjoining states of Wisconsin, Michigan, Indiana and Iowa. These figures are revealed by a compilation submitted by THE TRIBUNE business survey.

Wisconsin, with a total of 820, representing 19.08 per cent, topped the list. From Illinois towns and cities there are 667, or 15.52 per cent. Since registration on the part of the visiting buyer is voluntary, a great number do not present their names for publication.

Indicates Scope.

The compilation, however, is taken as an indication of the broadening scope of wholesale business in mercantile lines, furniture, etc. The Chicago great central wholesale district, which in the last few years has grown rapidly, is enjoying success in its rivalry with the historic prestige and primacy of New York.

For the Chicagoland states the compilation shows the following:

	Number.	Pct.	Towns.
Illinois	667	15.52	98
Indiana	391	9.10	72
Michigan	357	8.17	50
Iowa	370	8.61	60

"Very Encouraging."

The aftermath of recent wintry cold weather caused leading merchants to declare that business was "very encouraging," according to the weekly review of the Chicago Association of Commerce. The size of orders also indicated that retail merchants have underestimated public demand for certain lines, notably winter clothing and gifts, it states.

LEGISLATION IS PROPOSED BY U. S. SHIPPING BOARD

Washington, D. C., Nov. 30.—(AP)—Looking ahead to the end of the business depression and the time when it will be freed of its duties with the emergency fleet, the shipping board today proposed legislation to aid it in supervising development of the American merchant marine.

"Within a year only a negligible number of lines will remain unsold," Chairman T. V. O'Connor stated in his annual report. The end of government operation of merchant ships is in sight, he promised, citing statistics to show the progress of transfer to private ownership.

Heading the list of legislation the board asked of congress were:

Provision for the award of ocean mail contracts to purchasers of board lines.

Preventing the award of such contracts to American lines operating foreign flag ships in competition with American flag ships.

Higher rates of pay for mail ships whose speed exceeds 24 knots.

Tax exemption for American vessels in foreign trade.

Provision of funds for the creation of a naval reserve.

Government aid for American ships not given mail contracts.

Limited experimentation with foreign trade zones, or free ports.

A definite interest rate on construction loans.

Transfer to private lines the business now handled by army and navy transports and the Panama Railroad Steamship line.

Raise the construction loan limitation from $150,000,000 to $250,000,000.

Ratify and make effective agreements reached at the various international marine conferences.

The board proposed various changes in the present insurance policy.

Reviewing its activities during the last year, the board said although it had outlined no definite program for pay roll reduction in 1930 it had reduced its pay roll 23 per cent during the year by dropping 711 employés who received annual salaries and wages of $870,872.

Within a year, the report said, only negligible number of lines will remain unsold. These, under the lump sum agreement with operators, would soon be owned by private interests.

RAILROAD NOTES

Only a few minutes is being clipped off the schedule of the Rock Island-Southern Pacific Golden State Limited transcontinental train between Chicago and Phoenix, effective Dec. 28, according to an announcement. The running time will be cut to 48 hours and 10 minutes. Time of departure of the train from Chicago will be advanced to 8:45 p. m., daily; Englewood, 8:56 p. m., and arriving at Phoenix at 7:55 p. m. the second day, two hours earlier than at present.

Employés of the Pennsylvania railroad who subscribed to a special allotment of the company's stock on the partial payment plan last spring may pay for their stock in full on and after Jan. 2, it is announced.

OFFICIAL WEATHER FORECAST.

SALESMEN

Preparatory to intense activity this coming year, we will employ several sales people at once. The month of December will be devoted exclusively to a training program during which all sales will be made for new sales-men by experienced, qualified sales managers. Full commissions will be paid on these sales. If you are ener-getic and believe in yourself and are willing to buckle down to hard work for large earnings during the period earnings of from $500 to $1,000 be-tween now and Xmas, meanwhile thoroughly preparing you to take ad-vantage of the unusual opportunity for large earnings during one period preceding Chicago's World's Fair. This national organization believes that Chicago today offers the sales-man his greatest opportunity. Backed by our reputation, our tremendous financial resources and our long his-tory of consistent success, he cannot fail to succeed if he is properly trained. If you are a salesman look-ing for a real future, see Mr. Zent between 10 and 4.

NORTH SIDE MEN—SOMETHING UNUSUAL.

I am interested in securing about five men of good character who can furnish good references, should be between ages of 25 and 40, and preferably married.

If you have the above qualifications I shall train you for 2 days in our sales room, teaching you our methods of sell-ing our products; after this training, provided you are accepted, you will then be placed in the field with experienced men and with an assured income.

At the present time our company main-tains 80 offices in this country doing the same thing for our organization.

Program for the year is to establish offices all over the United States, at the present time we are successfully operating throughout 45 countries in the world. We shall be able to place suc-cessful applicants in executive positions in as short a time as consistent.

The above is an honest advertisement for good, reputable men and I am pre-pared to back it up. Even though you may be employed at a satisfactory sal-ary, I have the courage to have you give it up for a real selling position with a future.

SEE J. C. ZUNDEL,
FOR INTERVIEW.
